GRAF ZEPPELIN STARTS ON LONG TOUR OF BRAZIL

Flies at Night for Rio de Janeiro.

BULLETIN.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 24 (Saturday).—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin passed Maragogy at 1:25 a. m. (11:25 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time) Friday. Maragogy is about 75 miles south of Pernambuco.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 23.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin winged her way into the tropical night at 11:55 p. m. [9:55 p. m., Chicago daylight saving time] for a voyage of 1,250 miles to Rio de Janeiro and southern Brazil. The motors of the Graf began running for her flight at 11:15 p. m. All passengers were aboard and ready for the start.

The big ship rose slowly and within a few minutes from the time the mooring ropes were cast off she was out to the south.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, accompanied by the German consul, Brazilian functionaries and members of the German colony, arrived at the field at 10 p. m. A great crowd of curious countrymen and citizens of Pernambuco stood behind the police lines at Campo Giquia, watching the preparations.

Two of Crew Burned.

Two of the airship's crew were burned during the operation of replenishing the gas supply. Their injuries were not dangerous, however. Dr. Eckener before the start tonight said the airship would return to her mooring mast here on Monday. This was taken to indicate he would fly much farther south than had been expected.

The commander of the Graf was reported to be planning to fly over the German colonies in the far southern states of Santa Catherina, Parana and Rio Grande do Sul. It was believed he might attempt a landing at Sao Paulo.

Heat Swells Gas.

PERNAMBUCO, May 23.—The passengers and crew of the Graf Zeppelin enjoyed a day's stay in Pernambuco while the ship was being refueled for the trip to Rio de Janeiro. Originally scheduled to leave for Rio at 11 p. m., Dr. Eckener was obliged to delay the sailing an hour as the gassing of the ship was stopped at midday because, under the hot tropical sun, the pyrofax gas became hot, expanding to such an extent that Dr. Eckener decided to shut down the mooring until after sunset, continuing until 11.

Rio Plans Big Welcome.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 23.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin, which started on her jaunt to Rio de Janeiro tonight, is expected here late tomorrow afternoon. All arrangements for receiving Dr. Eckener and his world traveled craft were in readiness tonight.

The city is preparing a tremendous welcome. All government offices will be closed at noon and business houses and shops will release their employes early for a glimpse of the Graf.

The company that runs the aerial wire line to the famous Pao D'Assucar (Sugar Loaf mountain), which rises 1,300 feet above the sea at the entrance to the bay, has arranged for a special service by which hundreds of spectators will be able to crowd on this vantage point. The Zeppelin, on entering the headlands, will be flying almost on their own level.

Chances Slim for Landing.

Though the Zeppelin will pass over Rio de Janeiro tomorrow, and possibly Sao Paulo, the chances were considered two to one tonight that she could not make a brief landing here.

Dr. Eckener hoped to land for a short time at the aviation field of Campo dos Affonsos, but adverse winds have so diminished the chances for this that he advised by telegraph three passengers who hoped to embark here for the flight to Lakehurst, N. J., to take a plane to Pernambuco and join the Zeppelin there.

The three are W. B. Leeds, American millionaire, who came to Rio de Janeiro to make the flight to the United States; J. H. Durrell of the National City bank, and Valentine Bulhoes, Brazilian business man. They are expected to leave for Pernambuco tomorrow.

At Campos Dos Affonsos, however, everything will be in readiness for the Graf if Dr. Eckener wishes to attempt a landing. Gen. Mariante, chief of the Brazilian army air forces, has assembled three hundred air force men as a landing crew.

CHICAGO'S 1930 POPULATION PUT AT 3,300,000

Base Estimate on 35 Wards Enumerated.

With only 15 of Chicago's 50 wards yet to be heard from in the 1930 census enumeration, an estimate yesterday indicated that the final figures for the city may show a population of approximately 3,300,000. This would be an increase of about 600,000 over the population of 2,701,705 shown by the 1920 census.

The validity of this estimate is questionable, however, census officials pointed out, because the census supervisors are unable to make definite predictions of the final figures for the 15 remaining wards. While it is indicated that five of these wards will show substantial increases and that the other ten will show only slight gains in population, the census enumerators point to the possibility that the final count in many of these wards may contain surprises—either in gains or losses in population—which would materially affect an estimate at this time.

41st Ward Gains 150 Per Cent.

A gain of more than 150 per cent in the population of the Forty-first ward was reported yesterday by Mrs. Martin K. Northam, supervisor of the Third Illinois census district. The present population is 126,247 as compared with the estimated population of 49,440 given in 1921 after the city had been redivided into fifty wards. Comparison of the 1920 and 1930 figures by wards is impossible because of the changed boundaries. The Forty-first ward's gain of 76,807 since 1921 makes it the largest ward so far reported.

The increase in the 41st ward was even greater than that in its neighboring wards, the 40th, 49th and 50th, which include the Rogers Park district and part of the Wilson avenue district. These wards, in the extreme north and northwest sections of the city, show increases ranging from 40,000 to 75,000. The 41st ward is bounded roughly by Crawford avenue, Devon avenue, Addison street, and Canfield road.

35 Wards Increase 367,617.

The population of the 35 wards so far reported is 2,276,626, which represents an estimated increase of 367,617 since 1921. The wards yet to be reported are the 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 18th, 19th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 29th, 30th, 35th, 38th, and 39th.

Of these, five are almost certain to show sizeable increases, census officials say. The five wards and their estimated increases are:

Nineteenth	75,000
Thirty-ninth	40,000
Fifteenth	50,000
Eighteenth	30,000
Thirtieth	20,000
Total	215,000

This increase added to the figures for the 35 wards already reported and the 1921 figures for the 15 remaining wards, allowing for a slight increase in the ten doubtful wards, would bring the 1930 population of Chicago close to 3,300,000.

Oak Park Has 63,819.

The 1930 census enumeration for Oak Park, announced yesterday, gave a population of 63,819 as compared with 39,858 in 1920, when Oak Park was the eighth largest municipality in Illinois and ranked next to Cicero as the largest suburb of Chicago. The increase in population is 23,961, or 61 per cent. Evanston is third in rank in Cook county.

The city of Hammond, one of the Calumet industrial centers, increased 77 per cent in population in the last ten years, according to complete census figures announced yesterday by Alice Drake Jones, supervisor for the First Indiana district.

The population of Hammond was placed at 64,104 as against 36,004 in 1920. In 1900 Hammond had 12,376 residents. Figures for Gary and East Chicago are expected to be released early next week.

YOUTH RESCUED FROM THE LAKE TWICE IN WEEK

Thomas McGuigan, 16 years old, 7251 South Shore drive, has escaped death in the lake twice this week. The second time he owed his life to Mrs. Mildred Clifford, 19 years old, also of 7251 South Shore drive.

McGuigan was rescued from a patched up sailboat on Tuesday by Jackson park coast guardsmen when the boat's rudder broke in a brisk breeze.

Thursday he switched his confidence to a canoe and went paddling. The canoe was overturned. He tried to hang on and push the craft shoreward but was attacked by cramps. Mrs. Clifford saw his plight and taking an old rowboat she put out for him. But the bottom fell out of her boat as she reached McGuigan. Leaving him clinging to the wreckage Mrs. Clifford swam ashore and found Martin Bader, 2652 East 73d street, manager of the South Shore manor, who rowed out and got McGuigan.

Court Writ Protects Wife Against Nail Studded Club

Superior Judge Charles A. Williams yesterday granted an injunction to Mrs. Mary M. Curtin, 40 years old, 158 West Chestnut street, to restrain her husband, James L. Curtin, from striking her. She displayed a three foot nail studded club with which she testified he threatened her to get money for moonshine.

Bomb Home of Teamsters' Union Official

A powerful bomb early this morning wrecked the front porch and damaged the interior of the home of John Sheridan, secretary of the Chicago Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Helpers' union, at 6147 South Artesian avenue. It was the second time in nine months that Sheridan's residence has been the target of bomb attack.

The explosive was placed at the front door of the two story brick dwelling. It blew away the supports of the second floor porch, shattered all the windows, and knocked plaster from the walls. Panes in nearby homes were also broken by the force of the explosion. The police estimated the damage at $7,000.

Auto Speeds from Scene.

Sheridan and his three children, Colletta, 17 years old; Betty, 11, and Edward, 18 months old, were abed when the blast occurred. None was injured. Mrs. Sheridan returned from a party shortly afterward. Sheridan said he glanced out a window immediately after the explosion and saw an automobile speeding south in Artesian avenue. The Chicago Lawn police said they believed the car was carrying the bombers away from the scene.

Sheridan told the police that he knew of no motive for the bombing.

Sheridan has been conected with the teamsters' union in an official capacity for thirty years, he said. Last May 2 he appeared at the state's attorney's office with Charles Rickett, one of the business agents of the union, to explain a strike called among teamsters hauling for the Alwart Brothers Coal company. Paul Alwart, an official of the coal company, declared at that time that the only reason he knew for the strike was that he had been advertising coal at lower prices than were charged by members of the Chicago Retail Coal Merchants' association.

Implicates "Red" Barker.

Last October Mr. Alwart gave testimony before a county grand jury that the teamsters' union, under the domination of George [Red] Barker, ex-convict business agent, had coöperated with the coal merchants' association in harassing independent dealers. In his appearance at the state's attorney's office Sheridan denied that the strike had been called over coal prices but was the result of a disagreement over working rules. The next day the strike was called off.

This morning Sheridan declared that he was friendly with Barker and all the other officials of the union.

"George Barker is a 100 per cent fellow," he said. "I put him where he is today."

U. S. PER CAPITA 'ROLL' LOWEST IN APRIL SINCE 1914

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(AP)—The per capita circulation of money in the United States fell to the lowest level since 1914 during April, 1930, it was shown today in the monthly circulation statement of the treasury.

The statement, which showed that there was a total of $4,476,066,785 in circulation in April, set the per capita at $37. In March it amounted to $37.64, while in April, 1929, the per capita circulation was $39.11.

In 1920 the per capita circulation was $53.01, having risen from $40.23 in 1917 and $34.92 in 1914. The lowest per capita circulation shown in the treasury statements was in 1879, when it amounted to $16.92.

Police Raid Apartment in Hunt for Missing Girl

George Miller, 1141 North State street, appealed to Town Hall police yesterday to rescue his sweetheart, Caroline Manley, 29 years old, 809 Cornelia avenue, who he said was being held in an apartment at 860 Leland avenue. A police squad failed to find the girl in the flat, but they discovered an opium pipe and a quantity of marijuana weed. They arrested Anna Fredericks as keeper of the place and are holding Helen King, 945 Irving Park boulevard; Robert Lincoln, 416 Deming place, and Jake Conrad, Dale Weaver, and William Marshall, all of the Leland avenue address.

Husband Kills Wife, Self in Glencoe Glade

On Thursday night and again last night a small coupe was parked in a quiet glade at the end of Harbor street in Glencoe. Overlooking the strand of beach and the moonlit waters of the beach, it was an ideal spot for trysting lovers, whether melancholy or gay.

A Glencoe policeman, James McCrindle, observing the unlighted car through the trees Thursday night, coughed discreetly before approaching. In the car he found a tanned young man and a pretty blue eyed girl—holding hands.

The policeman grinned a little as he quoted the village ordinance prohibiting spooning after dark. The pair heard him with good nature and the young man introduced the girl as his bride, explaining they had just arrived on a honeymoon trip from Toronto. After a few moments' pleasant banter they drove away.

Finds Couple Slain.

Patrolling McCrindle's beat last night, another policeman, Peter Koepfer, saw the same car, unlighted as before. He found the couple as McCrindle had, with hands clasped, her left hand resting in his left palm.

But a pistol lay on the seat between them, partly covered by the young man's right hand. He had shot her in the temple and then sent a bullet into his own head.

The shooting must have occurred within a moment of the policeman's approach, for, although he was dead, the girl still breathed. She died in an ambulance en route to the Evanston hospital.

Identified by Car License.

In the young man's pocket was a driver's license identifying him as William Cochrane Murray, 30 years old, Toronto. There was also a box of pills compounded by the Stevens Hotel pharmacy on the prescription of Dr. Albert Howard Baugher, a physician with offices in the Stevens.

A wedding ring was on the girl's finger. Dr. Baugher recalled the couple, who had come to his office on Wednesday, the day following their arrival here from Toronto. The young man was suffering a violent headache and the girl seemed extremely solicitous about his health.

He told the physician he had been wounded while serving with a Scotch regiment on the western front in the late war, had subsequently been injured in an automobile accident in South Africa, and had been tormented by headaches ever since. The girl told the doctor she had been a nurse in an English hospital.

Letter Bares Suicide Pact.

That was all Dr. Baugher knew of the case. But the police found in the room at the Stevens, which they had occupied since Tuesday, a letter plainly indicating the young couple had entered into a suicide pact. It was dated Tuesday and addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Saynor, the Toronto couple with whom the bridegroom formerly lived. The message follows:

"My Dear Canadian Mother and Dad: We are both very happy and contented. As you know, I have at last found what I longed for so many years. Having found her, I must take her with me.

"Long before you receive this we will both be in another world, where peace and happiness and love remain supreme. My wife—my darling, beloved Mary—and myself fully realize what is before us and are both happy to go. [Signed] W. C. MURRAY."

There was a postscript in a feminine hand:

"Thank you for your wonderful kindness to us and God bless you. [Signed] MARY MURRAY."

EXTRA SESSION OF SENATE HIS PLAN FOR SPEED

Says Leaders Have Been Consulted.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—In furtherance of his purpose to obtain immediate ratification of the navy limitation treaty negotiated at London, President Hoover announced today that if necessary he will call a special session of the senate immediately after the adjournment of the present session of congress.

"It is my understanding," said the President, "that the advocates of the naval treaty in the senate are earnestly striving for action in the present session. If it should prove impossible to complete it at the regular session I shall call a special session of the senate immediately following the regular session to deal with the question. The leaders of the senate have been consulted and are in agreement with this program."

Watson Opposes Plan.

"There is no necessity for a special session as I see it," said Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader of the senate, when he heard of the President's announcement. "Republican senators will confer Monday morning on the situation."

"Are we not to be allowed to look into a matter so vitally affecting the national defense?" exclaimed Senator Walter F. George [Dem., Ga.], a member of the foreign relations committee. "Must it be rushed through like that?"

"Is that a threat?" was the comment of Senator George Norris [Rep., Neb.] on the White House statement.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Ark.], Democratic leader of the senate and one of the negotiators of the treaty, said it was not a threat but merely a plan to produce immediate consideration of the treaty without keeping the house in Washington.

Borah Sees Early Action.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the foreign relations committee, said the treaty will be ready for consideration before the tariff bill is disposed of.

Senators Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] and Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.], leaders of the opposition to the treaty, declined to comment on the President's move. Earlier in the day Senator Johnson had given his views on the results of the committee hearings on the treaty up to date.

"The testimony of the witnesses so far," said Senator Johnson, "is overwhelmingly to the effect that the increased ratio allowed Japan is seriously disadvantageous to the United States, that parity between the American and British fleets is not established, that eight inch gun cruisers are essential to our proper defense, but that we have agreed to build the six inch gun cruisers Great Britain wants us to build in place of some of the eight inch gun ships we require."

Treaty Called Unfair.

Rear Admirals Henry Hough and George C. Day of the navy general board criticized the London treaty at the morning session of the senate naval affairs committee. Both rear admirals said the treaty was unfair to the United States, represented the abandonment of American naval principles, did not afford America parity with Great Britain and generally was disadvantageous to this country.

"We have lent ourselves to the acceptance of an agreement," Rear Admiral Hough said, "which gives us a type of ship not suited to our needs. It looks as if we have allowed ourselves to be dictated to as to the type of cruisers we should maintain in our navy. We can get parity in cruiser tonnage with Great Britain. But in case we do, Great Britain would have the ships she wants and a sense of national security. We would not have the 8 inch gun cruisers we want and no sense of security."

Favors 6-Inch Gun Type.

Rear Admiral Hough said that to secure substantial cruiser parity with Great Britain the United States should have twenty-three 8-inch gun ships, the ten Omaha type 6-inch gun ships now built, and five additional 6 inch gun vessels, a total tonnage slightly in excess of 335,000 tons, compared with 339,000 for Great Britain. The treaty gives the United States eighteen 8-inch gun ships and a total cruiser tonnage of 323,500.

Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.] asked the naval officer why he desired so many 8-inch gun ships.

"Mr. Senator," Rear Admiral Hough replied, "the best argument for the 8-inch gun cruiser is that Great Britain desires that we should not have this type of ship. Great Britain has a vastly greater merchant marine than this country. She has three times as many fast merchant ships which can be converted into merchant cruisers as the United States. If the day ever comes when battleships are abolished and the 8-inch gun cruiser is banned, then the 6-inch gun would be the dominant gun and Britain would hold the dominant naval position.

Sees British Advantage.

"Every 8-inch gun taken off our cruiser totals boosts the value of Britain's merchant marine. She wants our 8-inch gun cruisers curtailed to increase her supremacy."

Rear Admiral Day said the increased ration for Japan and the reduction of submarines would place this country at a serious disadvantage in any trouble with Japan. He said that the submarine tonnage of 52,700 allowed by the treaty was insufficient for American coast defense needs. He opposed submarine abolition and asserted submarine warfare could be made just as human as any other type of warfare. The naval officer criticised the submarine humanization section restricting submarine warfare as "hopelessly indefinite" and "of no value."

Officers Fail to Agree.

The foreign relations committee elicited the existence of a complete disagreement between Admiral William V. Pratt, commander of the United States fleet and chief naval adviser to the American delegation at London, and Capt. Adolphus Andrews, captain of the Texas, Admiral Pratt's flagship, on the question of the comparative value of 8-inch and 6-inch gun cruisers. Admiral Pratt approved the substitution of 6-inch gun cruisers for three of the 8-inch gun ships which the general board held essential to our defense.

"Which are better for our country —8-inch or 6-inch guns?" asked Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.].

"Eight-inch guns," Capt. Andrews replied.

Admiral R. E. Coontz, former chief of operations, testified that the increase of the Japan ratio is detrimental to American interest. He said that we need eight-inch gun ships to offset the advantage accruing to Great Britain in the possession of more than 200 merchantmen capable of mounting 6-inch guns.

British Fleet "Superior."

Under examination by Senator Johnson Commander Harold C. Train, technical expert at the London conference, stated that in his opinion the British battleship fleet is superior to the American, but that when all of our capital ships are modernized the relative strength wil be "close to parity."

"Did America receive or ask any compensation for the increased Japanese ratio such as restoration of the right to develop naval bases in the far east in consideration of the abandonment of which by the United States Japan agreed to the 5-3 ratio in 1922?" asked Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.].

"Not that I ever heard of," said Train.

Rear Admiral W. D. Leahy, chief of the bureau of ordnance, said that six-inch gun ships are useful in fleet actions in repelling destroyers and other light craft, but that "eight-inch guns are superior for every other purpose I know of." Possession of the Rodney and Nelson, he thought, makes the British battleship fleet superior to the American. British superiority in cruisers he found maintained by those provision of the treaty under which America may complete only 16 big cruisers during the life o fthe pact, while Britain may retain 17.

BRITISH FLEETS DODGE REAL FIRE IN MIMIC WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—A vivid sea battle in which real shells and torpedoes were used today wound up the exercises of the British Atlantic fleet. The mimic battle was so realistic that the signal decks of the battle cruisers Renown and Repulse were damaged, while the Repulse had a narrow escape from three torpedoes.

The naval engagement was staged between two fleets of battle cruisers, battleships, and destroyers. The battleship Rodney, supposedly crippled, was trying to return to its base at a speed of 16 knots with a destroyer escort. The Malaya and Burnham were supposed to cover her return, while the object of their opponents was to sink her. Both fleets were restricted in action by an imaginary mine field.

The Repulse and Tiger, opposing the Rodney, opened up fire with real shells, which, however, were aimed slightly to one side of their target. The giant Rodney returned fire; supporting destroyers launched six torpedoes, three of which were headed directly for the Repulse. But the ship swung over with amazing speed, allowing the instruments of death to pass by harmlessly.

ALL RIGHT WITH LEAGUE IF DRY ENFORCERS DRINK

McBride Not So Strict as Mitchell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, today declared the league does not demand, as does Attorney General W. D. Mitchell, that federal Volstead enforcers be teetotalers.

McBride, concluding his testimony before the senate lobby committee, asserted the abstinence pledge required of prospective appointees "goes too far." He disclosed also that the league no longer holds Secretary of the Treasury Mellon responsible for lax prohibition enforcement.

The committee today wound up its inquiry into the organization's affairs. It was announced that Dr. Clarence True Wilson, chairman of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, has been summoned to appear for examination Tuesday.

Cannon Must Explain.

Bishop James Cannon Jr., chairman of the Methodist Church, South, board of temperance and social service, has been invited to appear Wednesday. It was indicated by Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.] that if the bishop does not appear voluntarily he will be subpoenaed.

McBride's attitude toward Mellon, the target for recurring assaults by drys in both houses because of his one time interest in a Pennsylvania distillery, was disclosed in the dry leader's answer to a letter from J. G. Brown of Port Huron, Mich., on Jan. 5, 1930.

"I wish to congratulate you on much of your talk over the radio today," wrote Brown, "but believe you are very much mistaken regarding the sincerity of Hoover. If he is not a hypocrite on this question why does he not immediately fire Mellon, who, with Cal's help, has made such a farce of prohibition?"

Mr. McBride Replies.

McBride's defense of Mellon, written to Brown on Jan. 11, 1930, reads:

"I note what you say about Hoover, Mellon, etc. I am convinced you are wrong in your attitude. There was a time when I had something of the same feeling, but on thorough investigation I have reached the conclusion that Mellon has gone just as far on prohibition enforcement as his superiors wanted him to go, and I do not believe he is now standing in the way of effective enforcement."

"There was a time," added McBride today, "when many people thought Mellon was cooperating with the liquor interests."

"By 'superiors' you mean the President?" asked Senator Caraway.

"Yes," answered McBride. "I had in mind principally the previous administration."

"Do you agree with the attorney general?" asked Senator J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] when McBride asserted the league's satisfaction with Mellon's appointments in the dry bureau, "that federal attorneys, marshals, deputy marshals and others in the enforcement service should be barred if they take a drink?"

McBride Not That Dry.

"We haven't gone so far as to disqualify a man because he takes a drink," declared McBride. "We think, of course, he would be better off without the drinks but we would not say that because he took a drink a man could not be a good official."

McBride dumped a large bundle of samples of the league's literature on the table before Blaine, observing that the pamphlets, of which he said eight tons were printed daily at the height of the campaign to put prohibition over, should answer the Wisconsin senator's question "whether we really used any of our money for educational work."

Through Dunford's testimony it was disclosed that the league in reporting in accordance with the federal corrupt practices act its expenditures during the 1928 presidential campaign, had reported only the money spent after the nominating conventions, failing to mention any expenditures in preconvention propaganda for the nomination of dry presidential and congressional candidates.

Dunford contended to Senator T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] that the Supreme court decisions justified him.

BOY BEER RUNNER DROWNS; EMPLOYER FACES DEATH CHARGE

Buffalo, N. Y., May 23.—(AP)—From two different sources movements were started today to bring criminal charges against William "Red" Strassner of Buffalo in connection with the death of Roman Pridomerski, 18, who was drowned in the Niagara river yesterday while smuggling a boat load of ale across the international boundary.

While officials this afternoon reviewed the evidence against Strassner and conferred on the possibility of securing a grand jury indictment for manslaughter against him, Peter Pridomerski, father of the dead boy, retained counsel with definite instructions to do everything possible to place a manslaughter charge against Strassner.

Customs officials declared they had statements from two witnesses who accused Strassner of sponsoring young Pridomerski's smuggling venture. They said that Strassner hired the youth for $10 a night.

EXPECT 2 GROUPS OF TRUE BILLS IN SANITARY QUIZ

The special grand jury investigating the sanitary district will return two batches of indictments, it was stated yesterday by First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, in charge of the investigation. The first group of new indictments, Northup said, will deal with contracts and will name 12 persons, most of them already under indictment. The state has retained a group of engineers, both general and electric, to aid in the prosecution of these indictments, Northup said, and added that the findings of these engineers as to the costs of various district projects are "nothing less than amazing."

A second group of indictments will involve former minor sanitary district officials in connection with alleged pay roll padding, Mr. Northup said.

Trustees of the district under the régime of Timothy J. Crowe, and perhaps other officials, will be named in the indictments, it was predicted by Mr. Northup. It was indicated that Trustee Frank J. Link, named in indictments a year ago, may not be included this time. Link was the only Deneen faction member of the board.

MERGE INCOME TAX INDICTMENTS AGAINST OLIVER

Four indictments charging income tax violations by Gene G. Oliver, member of the board of assessors, were consolidated yesterday by Federal Judge Wilkerson, on motion of Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green.

This means that Oliver will be tried on all four indictments concurrently, thus saving time for the court and the prosecution. The trial is set for June 18. Oliver's attorney, State Senator James J. Barbour, objected to the consolidation.

Oliver is charged with attempting to evade payment of some $70,000 in taxes and penalties for the years 1926, 1927, and 1928.

DORAN WARNS OF LIMITATIONS TO "BOTTLE" RAIDS

Mere Sale of Home Brew Outfit Insufficient.

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(AP)—With drives against malt and hop stores in progress in several sections of the country, Prohibition Commissioner Doran cautioned administrators and agents today that the recent Supreme court decision under which such action was being taken did not permit seizure merely because the various articles were offered for sale.

In seizing kegs, bottles, labels, and other paraphernalia, the commissioner warned, the government must be able to prove that they are intended for use in violating the prohibition law.

C. A. Youngquist, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecutions, who will have executive direction of the prohibition bureau when it is transferred to the department of justice, concurred in Doran's instructions.

"Mere presence of bottles, corks, crocks, caps, and capping machines," Doran said, "does not, in our opinion, prove a design to use them for the manufacture of liquor intended for use in violating the prohibition act. Sometimes association with other articles will prove this design."

Since the decision in the Danovitz case prohibition officials in various cities, including New York and Chicago, have started drives against stores handling malt, hops, kegs, bottles, and other such paraphernalia.

All Hinges on Purpose.

Doran said that the court in that case concluded that bottling, labeling, etc., were part of the process of manufacture and that as a consequence the property involved might be usable in the manufacture of liquor.

"Secondly," he said, "the court held that property usable in the manufacture of liquor when designed or intended by the possessor for such illegal use is forfeitable, even though it be intended that the actual use be by other parties."

The commissioner told the agents that all paraphernalia used in manufacture of liquor could be seized wherever found with unlawful liquor.

Three Raids in New York.

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—Prohibition agents raided three malt and hop stores today in what was intended to be an attack on beer drinkers, but turned out to be a more direct assault upon hard liquor purchasers. In each of the malt and hop stores the agents found whisky. One of them also had grain alcohol, and the third gin. All the intoxicants and materials for manufacturing liquor were confiscated, and one man was arrested in each raid.

The raids were made as a result of the recent Supreme court decision holding the sale of malt and hops to be a violation of the prohibition law.

Mystic Atom Does Its Stuff in Realm of 6th Dimension

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

"Let each one have an atom and see what he can do with it."

An almost mystical yet utterly practical view of what atoms are was expounded last night by Dr. Irving Langmuir, associate director of the research laboratories of the General Electric company, at a dinner at the Palmer house at which he was given the Willard Gibbs medal of the Chicago section of the American Chemical society for his work in pure and applied chemistry.

After telling of the various atomic theories that have been held since the time of Pericles, he said that the complexion of belief about this indestructible element of nature seems to be changing entirely today.

A Variety of Theories.

"There is the theory of the minute solar system," Dr. Langmuir said. "Yes and no. Atoms revolve in orbits, but not any old kind of an orbit. There is the theory of measurement by lines and spectrum, and there is the new kind of mathematics that explains them.

"The difference between two times three and three times two is the quantum theory. It enters into the theory of discontinuities and different possible modes of motion for the atom.

"Here the whole thing is a continum like light and has wave length. The electron is not a point, but waves. We get the same equasions in all these theories.

"What does it mean? Do we need to know what atoms are like?

Into the Higher Dimensions.

"The latest theory of the hydrogen atom is best expressed in waves in three dimensional space. The helium atom can't be described in three dimensional space, but can only be described mathematically with six dimensional space.

"Of what use is it all? It is of definite use. It has worked out a model. We must not think we can find out what the atom is really like. It is a sort of human invention. We are part of the experiment, the atom and ourselves. We must form an abstraction, say that nature is far too complicated, and make a model which works. We want advanced models and simpler ones for everyday use.

"It was in 1895, when the X-ray and radio activity came, that the old ideas about the atom took a radical change. The electron was found the common constituent of the atom. The electron is a particle of negative electricity. Whether this is matter or electricity is not talked about now. People don't talk about matter any more. It's all mixed up and nobody worries about it.

Two Cents; Two Thousand Years.

"You say you have seen a shooting star? No, you have only seen the light that comes from it. Here is a brass tube and in it you can see a flash of light when each helium atom strikes a screen. There is two cents' worth of radium there and it will last two thousand years. It is giving off helium atoms at the rate of thirty thousand miles a second.

"You can count these atoms. You can get a atom to ring a bell every time it goes through a hole. It can be put on an amplifier and you can hear it click here. There is no doubt about the size of atoms. They are so small that if you take a baseball and magnify it to the size of the earth you will find the atoms the size of baseballs. Or, count the atoms in a baseball. The number will be the same as the number in the earth if the earth were made out of baseballs.

"The molecules in that glass of water, if made into grains of sand, would give enough to build a roadway from here to San Francisco twenty thousand miles wide.

"We must work with atoms and become familiar with them. In atomic structure, having found the electron, the negative electricity, it followed that there must be positive electricity to make the balance. If not, well, in one drop of water there is energy as explosive as one million tons of dynamite. Rutherford found the positive electricity in the nucleus. It preserves identity of the atoms. In radio activity there is a new order of motion that involves the nucleus."

More Light for World.

Just what working in such fundamentals has brought to the world was explained by Dr. Karl T. Compton of Princeton, who is soon to become head of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and by Dr. Julius Stieglitz, head of the chemistry department of Chicago university. They told of Dr. Langmuir's work, and Dr. Steigitz, himself a medal holder, presented the award this year.

Dr. Langmuir's work, according to these speakers, has increased the lighting facilities of the world. He made possible the fixed brilliant lights which turn night into day.

"That saves the American people a million dollars every night," said Dr. Steiglitz. "His development of a letter radio tube has aided in knitting the world together. He developed the atomic hydrogen arc flame which welds steel with steel. The new refrigeration system also makes use of this. He is an idealist devoted to the truth of facts."

Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities company; President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin; Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, and Dean Ralph Heilman of Northwestern university responded to toasts. Mr. Insull said that the electric light and power industry depends upon such men as Langmuir for constantly improving and cheapening service.

FATAL AIR CRASH LAID TO PILOT'S EFFORT TO LAND

Woman Passenger Ill, Schroeder Finds.

Investigation of the airplane accident near Crawfordsville, Ind., early yesterday which resulted in the death of a Chicago pilot, disclosed that the pilot was apparently attempting to land because one of his passengers, Mrs. Louise McCusker of the Dewitt hotel, became ill and hysterical. This statement was made last night by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, manager of Curtiss-Wright flying service here, who went to Crawfordsville to conduct an investigation.

Mrs. McCusker, accompanied by her physician, Dr. Frederick Harvey of the North Chicago hospital, chartered the plane, a Curtiss-Robin cabin plane powered by a Challenger motor, Thursday night to fly to Valdosa, Ga., where her mother, Mrs. R. B. Stothardt, is near death from injuries received in an auto accident.

Nervous at Start of Trip.

Mrs. McCusker was extremely nervous when she boarded the plane at Chicago, Maj. Schroeder said. Inspection of the wreckage at the Waynetown, Ind., government emergency landing field showed the plane had plenty of gasoline and there was no indication of motor failure, according to Schroeder and a department of commerce inspector. The pilot, Harold Mayer, 25 years old, of Lake Forest, was killed when the plane crashed after brushing a wing on a tree left in the middle of the field. The tree was being removed yesterday, Schroeder said.

Doctor Blames Engine Trouble.

A different story was told by Dr. Harvey, who said that the engine sputtered while flying over Waynetown and that Mayer, after working frantically with the controls, headed for open country, losing altitude the while. Dr. Harvey chartered another plane and continued the journey. He landed in Atlanta, Ga., last evening and continued to Valdosa by auto. Mrs. McCusker will recover from her injuries, it was stated at Crawfordsville.

ONE ARMED MAN FIRES AT MALTA'S PREMIER, MISSES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—The man who fired today at Lord Strickland, Malta's prime minister, gave his name as Miller, and is said to be an Englishman. Three shots were fired, but all missed Lord Strickland.

Lord Strickland was born in Malta and has been a member of the British house of commons. He has been involved recently in a curious medieval dispute between church and state.

Although a Catholic himself he refused to support one of the religious orders in deporting a rebellious monk to Sicily, declaring that no British subject could be deported from home by a foreign power. The Vatican intervened and tried to make peace, but was unsuccessful.

Finally the local bishop of Gozo took a hand, declaring it was a moral sin for any member of the church to vote for Lord Strickland or to attend a race meeting organized by the club which Lord Strickland heads.

COMMITTEE ASKS COUNCIL'S O. K. ON HARBOR PLAN

List 5 Main Projects of Putnam Report.

The plan for harbor development in the Chicago metropolitan area which was prepared by the Commercial club three years ago was recommended to the city council for adoption yesterday by the council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges. The committee accepted the report in its original form with the exception of changes in the use to be made of the proposed harbor in Lake Calumet. The Commercial club's report was prepared by Maj. Rufus W. Putnam after two years of study and an expenditure of $50,000.

It is proposed, according to Ald. Guy Guernsey [6th], the committee chairman, to make the plan the basis of a harbor development to handle the expected freight movement along the lakes-gulf and St. Lawrence-great lakes waterways. The proposed use of the plan, according to Guernsey, will be comparable with the work of the Chicago plan commission in designing the city's inland improvements.

Five Main Projects Listed.

Five main projects, with several stages of construction for each, are recommended in the report. They are summarized in the report as follows:

1. It is proposed to center at Navy pier an intensified harbor development for lake and ocean going vessels which furnish passenger and package freight service. Some modifications at the pier are necessary to bring it into full usefulness, and a pier similar in size is proposed on the south side of the Chicago river mouth when the necessity arises.

2. Barges to and from points on the lakes-gulf waterway and connecting channels will be accommodated at a commercial treminal on the drainage canal near Crawford avenue.

Industrial Harbor Planned.

3. A complete industrial and commercial harbor south of the mouth of the Calumet river is proposed, to include piers, warehouses, elevators, and industrial sites where inland and ocean going vessels from the great lakes and from European ports may exchange freight with barges from New Orleans and the Mississippi and Illinois waterways and with the railway systems.

4. The dredging of the Grand Calumet river from the Indiana harbor canal in East Chicago to the Little Calumet river in Chicago is proposed.

5. The first unit of a barge harbor with slips for exchange of heavy bulk materials to the railroad trunk lines or directly to industries in the Calumet industrial area is proposed to be built at once, the first unit to be about one-eighth of the total capacity in Lake Calumet. When necessary, the big canal, which connects this harbor with the drainage canal and lakes-gulf waterway, is to be enlarged.

Committee Asks Change.

The committee takes exception to the fifth project on the ground that it envisages the use of Lake Calumet only as a barge harbor. The committee substitutes previous actions taken by the council to make land for industrial sites along the inland lake and dredge it to a depth of 21 feet to accommodate ocean going vessels as well as barges.

With these developments, it is predicted in the original report of the Commercial club, ships will be attracted away from river terminals and thus a certain amount of interference with land traffic would be eliminated. By adopting a fixed bridge policy, the report states, the city will save directly a minimum of $900,000 annually and a maximum of $2,000,000 and the citizens will be benefited from $200,000 to $800,000 annully in the elimination of delays to land traffic.

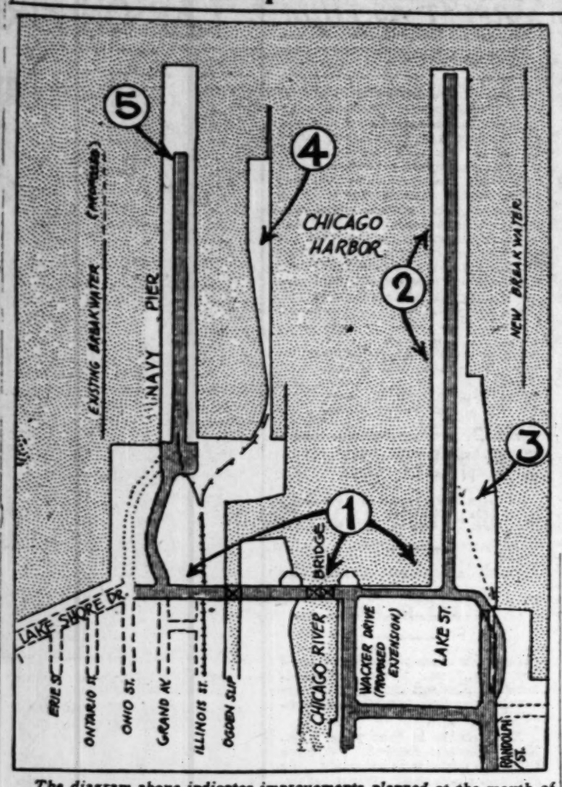
The report also proposes the construction of an airport in the lake between 16th and 31st streets.

To avoid disagreements in administering the affairs of the port of Chicago the report recommends that a local port authority be created by the general assemblies of Illinois and Indiana.

SIGHT FAILING, SHE ENDS LIFE.

Despondent because her sight was failing, Mrs. Augusta Kleinschmidt, 76 years old, 1859 North Lawndale avenue, committed suicide yesterday by hanging herself to a bedpost with a bed sheet.

Metropolitan Harbor Plan Is Recommended to Council



The diagram above indicates improvements planned at the mouth of the Chicago river. (1) Link bridge to connect Lake Shore drive with outer boulevard of south park system. (2) New pier to be constructed between Lake and Randolph streets when required. (3) Railroad yards to be built on proposed pier to facilitate transfer of cargoes. (4) New railroad pier to be added to present breakwater south of Navy pier. (5) Increased facilities at Navy pier.

The map shows the projects included in the Commercial club harbor development plan to prepare city as terminus for St. Lawrence and lakes-to-gulf waterways, which has been recommended to the city council by the harbors committee. The plan proposes additional harbor facilities at the mouth of the Chicago river just south of the Calumet river to accommodate passenger, commercial and industrial shipping. Terminals at Crawford avenue and the canal, and at Lake Calumet would serve traffic from the gulf waterway. An airport in the lake near 16th street is recommended.

MIAMI MAKES AL A BUM; RALPH IS INDICTED BY U. S.

True Bill Charges Rum Running by Airplane.

Ralph J. Capone has been named in true bills charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, Assistant United States Attorney Alfred W. Bosworth disclosed yesterday. At Miami, an ordinance was adopted designed to assist the police in their campaign to drive Ralph's brother, Alphonse, from the Florida community.

The federal grand jury action here against Ralph Capone and five employés arrested in raids on his Cicero night clubs—the Cotton club and the Montmarte—was revealed when the defendants appeared before United States Commissioner Walker for a hearing.

Charge Airplane Rum Plot.

Ralph and the other defendants—Percy Haller, manager of the Cotton club; Harry McRae, Robert Kinney, Jack Keeler, and Bennie Compton—waived examination.

The conspiracy charges were brought by special prohibition agents under Alexander G. Jamie following the raids three weeks ago in which liquor was found in the night clubs. The investigators disclosed, however, that the major charge in the alleged conspiracy was the running of more than $1,000,000 worth of booze from Canada to Chicago by airplanes.

Making Al a Vagrant.

The Miami ordinance, adopted to keep Al Capone out, provides a fine of $500 and a sentence of sixty days for vagrancy, according to Associated Press dispatches, and a vagrant is defined thus:

"Any person having visible means of support acquired by unlawful or illegal means or methods, or any persons who is dangerous to the peace or safety of the city of Miami, or any person or persons known or reputed to be crooks, gangsters, or hijackers."

The ordinance becomes effective after thirty days.

AFFIRMS SIDEWALK RADIO LOUD SPEAKER TO BE A NUISANCE

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—The sidewalk radio loud speaker, already partly throttled by ordinances of the board of health and the board of aldermen, was dealt another blow today when the appellate division of the Supreme court, Brooklyn, decided it is a nuisance when its roarjng disturbs the repose, comfort, and health of a neighborhood. The opinion was handed down in affirmation of a special sessions conviction of Emanuel Hellner, proprietor of a radio store, on a charge of maintaining a nuisance.

Student Strike Closes Porto Rico Polytechnic

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 23.—(AP)—The Polytechnic institute at San German has been closed by President J. W. Harris following a student uprising against Dean Charles A. Leaker's strict discipline. President Harris, returning from the United States on Monday, found the students on strike, stoning the buildings and waving banners. He called police to protect the property.

ALDERMEN ASK LAW TO SILENCE LAKE SPEEDBOATS

The war on exhaust reports from speedy motor boats in which residents along the lake front joined last summer was resumed yesterday in the meeting of the harbors, wharves, and bridges committee of the city council. By a unanimous vote the aldermen recommended an ordinance to the council which would fix a penalty of $10 to $100 for motor boat pilots who race their roaring craft close to the shore line during the night.

"According to the findings of scientists," said Ald. Guy Guernsey [6th], committee chairman, "noises carry for a great distance over the water without an appreciable loss of intensity. While the toot of an automobile horn offends and disturbs the slumbering within a small radius the roaring of a motor boat engine affects the sleep of persons along a large portion of the lake front. The noise should be prohibited."

Several members of the committee expressed the opinion that the council should appropriate for a police motor boat detail to capture offenders.

SENTENCED TO CELL AT 77.

Frank Anderson, 77 years old, was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell yesterday for passing worthless checks on loop department stores. Police said his record extended back to 1904. His last address was a hotel at 670 South State street.

MA FERGUSON READY TO RUN IF PA CANNOT

Texas Senate Upheld in Barring Husband.

Austin, Tex., May 23.—(AP)—The impeachment of Gov. James E. Ferguson in 1917 and judgment of the Texas senate that he be disqualified from holding any office "of honor, trust or profit" is, irrevocable under the constitution, the state Supreme court held today in denying him a writ of mandamus to compel the state Democratic executive committee to place his name on the party primary ballots as a candidate for governor.

The court held that the amnesty bill passed in 1925 during the administration of Ferguson's wife, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Texas' first woman governor, designed to pardon Ferguson from the disqualification judgment was unconstitutional.

Wife Ran as Substitute.

Mrs. Ferguson substituted for her husband in 1924 when his name was refused a place on the ballots.

Ferguson contended the amnesty act was a "pardon" and could not be revoked by a succeeding legislature. He announced he would ask a rehearing and if it were overruled Mrs. Ferguson would probably replace him as a candidate in the field of 16 aspirants for the Democratic nomination.

Gov. Moody has informally announced for a third term and more than a dozen others, including Miss Katie Daffan of Ennis, have signified their intention of running on the Democratic side.

Ran for Name's Sake.

It was for the announced purpose of "vindicating" the Ferguson name that Mrs. Ferguson became a gubernatorial candidate in 1924. Her husband had been balked in his effort to have his name placed on the ballot by various court actions.

CHANGE IN CHICAGO DIVERSION PROVISO UNDER DISCUSSION

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—Conferences in progress today pointed to a further modification of the Chicago water diversion proviso in the Illinois waterway paragraph of the rivers and harbors bill. The change in language may be sufficient to avert much of the threatened opposition and facilitate passage of the bill by the senate.

The conferences were participated in by Raymond T. Jackson, who was special counsel for the state of Wisconsin in the lake diversion case and who is now a member of the Cleveland law firm which represents the lake carriers' association, and Senators Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.], John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], and A. H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.].

Senator Vandenberg, who has threatened a filibuster against the bill, said today that he has no present intention of carrying his fight beyond a speech of less than an hour.

HUNT MISSING MAN; RELATIVES FEAR FOUL PLAY

Walter Marple, 21 years old, 1006 North Ridgeway avenue, has been missing for two days and his relatives yesterday told the police that they feared he had met with foul play from union workers. He recently complained that he had been slugged and robbed of $45 and warned to stay out of the window cleaning business.

Marple's abandoned car was found at State street and Grand avenue after he had failed to keep an appointment with his brother, Lee, who lives at 7952 Dobson avenue. The brothers recently started a window cleaning business. They formerly worked for the World Window Cleaning company, 69 West Washington street, but were discharged last November.

HINDU HOLY CITY UPHOLDS GANDHI FREEDOM MOVE

Natives Parade Daily in Old Benares.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BENARES, India, May 23.—This holy city of Hinduism is stronger in sentiment for Mahatma Gandhi's campaign of nationalism than many centers where British interests are an important factor. While many cities have banned public meetings, demonstrations are found here almost hourly. At the ghats, where the faithful bathe daily in the sacred Ganges, THE TRIBUNE correspondent was mistaken for an Englishman and was greeted with cries of "We want independence." Yet there was not the slightest hostility or lack of courtesy toward the British or other foreigners.

I witnessed a parade led by a brass band, in which the only flag was that of Mahatma Gandhi's design—yellow and red with green stripes. Similar flags are often seen about this and other Ganges towns and cities.

Gandhi Caps Worn Everywhere.

Gandhi caps are worn everywhere, but there is little homespun cloth used, since India is undergoing a Khaddar famine, owing to the nation-wide demand for it. British goods are absolutely absent, but there is a heavy demand for Japanese and Chinese print goods. Similar conditions exist at Allahabad, 78 miles northwest of here. Millions of knitters are working to supply the market.

Attention is turning rapidly from the salt tax to the land tax, which is regarded as a powerful weapon. The government owns the land, which it leases to the zemindars, or capitalists, who take large holdings. They pay taxes in January and then lease it to the peasants, collecting the land tax in June. Without bothering the government, the zemindars realize enormous revenues in this way.

The Nationalist plan now contemplates refusal to pay the land tax this year, which is expected to force the government's hand. This probably will lead to evictions, which in turn may bring about nation-wide disorder.

Exciting Day in Bombay.

BOMBAY, May 23.—(AP)—Today was more exciting in Bombay than any time since the opening of the civil resistance campaign, what with news of the imprisonment of Mrs. Sarojini Naidu coupled with a great procession of Indians.

The procession of upward of 200,000 persons was organized by the leaders of various Indian commercial bodies and started marching from the Bullion exchange.

The paraders went through the main portion of the Indian quarters, to Victoria terminus, the junction point of the five principal streets in Bombay, and attempted to enter the fort area. Here they encountered a solid wall of policemen ranked four deep from curb to curb. The demonstrators sat down, singing Nationalist songs. For nearly four hours this study in passivity continued, the Nationalists sitting calmly and the police standing stolidly.

Authorities Give In.

Finally the authorities announced that the demonstrators could enter the fort area, provided they agreed to abstain from violence.

This suited the demonstrators, and with a great roar and the shouting of revolutionary slogans the mob surged down Hornby road, which runs through the center of the fort, filling the street from curb to curb for half a mile.

The demonstrators passed peacefully but noisily through the fort area and later held a meeting in an open space known as the Esplanada Maiden. They passed resolutions condemning "police excesses" and agreeing to continue the nonviolent fight until freedom was won.

Mrs. Naidu Gets 9 Months.

Mrs. Naidu, who was leader of the civil disobedience campaign after the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi and Abbas Tyabji, was sentenced to nine months' simple imprisonment as a result of her activities in the recent salt raids at Dharsana.

Mrs. Naidu, in a statement at her trial, said she took the full moral responsibility for the whole campaign at Dharsana. She explained that after she had initiated the campaign, the Nationalist war council had decided she should not take part in yesterday's attack so that the authorities could not say the civil disobedience volunteers were taking shelter behind women.

Mahatma Gandhi's son, Manilal, and his secretary, Pyarelal, were not so fortunate, each being sentenced to one year's rigorous imprisonment. Gandhi's three sons are now in prison.

BANDITS STEAL LOAD OF METAL.

Three men early yesterday stole a truckload of brass, copper and steel from the Steel Sales company factory at 3320 South Crawford avenue after locking Valentine Gorsky, 2963 West 22d street, the watchman, in a restroom. They used one of the company trucks to haul away the loot.

SEEKS DIVORCE

MRS. EVA SCHOLEFIELD.

Chester C. Scholefield, a bond salesman, was sued for divorce yesterday in the Circuit court by Mrs. Eva Scholefield, 22 years old, 2337 Commonwealth avenue. She appeared in Judge Thomas J. Lynch's court during the day with a petition for an injunction to prevent her husband from stopping any of her charge accounts in loop stores.

Mrs. Scholefield in her bill charges cruelty, declaring that her husband gave her a black eye last March 23. Scholefield, a salesman with Blythe & Co., 105 South La Salle street, is said to have become wealthy selling bonds of the Chicago Stadium corporation. His wife's request for temporary allmony was continued until Monday. The couple were married on Jnly 17, 1929, at Winnipeg.

RUSSELL WILL ASK ACTION ON SPEEDING ISSUE

Police Commissioner Russell yesterday announced that he will call a meeting of the citizens traffic commission to consider the speeding problem and attempt to work out a new traffic plan, which Judge Freeman L. Fairbank of Speeders' court has declared necessary. Judge Fairbank on Thursday assailed the police for what he called a disregard of law in arresting and prosecuting speeders.

Three deaths in Cook county yesterday raised the motor toll for the year to 339. The victims:

Mrs. Mary Reddy, 58 years old, 5121 South Morgan street. Died at St. Anthony hospital from injuries received when she was struck by an automobile in front of 3026 California avenue.

Samuel Ranusman, 23 years old, 50 South Ashland avenue, La Grange. Killed when his auto collided at Catherine and Goodman avenues, La Grange, with a car driven by Miss Dorothy Pense, 19 years old, 57 North Brainard avenue, La Grange. Miss Pense is a daughter of Clayton Pense, an attorney and member of the Illinois industrial commission. She was not held.

Miss Marie Franta, 18 years old, 1903 Throop street. Fatally injured when the automobile in which she was riding with another girl and two young men skidded and overturned at 41st street and Harlem avenue in Stickney last night. She died while begin taken to the Berwyn hospital. Henry Banovic, 24 years old, 1317 Cullerton street, the driver of the car, and Adolph Sirovatka, 23 years old, 2434 South Trumbull avenue, were hurt. Miss Helen Hlaszacek, 20 years old, 1910 South Loomis street, escaped injury.

W. O. Briggs, 70 year old proprietor of a roadhouse at Lisle, Ill., was killed by an automobile driven by J. M. Keiser of Aurora. Keiser told Downers Grove police Briggs walked on to the highway in front of his car. The accident occurred on the Ogden avenue highway in Lisle.

MEXICO TURNING TO EDUCATION, ENVOY ASSERTS

A picture of Mexico as a serene and busy country, whose government no longer must spend its time suppressing revolutions but can turn to education of the people, was painted by Ambassador Manuel C. Tellez yesterday. Señor Tellez, Mexican envoy to the United States and dean of the diplomatic corps at Washington, spoke on "Education in Mexico" at the Executives' club luncheon in the Hotel Sherman.

Señor Tellez saw the present relations of good will between Mexico and the United States as a source of prosperity to both countries, and said that "an exchange of knowledge and attitudes" was as important as one of goods. With that end in view an educational center is to be established in Chicago, to be affiliated with the National university in Mexico City, he said.

MOTHERS HOLD SEX CLINIC ON THEIR CHILDREN

Try to Puzzle Out Morals of Modern Youth.

A group of educators and church women met in a seminar on marriage and divorce yesterday in the School of Domestic Arts and Science at 350 Belden avenue, and among other problems grappled with the question of the younger generation's philosophy and its liberal attitude on moral questions.

It was after the address of Dr. Helen Vincent McLean, lecturer in the school of social service administration of the University of Chicago, in which she stressed the need of proper sex education of children by their parents, that a gray haired woman arose and asked:

Intellect vs. the Emotions.

"I should like to know, Dr. McLean, if what we hear is true—that is, that the young people of today justify illicit relations before marriage on the grounds that they can better their chances for a happy marriage? Is it a sort of experiment with them to prevent a mistake in matrimony?"

"Why, I think it is with the intellectual young people, say, the college and university groups," said Dr. McLean. "But not with the girls who work in the loop and in factories. I find that most of them are not much different from girls of a more fortunate class, but instead of intellectualizing the subject of sex it is emotional to them. They just grab at life because no one has taught them what it means."

An Evanston Mother's View.

Another gray haired mother, Mrs. Alfred H. Gross of Evanston, then asked a question:

"But isn't it better that our children not tell us if they are not going to live up to the standards of our generation?" she said. "Now I know my children don't tell me everything, and I'm proud of it. They have put me on a pedestal and they at least have that ideal."

"The war produced a change in society's attitude toward sex, which formerly had been discussed only in whispers behind closed doors surrounded by the taboos, prejudices and pruderies of generations," said Dr. R. G. Leland, assistant director of the bureau of health and public instruction of the American Medical association.

SENATE GETS ACT FOR PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(AP)—The Hawes-Cutting bill to grant the Philippine islands the right in five years to vote on whether they desire independence was ordered favorably reported today by the senate territories committee, but action by the senate probably will be deferred until next session.

Two Republicans and six Democrats voted for the measure. Chairman Bingham and three of his Republican colleagues voted against it. Senators Johnson of California and Vandenberg of Michigan, both Republicans, were absent.

The measure, introduced jointly by Senators Hawes [Dem., Mo.] and Cutting [Rep., N. M.], has been opposed Secretaries Stimson and Hurley.

The bill provides for a convention of representatives of the Philippine islands to draft a constitution for a government. The constitution must be approved by the Filipinos at an election and by congress.

If approved the Filipinos would be authorized to elect officers to act under the supervision of the United States, which would be represented by a high commission.

At the end of five years the Filipinos would vote on independence and, if still desired, the United States would recognize it as an independent nation.

The bill provides for a gradual increase in tariff duties on products exported to the United States.

DELAY INQUEST IN SHOW GIRL'S MYSTERY DEATH

Only One Witness to Give Testimony.

Only one witness appeared yesterday at the coroner's inquest into the death of Miss Jean Farrell, show girl, who died in the Grant hospital early yesterday under mysterious circumstances.

The solitary witness knew almost nothing about the girl, her illness or her death, and Deputy Coroner Frank Donoghue adjourned the inquest until June 6, asking the police to make a careful investigation of the girl's life and death.

Roommate Fails to Appear.

Even the young woman's roommate, Miss Barbara Bossie, who shared a small apartment in the Shoreham hotel, 3316 Sheridan road, with Miss Farrell, did not appear. She had told the police that Miss Farrell had been an intimate friend of Col. Anthony F. Lorenzen of the Illinois National Guard, who lives at the Congress hotel.

But the officer did not appear. Instead, Barney Franklin, who lives at the Congress hotel also and is said to be a good friend of Lorenzen, appeared to give the coroner assistance in solving the mystery of Miss Farrell's death.

Mr. Franklin described himself as a stock and bond broker, but he is better known as the former manager of the Moulin Rogue, old-time cabaret closed by the prohibition department, and the owner of the Kit Kat club.

Hunt Poison in Body.

Before he testified Deputy Coroner Donoghue declared that a post-mortem examination of Miss Farrell's body had disclosed no natural means by which she might have died and that the vital organs had been taken to the coroner's chemist for examination for traces of poisoned alcohol and of a sleep potion. Miss Bossie had told the police that Miss Farrell had become violently ill after drinking heavily at a party a few days ago and that on Wednesday night, unable to sleep, she had taken six sleeping tablets.

AERIAL RUM RUNNER TO BE TRIED IN PEORIA

Peoria, Ill., May 23.—[Special.]—Raymond Smith, first airplane rum runner to be tried in Peoria federal court, today entered a plea of not guilty. He probably will face trial before Judge Fitzhenry next week. Smith was recently indicted for transporting liquor from Canada and Detroit to Peoria in a plane. He also carried passengers. On one occasion he carried a federal prohibition agent as a passenger. But he didn't realize it until after he was arrested and indicted.

QUESTION SEVEN CONTRACTORS ON FEES TO CURTIS

Attorney Tells Swanson Payments Were Legal.

Seven contractors were questioned at the state's attorney's office yesterday in regard to dealings which they have had with Attorney Harry K. Curtis, son of Vice President Curtis. While Chief Investigator Pat Roche and Assistant State's Attorney Richard Jackson were trying to get information from the contractors, Curtis sought State's Attorney John Swanson to inform him that his relations with the contractors were strictly legal and in no way a violation of the law.

Investigator Roche would not say yesterday what action he will take in the Curtis matter. He said he first wishes to question all available witnesses before he makes any recommendations to Prosecutor Swanson.

It was indicated that the United States senate committee on postoffices might be apprised of the situation providing the committee wishes to investigate government contracts, particularly in connection with postoffice buildings.

Contractors Tell of Fees.

Several of the witnesses questioned yesterday said they had made payments to Attorney Curtis, but declared the payments were for legal fees and not because of any promise to help them get government contracts.

P. K. Clayton, 2417 Homer street, a plumbing contractor, said he had talked to Mike Malloy about government work and that Malloy told him to put up a $500 retainer with Curtis. He said that Malloy informed him that Curtis would have much to say about government contracts. Clayton, however, did not pay the retainer, he declared.

Malloy is said by the state's attorney's office to have been the gobetween with the contractors and Curtis.

Approached by Malloy.

Harry L. Guy, 5424 West Chicago avenue, a relative of West Park Commissioner E. A. Brekke, said he was approached by Malloy, but later was told that he was too small a contractor to bother with.

A. H. Mogill, 1508 North Crawford avenue, a general contractor and a friend of Emmet Flood, labor leader, said he had paid $250 to Curtis as a retainer. He said, however, that it was only for Curtis to keep him informed when government contracts were to be acted on.

FORMER FIANCE CAUSES WIDOW'S ARREST AS THIEF

Mrs. Laurette Mullen, 26 years old, a widow, of 426 Belmont avenue, was arrested yesterday on the complaint of her former fiancé, William Melvin, 1400 Lake Shore drive, a salesman for the Halsey-Stuart company, who accused her of petty larceny. He charged that she took a Spanish shawl valued at $25.

On Thursday night they returned from West Baden, Ind., where they had spent several days after the Kentucky Derby at Louisville, Mrs. Mullen explained to Sergt. Thomas O'Malley at the detective bureau. On the road they quarreled, she said, about the way Melvin was driving. Then followed a warrant for Mrs. Mullen's arrest, charging theft of the shawl, which, she said, Melvin purchased for her in Indiana. She was released on bond.

Melvin admitted purchasing the shawl, but said he was bringing it to Chicago for a friend and that Mrs. Mullen took it from his automobile. She will appear in the South State Street court today.

GET WASTE OUT OF YOUR SYSTEM

Banish Constipation at the Start with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Look out when you wake up tired and stay tired. Beware of headaches, unpleasant breath. These are usually the first symptoms of constipation.

The trouble is that your intestinal system is clogged. You have eaten too many bulkless foods. But you can clean your system safely, if you start at once to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a cereal that you can eat naturally. It sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. Far better than habit-forming pills and drugs.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—recurring cases with every meal. You'll like its crispness and flavor. Your system will benefit by its rich store of iron and healthful elements as well as by its roughage.

Ready to eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits and honey added. Recipes are on the package for muffins and griddle cakes. Sold by all grocers. Served by hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Every housewife knows that poor coffee can spoil an otherwise perfect meal.

Yet many women put up patiently with inferior blends because they feel the best coffees are too expensive for every day use.

All wrong! The best coffees cost the most because they contain more flavor and more cups to the pound.

McLaughlin's Manor House Coffee does go further, but the really important thing is its flavor.

$21,000,000 P. O. FOR CHICAGO IS URGED BY HOOVER

Congress Asked to O. K. Air Rights Project.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.] — Legislation authorizing the construction of an air rights postoffice at Chicago was recommended to congress today by President Hoover.

A budget message, accompanying the President's letter, suggested allocations in existing legislation for the Chicago project which would permit the treasury and postoffice departments to construct a new building over the railroad trackage bounded by the Van Buren street parcel post station and Van Buren, Harrison, and Canal streets.

The recommended legislation would authorize the sale of the old Field site at Harrison, Canal, and Polk streets, the acquisition of the necessary air rights for the new postoffice and the purchase, and remodeling of the Van Buren street parcel post station, which would be incorporated into the main federal structure.

Project Includes Air Rights.

The maximum cost of the new project was fixed at $21,000,000, including air rights, the parcel post station and the postoffice proper. The old project would have cost $18,675,000, exclusive of any items connected with the parcel post station.

In explaining the recommendation for a change in site, Col. J. Clawson Roop, budget director, stated that his office had been informed by the postoffice department that a postoffice building erected on the Field site could not be operated efficiently because of the distance from the railroads over which mail must be transported.

Under the plan proposed today the old Field site would be sold when convenient by the government and the proceeds placed directly into the treasury. Of the $21,000,000 to be authorized for financing the new postoffice project $7,000,000 would be utilized in acquiring from the Union Station company the air rights over the railroads and the Van Buren street parcel post station now leased to the government at a rental of $300,000 annually. It is understood the government has been offered the parcel post station for $4,500,000. The 214,000 feet of air rights that must be purchased are understood to have been offered for $1,125,000.

What Now Is Proposed.

Col. Roop's letter explaining what had been done by congress in financing the Chicago postoffice project and what now is proposed by the postoffice and treasury departments follows:

"The second deficiency act, fiscal year 1926, approved July 3, 1926, appropriated $2,225,000 toward the acquisition of a site for a postoffice building in Chicago, in addition to appropriations of $1,750,000 already made, and increased the limit of cost theretofore fixed for purchase of the site to $5,000,000. An additional $450,000 was appropriated by the first deficiency act, fiscal year 1928, approved Dec. 22, 1927, making $4,425,000 in all.

"The purchase of a site, known as the 'Field site,' consisting of a whole block of ground bounded by Canal, Clinton, Harrison and Polk streets, was completed within the amount appropriated.

Estimates from Treasury.

"In accordance with estimates prepared by the treasury and postoffice departments the second deficiency act, fiscal year 1928, approved May 29, 1928, contained an appropriation of $300,000 for the commencement of construction of a building at an estimated cost of $14,250,000, including $500,000 for mail handling apparatus. This building was to consist of a basement and six stories for postal purposes of approximately 254,000 square feet gross area, and two stories for other activities of approximately 155,000 square feet gross area. The building was to be stone faced and of fireproof construction.

"Preliminary plans for the building have been drawn and the postoffice department now advises that they will be unable to operate efficiently under the project as originally planned.

"The provision now submitted is for the purpose of considering an alternative plan involving the sale of the so-called 'Field site,' heretofore acquired, and to acquire a new site over the railroad tracks within the block bounded by Harrison, Van Buren, and Canal streets and the so-called Van Buren postal station; to construct on such new site a building for the accommodation of the postoffice and other government offices; to acquire the rite of the so-called Van Buren postal station, with the buildings thereon, together with the fixed equipment therein, and to remodel, enlarge, and repair the last named building for postal purposes at a total estimated limit of cost of $21,000,000."

SATISFY BUSINESS MEN.

Chicago business and civic groups were heartened yesterday by the news that President Hoover's new plans for a postoffice site here would not block the extension of Congress street.

W. A. Dudley, manager of the Greater Central District association, which has been fighting the adoption of any plan for a postoffice which would interfere with this extension, stated that word from Washington indicated that an arcade would be provided over Congress street.

Mr. Dudley stated that the extra $7,000,000 included in President Hoover's proposal likely would be expended for the purchasing of air rights over the Union station tracks and for purchasing property running from Congress street to Harrison street between Canal and Clinton streets. The original appropriation for the Chicago postoffice was $14,000,000. The appropriation asked for by the President was $21,000,000.

Arrested as Quack by State; Faces U. S. Narcotic Charge

Charged with practicing medicine without a license and accused of issuing fake federal narcotic permits, Albert Bronston, 3745 Pine Grove avenue, has been arrested on a complaint signed by Inspector Charles A. Storer of the Illinois department of education and registration, it was learned yesterday. That a federal charge will also be placed against Bronston was indicated by Col. William Smith, acting narcotic agent in charge, who said that a federal investigator had been working on the case for the last week.

Bronston was arrested on Thursday after a three weeks' investigation by state officials. They said his name had been found listed in the classified telephone directory as a physician, but that no record could be found of his having been licensed to practice medicine in Illinois.

States Shows Its Evidence.

Bronston's record, according to representatives of the department of education and registration, is as follows:

On March 7, 1929, he operated on Clemence Landes for stomach ulcers at the North Chicago hospital. On March 16 he declared Landes cured and sent him home in a taxicab. On March 17 Landes died and Bronston signed the death certificate.

On April 14, 1929, Bronston signed himself as a licensed physician in the Probate court in a case brought by Elos Danielson.

On Aug. 14, 1929, Bronston operated on Herman Bochahrd for an infected ankle and placed a silver plate as a support. Since then, according to Inspector Storer, Borchard has been under the care of another physician who characterized the operation as unsuccessful.

A number of narcotic permits and prescriptions signed by Bronston are in the hands of state inspectors, Storer said.

U. S. Agent Investigates.

Col. Smith said he assigned a federal investigator to examine Bronston's record a week ago when he received a report that Bronston had been posing as a special agent in the narcotic division. Yesterday Col. Smith was awaiting a complete report from the investigator.

According to the records of the American Medical association, Bronston has never had a license to practice in any state in the Union and never received a degree from any recognized medical school.

The records show that he was born in Green Bay, Wis., in 1899, attended the medical college of the University of Illinois in 1919-'20 and 1920-'21 and in the summer of 1921 attended Rush medical college as an unclassified student. According to the association records that is the extent of his medical training.

JURY BARRED FROM HEARING CONTEST TO BREAK ERLANGER WILL

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—The contention of Charlotte Fixel that a jury be drawn in the Surrogate's court to pass upon her allegation that she is the common law widow of Abraham Lincoln Erlanger and entitled to share in his reputed $100,000,000 estate was denied today by the Appellate division of the Supreme court without an opinion.

The second important contention on appeal, that Saul G. Baron, appointed temporary administrator, be removed on the ground that he was concerned in "an alleged fraud and had exerted undue influence," also was denied by the higher tribunal. Mr. Baron was named in the Erlanger will as an executor and had acted as personal attorney.

The action of the court upholds Surrogate James A. Foley, who made the two decisions which Miss Fixel appealed through her attorney, Max D. Steuer.

The decision means that Miss Fixel will have to proceed to trial before the surrogate and present evidence which she believes might substantiate her claim against the estate.

150,000 HONOR ASHES OF SIDAR, IDOL OF MEXICO

Heap Airplane Hearse with Flowers.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, May 23.—Never before in the history of Mexico has any one, except a president, been accorded such universal homage as the capital paid today to the ashes of Col. Pablo Sidar, late chief of Mexico's air force, who was killed off the coast of Costa Rica while attempting a nonstop flight to Buenos Aires.

The urn containing his ashes was drawn through the streets in the airplane Mexican Army, the ship in which the ill fated colonel toured Latin America last year. From the Valbuena air field to the national palace silent throngs lined the streets. The ashes will lie in state at the palace until the funeral tomorrow.

Take Wings Off Plane.

The black draped plane moved slowly, almost imperceptibly, through the streets while the people showered it with flowers. When it reached a narrow thoroughfare at the entrance of the city mechanics removed the wings of the plane, replacing them later when a wider street was reached. More than 30,000 people crowded the central plaza all the morning and afternoon, and it is estimated that more than 150,000 flanked the route of the procession.

At the national palace President Ortiz Rubio and his cabinet solemnly received the urn, which was placed on a specially prepared catafalque.

Earlier in the day the remains had been brought to Valbuena field by the airplane Mayah, escorted by a squadron of Mexican military planes and the plane which Capt. Lewis A. Yancey and two other Americans intend to fly to Buenos Aires.

Plane Lands in Silence.

Huge crowds had packed the flying field, and they had been kept under restraint with difficulty by police and soldiery, but when the Mayah alighted it was in a dead, impressive silence. Then cannons boomed and a march of honor was played as the urn, under the direction of Gen. Joaquin Amaro, minister for war, was transferred from the plane to the airplane hearse.

Present at the arrival of the ashes were President Rubio and his cabinet and every conceivable national interest in Mexico as well as the diplomatic corps of all nations represented in Mexico.

FALL APPEALS INCOME TAX CASE INVOLVED IN OIL CONTROVERSIES

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(AP)—The government's effort to collect income tax on money Albert B. Fall and his Tres-Ritos Cattle and Land company of Three Rivers, N. M., received from E. L. Doheny and Harry Sinclair, whose companies were awarded leases of naval oil reserves, has been appealed to the United States board of tax appeals by the former secretary of the interior.

The internal revenue bureau assessed Fall and his wife a total of $158,127 in deficiency taxes and $77,198 in penalties for failing to report a total of $403,000 as income. The bureau assessed the deficiency and penalties on $100,000 Fall received from Doheny in 1921 and a total of $303,000 paid by Sinclair to Fall and M. T. Everhart, Fall's son-in-law.

The bureau held that $100,000 that Fall received from Doheny in 1921 which he said was a loan was income. Fall was convicted of accepting this amount as a bribe to influence the award of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve to Doheny's Pan-American company, but Doheny later was acquitted of giving Fall the money as a bribe.

ARREST "COUNT" HERE ON INDIANA PERJURY CHARGE

Henry Dechow, who also call himself "Count" Enrique de Chow von Buelow, husband of Mrs. Lottie Brenner von Buelow, was arrested yesterday by the sheriff's office on a governor's warrant from Indiana charging perjury. The arrest was said to have been made at the instigation of the former Mrs. Brenner, who charges falsification of an affidavit to obtain a license to marry her. The couple were married at Crown Point on May 7, 1929 and suit for divorce is pending.

Dechow was arrested in the Ashland block at 155 North Clark street, and immediately announced his determination to fight extradition. Judge Daniel P. Trude, before whom he was arraigned, set June 3 for a hearing on his petition for a writ of habeas corpus. His bond was fixed at $1,000, which he had not been able to furnish last night.

JACKSON AND WABASH was a quiet residential corner

The illustration shows the quiet corner of Jackson and Wabash in 1858. Shade trees lined the cobbled, rather muddy streets. Wooden planks were laid to the sidewalks over gutters that were apt to overflow.

Trinity Church stood in the middle of the block, where the Illinois Theatre now stands. At the corner of Michigan stood the home of Judge Manierre.

It is hard to realize that in the late fifties most of our present congested loop area was residential property. The business district was centered around Randolph and Lake Streets, and along the river. As the railroads really became a factor, however, and extended the city's wholesale trade, residences began to give way to commercial buildings.

Many of the fine old homes of early Chicago were stopping places for the Wanzer milk salesman. This oldest Chicago milk company was established in 1857. It is still owned and operated by the Wanzers.

U. S. MOTHERS AT BELLEAU WOOD SEE MIMIC WAR

Pray at Cross Where Lie 50 Unknown Doughboys

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELLEAU WOOD, France, May 23.—After three days beside the graves of their sons, the gold star mothers this afternoon came here on a sight-seeing expedition to learn at first hand the manner in which their sons met death.

Three groups of mothers from nearby battlefields converged this morning at Chateau Thierry on the banks of the Marne below the heights leading up to Belleau Wood. It was along the river there that some 50,000 American soldiers, in July, 1918 stopped the desperate German "peace" offensive aimed at Paris.

Scars of War Remain.

Belleau Wood stands virtually in the same condition as it was at the end of the war with the New York trenches plainly visible, and the whole terrain still strewn with the wreckage of battle.

The mothers were cheerful and full of curiosity regarding the most minute details concerning the battle which took place here. They seemed almost like a party of simple tourists, but there was something morbid in the intensity with which they questioned their guides.

The women eagerly inspected the piles of rifles, bayonets, and weapons which are stacked around the flag pole in the center of the woods, and demanded an explanation of the workings of the captured German machine guns and field artillery.

Stage Mimic Attack.

Some of the mothers even insisted that the officers accompanying them show how the hand grenades were used. This was done. Some of the officers, who themselves had participated in the battle of Belleau Wood, picked up old grenades and went through the motions of priming and throwing them. Then they put on a weird exhibition in front of a German machine gun nest, showing how the marines, stalking through the underbrush and squirming through the thickets, sneaked up on the post and with well aimed grenades, silenced the spitting little instruments of death.

Afterwards some knelt in prayer beside the plain wooden cross which marks the common grave of 50 unidentified American soldiers. Then all gathered wild flowers from the little open park among the trees, and scattered them over the grave. Hardly was the ceremony finished when the rain began to patter on the torn leaves of the forest, and a blinding flash split the sky. There then followed a long drawn rumble of thunder which rolled over the ridges as the rumble of artillery fire once had done, and the mothers were hustled back to the buses.

Fresh Group Arrives.

PARIS, May 23.—(AP)—The arrival of 106 gold star mothers today to visit the shrines of their dead sons' heroism on the battlefields has brought the total now in France to more than 235. That number will be maintained as a high point all summer, with one group on the battlefields, another arriving, and another preparing to leave America for the pilgrimage at the same time.

See Roosevelt's Grave.

FERE-EN-TARDENOIS, France, May 23.—(AP)—The grave of Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt, standing alone on a slightly sloping hillside half a mile from the main road, today was the sacred pilgrimage of fifty gold star mothers visiting the Oise-Aisne districts.

Three Sentenced to Prison in Hammond Bank Holdup

Fifteen days after the holdup of the Maywood Trust and Savings bank at Hammond, three Chicago bandits who pleaded guilty were sentenced to ten years in the Michigan City penitentiary by Judge Martin Smith at Gary yesterday. They are James Brezak, 25 years old, 2947 Emerald avenue; Frank Pauley, 30, and James Radecke, 35, of 7907 Evans avenue. The men were arrested last week after bank employes identified a picture of Brezak in the Chicago detective bureau. The Chicago police aided in recovering $16,000 of the $23,000 loot.

BARE TACTICS IN UNION WAR ON DYEING PLANTS

Abarbanell Drivers Tell of Offers.

Witnesses before Master in Chancery William A. Doyle of the Circuit court yesterday described the tactics pursued by agents of three unions in their efforts to force Abarbanell Bros., operators of dyeing and cleaning establishments in eight western suburbs, to unionize their shops.

Two witnesses, drivers for Abarbanell, declared the union men sought to induce them to join unionized companies in Chicago and then call upon Abarbanell's customers, seeking to take their trade from the Abarbanell firm.

Company Asks Injunction.

Irving Abarbanell, one of the owners of the company, has brought suit against the unions, charging their agents with terrorism and asking that an injunction be issued restraining them from further intimidation of the company's employes and customers.

Circuit Judge Hugo M. Friend referred the case to Master Doyle. The first witness heard yesterday was Ernest Clinton, a driver for the Abarbanell firm.

Questioned by Attorney Clarence Morse, Clinton testified that he had been approached at the La Grange plant by union agents, who said they were trying to get Mr. Abarbanell to boost prices and join the unions. He said he was asked to try and take the Abarbanell business into the city, but refused. He told how he and three others had been taken to the Midwest club by union agents who wanted to put them on trucks to go and pick up customers.

3 Unions Named Defendants.

The unions named defendant in the suit are the Laundry and Dye House Drivers and Chauffeurs' union, local 712; Cleaners and Dyers' union, local 17742, and the Retail Cleaners and Dyers' union, local 17792.

W. D. Lang of La Grange, another of the Abarbanell drivers, corroborated Clinton's testimony, and then Irving Abarbanell took the stand. He declared the union agents had told him: "If you don't come across we'll keep pickets here until hell freezes over."

The hearing will be resumed this morning.

4 YOUTHS HELD AS POLICE PROBE WOMAN'S MURDER

One Identified by Girl as Purse Snatcher.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Charles Landers, attempt to commit burglary, one to five years in the penitentiary; Louis Haberzal and James Davis, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

John Bochinski, murder, sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary by Judge E. I. Frankhauser.

Edgar Durrio, burglary, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary; Emil Pehrakovitz and Frank Japczyk, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Other theories failing of substantiation, Chief of Detectives Stege last night was holding four youths at the detective bureau as suspects in the murder of Mrs. Marie Pelletier, 49 year old mother of four children, who was shot near her home, at 2521 Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, late Thursday. Berwyn police, however, believed she was killed by a nervous young purse snatcher who was overquick on the trigger.

"This quartet is certainly still under suspicion," Stege said, after the youths had been questioned intermittently for eight hours. He referred to John D'Arco, 21 years old, 801 South Bishop street; Frank Battaglia, 24 years old, 830 South Bishop street; Frank Berardi, 21 years old, 1456 West Polk street; and Lawrence Cozzi, 21 years old, 1430 Flournoy street.

Caught in Police Chase.

The four were arrested at Congress street and Ogden avenue early yesterday after the absence of a license plate on their car had aroused the suspicions of a cruising squad of detectives. The policemen gave chase. In their flight the youths pitched a pocketbook from their car. Detective William Stendry recovered it. For a time it was believed the purse had belonged to Mrs. Pelletier, but her pocketbook was found later in the back yard of a home at 2402 Lombard avenue, Berwyn.

Berardi was identified at the detective bureau last night by Miss Margaret White, 231 Forest avenue, Oak Park, as the youth who, on the night of May 2, stepped from a car in which three others were riding, snatched her purse, and escaped. Oak Park police said they would send other victims of street thefts to the bureau today to confront Berardi's companions.

Miss Lillian Jazek discovered Mrs. Pelletier's purse in her back yard when she left for work about 7:30 a. m. yesterday. A small sum of money was missing from it. Louis Pelletier, the husband of the slain woman, did not know how much she had.

Tells of Hearing Shots.

Acting Chief of Police James Mikes of Berwyn regarded the finding of the purse as substantiating the story of Mrs. Mildred Dvorak, 2517 Ridgeland avenue, who heard the two shots which killed Mrs. Pelletier and then heard the footsteps of some one running on the gangway beside her home.

Chief Mikes believes the killer was the same man who snatched the purse of four women in Berwyn and Cicero in the last three weeks. One of his victims, Mrs. Catherine Piha, 2217 South 59th avenue, Cicero, was shot.

LOS ANGELES BAR SPLIT IN FIGHT TO GAG NEWSPAPER

Members Rebel at Officers' Action.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 23.—[Special.]—As a result of the action taken last Saturday by the Los Angeles Bar association's board of trustees in causing the Loe Angeles Daily Record to be cited for contempt of court a split has developed within the bar association.

The contempt complaint is unprecedented in that it raises the theory that a newspaper and its editors subject themselves to punishment by criticizing results obtained by a county grand jury. The complaint was filed by the association's eleven trustees, but never submitted to the whole membership for approval. The complaint contends that the newspaper lacked legal right to print editorials and cartoons "in criticism of the grand jury's attempts to combat crime."

McAdoo to Defend Them.

The Records, whose three editors, H. B. R. Briggs, Gilbert Brown, and Rodney Brink, are under summons for court hearing on June 2, met the bar association's move with charges that the maneuver constitutes "an attempt to muzzle the press and kill the right of free speech." The Record engaged William Gibbs McAdoo, ex-secretary of the treasury, and the latter's law partners to defend its legal rights, "and in particular to defeat the effort to muzzle the American press."

The Record charges that local politics lies behind the maneuver, inasmuch as it was accused, not only criticizing the grand jury, but of "interfering with justice" by opposing District Attorney Buron Fitts' methods of going after men indicted in the Julian Petroleum fraud case.

Two Los Angeles daily newspapers—the Examiner and the Herald—have taken up the cudgels for the Record, which has the smallest circulation in the city.

Rebels "Steam Rollered."

Twenty-five hundred members of the Bar association gathered last night for the annual banquet and business meeting, at which it was planned to debate the contempt of court action. A faction within the association had demanded an explanation as to how eleven members, acting as a board of control, had been able to commit the entire association to the contempt proceedings. But all debate was cut off when President Norman A. Baillie, a sponsor of the contempt action, suddenly adjourned the meeting at the conclusion of the banquet. Today his action was criticised as "steam roller tactics" by Judge Raymond Turney, L. H. Phillips, candidate for judge; Ida May Adams, candidate for judge; S. S. Hahn, prominent local attorney, and others.

CRUELTY TOLD BY MRS. BLAIR; WINS DIVORCE

Dodges Camera Men as She Leaves Court.

Mrs. Mildred Marshall Blair of 1500 Lake Shore drive, won a divorce yesterday from Chauncey B. Blair in Judge Joseph Sabath's court. After the hearing she spent a quarter of an hour dodging up halls and down elevators in an effort to avoid news cameramen.

With her attorney, Charles Cutting, Mrs. Blair arrived in court about 4:30 o'clock, when everything else on the day's calendar had been finished and practically all the court spectators had departed. She was accompanied by Paul Maurer, 7300 Rhodes avenue, and Arthur Halland, 1049 Thorndale avenue, her witnesses.

Mrs. Blair Takes Stand.

Taking the stand, Mrs. Blair testified in a low voice, hardly audible a few feet away, that she had been married to Mr. Blair in January of 1913. She said that during the holidays last December he became "very, very angry" when she insisted he should stay at home during their son's vacation, and that he threw a book at her, causing a painful bruise. A few days later, she asserted, he came home with two friends, Maurer and Halland, and entered into a heated argument with her, finally seizing and choking her. On both occasions he had been drinking considerably, she added.

On hearing corroboration of these allegations from Maurer and Halland, Judge Sabath directed Attorney Cutting to draw up a decree, which he indicated he would sign. Harry A. Newby, who represented Mr. Blair, informed the judge that his client had no defense to make, and that a property and alimony agreement had been arranged, together with a settlement for the education of Chauncey Blair Jr., 16, who was given into the custody of his mother.

Runs from Cameraman.

Mrs. Blair hurried from the courtroom through the judge's chambers when the case was over. She burst out almost into the midst of the cameramen, who had anticipated this coup. Hastily flinging a brown silk scarf over her head, she ran past the battery of cameras, down one side of the hall and back again, in search of a down elevator. The chase persisted until she and her attorney had hailed a taxi downstairs on the sidewalk.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S

"GAME OF COUNTIES"

No. 42 Chicago Tribune's "Game of Counties"

Clue: Stock raising, dairying and agriculture are among the pursuits of those who dwell in the county whose name is pictured above. It is neither the largest nor the smallest county in the state in which it is located.

The Name of this County is: .....

(Write name here)

The Name of the County pictured here is in this list

Boone, Ill.	Wayne, Ind.	Manistee, Mich.
DuPage, Ill.	Clark, Ind.	Oceana, Mich.
Greene, Ill.	Jasper, Ind.	Bayfield, Wis.
Kane, Ill.	Dubuque, Ia.	La Crosse, Wis.

Saline, Ill.	Genesee, Mich.	Waukesha, Wis.
La Porte, Ind.	Huron, Mich.	Florence, Wis.
Tippecanoe, Ind.	Lapeer, Mich.	Price, Wis.

Follow These Simple Rules

1—Every week-day for 48 consecutive days (not including Sundays), the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a "Game of Counties" picture. Each picture will represent a County in one of these five States: Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin. You are invited to name the Counties.

2—The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly named and neatest complete sets of pictures in accordance with these rules. See prize list at right.

NOTE:—You do not necessarily have to name each of the 48 pictures correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank the highest.

3—This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls, except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4—Pictures are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do not send in each picture separately. Hold all pictures until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "Counties," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Picture No. 48 has been printed.

5—Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Dept. Contestants may submit as many sets of pictures as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize. Accuracy will count. Neatness will count.

6—You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the pictures and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7—Judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

300,000 CHICAGO TAX BILLS CAUSE HEART BURNINGS

Random Inquiry Discloses Discrepancies.

More than 300,000 Chicago home owners in the townships of Hyde Park, Lake and Jefferson awoke yesterday to find after two years their first tax bills in the morning mail. Bills for the remaining townships will have been mailed by Monday. If the last bill is received Tuesday the penalty date will automatically be set as June 28. All bills paid after that date will be penalized 1 per cent for each month of delay.

Taxpayers compared the 1928 bills, the result of the scientific reassessment, with those of 1927 and also with those of their neighbors and friends. A TRIBUNE reporter was assigned to make a similar comparison. The block between 72d and 73d streets on Constance avenue was selected at random.

Complaints Are Heard.

Dr. Charles E. Pitte at 7211 Constance avenue said that he had received a bill of $278.26 on his bungalow. The former owner paid $178 in 1927. His neighbor, E. Riley, at 7215, received a bill of $266.83 against one of $212 in 1927 on a bungalow of the same dimensions and age. They attributed the difference to the fact that the doctor has a garage and that he has six rooms where Riley has five, although the floor space is equal. The doctor complained that no allowance was made for the fact that his home is against an apartment building.

Dr. Pitte and Riley charged that the reassessment was unfair because the four two flat buildings to the south of their homes, with identical frontage of 33 feet, are not proportionately taxed. The doctor pays more than any of the flats while Riley pays only $7 less. The flat buildings are eleven years old and were built by the same contractor. The bungalows are three years older.

Flat Taxes Are Lower.

On the flats at 7219 J. G. Brocklebank will pay $273.21 as against a bill for $355 in 1927. At 7221 C. E. Kreger got a bill of $272.03 as against $341 in 1927. He could offer no reason for the lower bill, declaring that his garage was better than any of his neighbors and he expected a slightly higher bill. The flats at 7225 and 7227, owned by William Bannister and Frank Pierce, are taxed the same as Brocklebank. Both had higher bills in 1927.

Directly across the street are three similar two flat buildings on 25 foot lots and 4 years older. Flats in these buildings rent at an average of $75 a month and are without garages while the four on the east side of the street rent from $80 to $90, not including garages. At No. 7226 Henry Dryer, a city fire captain, will pay $413.40 as compared with $230 in 1927.

Other Discrepancies Found.

At 7222 Mrs. H. Knoll, a widow, received a bill for $278.36, as compared with $164 in 1927. Her neighbor, E. H. Cloyd, at 7220, will pay $319.67 on an identical building, but on a 33 foot lot instead of on a 25 foot lot. In 1927 he paid $297. His home is also 4 years older that those across the street receiving lower bills. Dreyef said that his bill was higher because his property is on a corner, but complained that this advantage was overvalued. Redmond and Mrs. Knoll could give no reasons for the difference in their taxes and why they were taxed higher than the flats across the street.

At 7229 and 7235 E. M. Mackie and A. H. Buisseret own bungalows alike both in construction and in age. The former is taxed at $329.45 and the latter at $338.87, as against $229 and $254 respectively in 1927. Both have the same frontage as the lower group of flat buildings taxed at approximately $373.

Variations Found Just.

In contrast to the criticisms of unfairness in the reassessment on Constance street, residents on the street to the east, Bennett avenue, also between 72d and 73d streets, declared that the assessor had shown just distinctions in making assessments, although they complained that the bills are higher than in 1927.

The first of seven almost identical bungalows is owned by Thomas J. O'Brien, 7216 Bennett avenue, who was taxed $243.24. His neighbor, Peter Walter, at 7220, will pay $37.85 more, but he accepts the difference as fair in that O'Brien adjoins an apartment building.

These are followed by P. J. Murphy at 7224, Jack Lawson at 7226, both taxed at $281.92. At 7230 F. Mayhar is lower with $279.08 because of a slight difference in the construction of his home. At 7234 and 7238 G. T. Sexton and Capt. Edward Maher are both higher with $295.77. They accepted this without question since they have two bedrooms in their attics. At 7242 J. E. Stafford will pay $296.13. The assessor noted that he had a brick garage.

In other areas, selected at random, with no check on the types of properties, a comparison of taxes for the two years is shown in the following table:

Cutmore Defends System.

Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment, yesterday defended the figures secured by his staff in Calumet township against the attack of Beverly Hills property owners. He said the system is not fool-proof against errors, but insisted that the taxpayers are fairly assessed in general.

"The residents of Beverly Hills have been in the past assessed at 10 per cent because they were a part of a country township, Calumet," he said. "Now they are being assessed at 37 per cent of full value with the rest of the city and they don't like assuming their full share of the burden.

"I have been threatened with thousands of objections in the County court. I announce now that I will fight to the bitter end all of these and predict that the property owners will leave the courts with a higher bill."

"In fairness to this department I must explain that one-half of the staff making measurements in Beverly Hills were the employés of D. W. Jellema, the township assessor and opponent of the reassessment. I considered these men incompetent, but could not remove them, and charge them with a good percentage of any errors in the district."

Champion Speller

Agnes Bowers, Greeley, Neb.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Agnes Bowers, 13 years old, champion speller of Nebraska, was in Chicago yesterday on her way to Washington, D. C., where she will compete for the national championship. Agnes lives in Greeley, Neb., and is a pupil in the seventh grade of the Sacred Heart school there. By knowing how to spell "medallion," she defeated more than 60 contestants of public and parochial grade schools in the state contest last month.

CLAIM 100 VOTES FOR EMMERSON'S TAX ACT IN HOUSE

List Is Said to Include 7 from Cook County.

BY PARKE BROWN.

It was reported yesterday that Gov. Emmerson, in conferences with advisers, had expressed confidence that any time he wishes he can line up 100 votes in the state house of representatives in favor of the resolution to erase from the constitution all the present restrictions on the tax powers of the general assembly.

That is within two votes of the two-thirds required for the final adoption of the constitutional amendment resolution which already has passed the senate. The report was interpreted as meaning that the administration is counting upon the immediate support of at least seven Cook county members of the lower house, since the downstate bloc includes only 93 and there is doubt whether some of them would vote for the proposal in its present form. Nineteen of the downstaters voted against the income tax last year.

Roll Calls are Scant.

Even this estimate of the outlook for the governor's plan was taken by Chicago opponents as meaning that he is none too sure of success in the house, as the attendance at Springfield for the first week of the session was only 130 and the highest roll call last week showed only 110 answering, with only a few more than that number on hand.

Reports of the governor's own count of noses, however, led to interested speculation among local legislators concerning the identity of the seven from Cook county who are counted upon by the administration. They didn't care to discuss their associates publicly but there was general agreement concerning some men who probably are included in the seven.

It was said by veterans that the names of all of them probably appear in the following list of Republicans:

Albert J. Mancin, Second district.
Michael Ruddy, Fourth district.
E. A. W. Johnson, Sixth district.
Calvin T. Weeks, Eleventh district.
William V. Pacelli, Seventeenth district.
Edward M. Overland, Twenty-third district.
A. O. Galvin, Twenty-seventh district.
Michael R. Durso, twenty-ninth district.
Ernest W. Turner, Twenty1ninth district.
James J. McVicker, Thirty-first district.

Various reasons were given for listing these various members as among those most likely to support the governor's downstate forces. Some of them were mentioned because they are identified with the same political units that control some of the senators that last week voted for the resolution. Others are said to be waiting for Emmerson to act on their pleas for patronage.

Opposes Sanitary Bonds.

It also was learned during the day that in talking with friends, Gov. Emmerson has indicated disfavor for the Chicago sanitary district's request that he call a second special session soon to act upon the district's request for authority to issue $120,000,000 in nonreferendum bonds during a six year period in order to meet the construction demands of the federal government.

CONTRACTOR IS HUNTED; FEAR HE IS RIDE VICTIM

Naperville police and Du Page county deputies searched the highways and woodlands southwest of Naperville yesterday in a vain hunt for Lawrence Miller, 35 years old, Naperville carpenter contractor. He has been missing since Wednesday evening.

Although Miller had no known connection with liquor racketeers of Du Page county, Sheriff Lawrence Hattendorf and Police Chief Edward Otterpohl suspect that Chicago gangsters may have taken him for a ride. Chief Otterpohl was trying to link Miller's disapeparance with a recent raid on a barn in Naperville where a 4,500 gallon still was seized.

Miller's sedan was found on a lot in the Highland subdivision southwest of Naperville, where he had gone Wednesday evening to stake out ground in preparation for building a new home. He was last seen there about 8:30 p. m. Wednesday.

CRIME LECTURER GETS SPOTLIGHT TURNED ON SELF

Wisconsin Finds Out About C. E. Booth.

Information was requested yesterday by the Rotary club of New London, Wis., regarding C. E. Booth, who lectures in small towns on racketeering in Chicago.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, after inquiries had been made, said that small communities should be warned against persons of the type of Booth, who he declared make a living out of false statements about conditions in this city. Col. Randolph requested that Chief of Detectives Stege ask the police of New London, Wis., to send Booth's finger prints and measurements here.

Booth Describes Himself.

A pamphlet issued by Booth and received here from New London contains a picture of Booth and the statement that he held a commission under County Judge Jarecki "which brought him into close experiences with the greatest organization of crooks ever known."

At Judge Jarecki's office and at the board of election commissioners it was said that C. E. Booth was never on any commission or on the pay roll. Later it was learned that Booth's commission was that of a voluntary watcher at the polls. Election officials said there are thousands of such watchers available at every election for whoever desires to have one.

Another description of Booth in the pamphlet was this: "He was one of the organizers and speakers of the campaign in 1928 which defeated the Thompson-Crowe forces." Albert Brunker, who headed the Swanson Business Men's league, said Booth took no part in the campaign and he never heard of the man.

Unknown to Crime Board.

The offices of the Chicago crime commission and the Employers' association—both of which organizations possess data on racketeering—said that Booth was unknown to them and had never obtained material from them.

Booth's literature gave his address as 1015 Auditorium building, Chicago. The International Lyceum and Chautauqua association is at that address. Alfred L. Flude, executive secretary, said that Booth had joined the association, which, however, did not furnish him bookings. Flude recalled that for a brief time Booth had been connected with a Chicago organization which specializes in election indorsements.

E. J. Davis of that organization said Booth came to him recommended by some Chautauqua circuit.

Lila Lee, Husband Agree on Property Settlement

Los Angeles, Cal., May 23.—[Special.]—James Kirkwood and Lila Lee have agreed on a property settlement and, after a few days, Kirkwood is to file an action for divorce from his young actress wife, daughter of Charles Appel, fugitive Chicago Turner hall executive. Kirkwood, it is said, will allege desertion and will ask custody of the couple's 6 year old son. The couple were married here in July, 1923.

SECRET DIPLOMACY IN THE NAVY TREATY.

The hearings on the navy treaty in Washington do not sustain a belief that the most relevant facts are being brought into the open. The first would be an explanation of the full purpose in the negotiations between the United States and Great Britain. It is not easily to be believed that the American and British negotiators had no more in mind than a pretense of finding something which would pass for equality in sea power with a saving in money.

It was given out that President Hoover and Mr. MacDonald talked of several items for the conference when they were together in the Rapidan camp. One was British sea bases, particularly in American waters. Nothing was heard of that in London. The American large cruiser doctrine also was lost there along with the limitation of Japan to the Washington ratio of 5-3. No one pretends that a genuine equality was sought in the negotiations or is provided in the treaty.

Mr. Stimson's reply to many questions is that the United States got the best it could. There is no explanation of why it was forced to accept anything if American judgment was against it or why it chose to do so. The United States had nothing to lose if no treaty could be agreed upon. If there was a hazard it is unknown to the people. It would be interesting for Mr. Stimson to say what injury would have been done if the negotiators had come home without anything. No damage generally known resulted from the failure of the preceding Geneva conference.

What secret diplomacy, if any, was made the basis of the treaty? Has the American government acted upon the conviction that the stability of civilization requires a strengthening of the British empire in days which present it with difficult problems in several parts of the world? What relation did the unsettled status of Egypt, Soudan and the Suez canal bear to the London conference? What influence did the condition of India have upon the negotiations? Was the truculence of South Africa considered? Is the United States agreeing to relieve the empire of doubts as to its sea supremacy in order that it may handle its internal questions with more confidence?

It is transparent that the negotiations did not proceed upon the basis of any ideas which were represented as the topics of discussion between the heads of the two governments in the Virginia woods when Mr. MacDonald made his visit here. It's a fair question to ask what doctrines, then, were used for the treaty. Most of the navy chiefs were dismissed from consultation. The treaty does not serve its ostensible purposes. It is plain that Japan took advantage of a new situation and got a new ratio and new strength.

The senate is asked to consent to a treaty the purpose of which is not known to the public. There is no evidence that it is known by the senators.

THE CASTLE FALLS.

A huge sign announcing "Carnival" and "Everybody Welcome" has irrupted suddenly from the grounds of the old Palmer mansion on Lake Shore drive. The blinds are down; all else is quiet on the place; but the sign indicates no less that the castellated pile, since the far eighties a symbol of ambition on this west side of civilization, has entered its last phase.

The old Palmer mansion is an antique left from the gilded age that followed the civil war, and Chicago will much miss it. Though suited architecturally more for the bottom of a goldfish bowl than a place on Lake Shore drive, it has filled its place indomitably and well. The midland will have its castles, and its Queen Victorias, too.

The old Palmer mansion is headed for the toothed maw of the steam shovel. It will make, no doubt, a few feet more of ground along the shores of Lincoln park. Carnival for a day or so before the fall: Everybody welcome: It is safe to say that the Palmers are not there.

THE CONSCRIPT FATHERS RIP OUT THE PHONE.

As the dial telephone mechanism is familiar to use here, it is required of the citizen using it that he know his letters and his numbers. With that literacy he can take off the first three letters in the name of a telephone exchange. He also is required to know the exchange and the number with which he wishes a connection. Then he is called upon to stick his finger or a pencil, a fountain pen, gold toothpick, knife point, scissors blade or any other small, suitable instrument—a drill if he is a dentist, the handle of a paint brush if he is an artist, or a corkscrew if he is a congressman—and whirl the dial around. Then he says hullo how about shooting a game this afternoon if it's 2 o'clock, or say honey I'm not going to be able to be home to dinner if it's 6. Then it's done and he doesn't play golf and he does go home to dinner.

The Conscript Fathers in the senate at Washington are ordering the blank dials out because Senator Carter Glass of Virginia can't work the abominable things, nor can the other Fathers. They are ready to fire them out of the District of Columbia. It will probably be all for the best. If a senator knows how to use the telephone he's likely to be before an investigating committee, and the man on the other end of the wire will be in luck to stay out of jail. [The man in the Green Hat makes his calls like a milkman. A telephone is not needed for that.] A Conscript Father gets nothing by being able to use a dial telephone. The less he knows the better he's off.

THE RISING AGAINST THE BIGOT.

The final tabulation in the Literary Digest prohibition poll contains a total of 4,806,464 votes, of which 1,943,052 were for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, 1,399,314 for modification of the Volstead act and 1,464,098 for strict enforcement. In percentages it was 40.43 for repeal, 29.11 for modification and 30.46 for enforcement. By states the bone dry vote carried five and the repeal of the amendment carried five. The others were carried by the combination of modification and repeal.

Some dry s have tried to discount the poll by saying that enforcement sentiment deliberately withheld its opinion when given the chance to express it. Against this is the statement of Dr. Clarence True Wilson that a good dry would vote three times. Also there is a check in the recent Pennsylvania Republican primaries. The poll gave that state: Enforcement, 147,557; modification, 136,233; repeal, 243,063. In the Republican primaries for governor Pinchot was the bone dry candidate, Brown a moderate, or the equivalent of a modificationist, and Phillips was for the repeal of the amendment. Virtually complete returns gave Pinchot 618,544, Brown 608,454, and Phillips 260,283. Both in the poll and in the primaries the majorities were against Volsteadism. Bigotry is whistling for its courage when it tries to discredit the evidence of the rising against it.

It would be strange if there were not a growing protest against conditions in American life and government. It would be a dismaying symptom of citizenship indifference to evil. It has just been revealed that the fanatics in Rhode Island tried to obtain a threat from the administration in Washington that if the state voted against prohibition in its referendum congress would retaliate by taking tariff protection from industries in which it is chiefly interested. That passes the bounds of insane coercion. It could be thought of only by men who, being frustrated in their attempts to control, have lost their heads and gone wild. It was, however, only an exhibit in the rule of the bigot which has tried to sweep the country.

The fear of moderates is that this fanaticism has prevailed so long and to such evil consequences that the revolt against it will go too far. Puritan extremes brought in the dissoluteness of Charles II. Virtue having been made obnoxious, decency was made opprobrious. If well considered and balanced measures of relief are to be had they must come quickly. Otherwise it may be too late. The pendulum is swinging to the other end of its arc.

THE COST OF OLD-AGE PENSIONS.

In Europe and a few of our states old-age pensions are required by law. Generally the funds from which they are paid are provided jointly by the employés, the employers and the state. Though most of our states have left employers free to pension or not to pension, it is significant that many corporations, large and small, have created retirement funds on their own initiative. This fact indicates a desire on the part of managements to reward long and faithful service and remove the wage earner's nightmare of destitution in old age. If this end can be achieved without setting up another bureaucracy so much the better.

Employers, before undertaking to create pension funds, desire to find out what it is likely to cost them. They turn to the insurance companies for counsel. If the experience which THE TRIBUNE has had with its pension provisions is at all typical, the cost as estimated by insurance actuaries is altogether too high and might well serve to discourage employers from venturing into the field. The rates seem to be based upon the assumption that every employé will be pensioned at the earliest moment that his age and term of service permits. So far as our experience may be taken as a guide this assumption is far from accurate. Employés do not apply for pensions at the first opportunity and the company is not eager to rid itself of the services of men who are still able and vigorous, though of pensionable age.

Possibly the rates do not discriminate sufficiently between industries. In some occupations a man is no longer useful when his physical strength is waning. In many others this loss of physical strength is relatively unimportant and is more than balanced by experience, ripe judgment and proved loyalty. It is unfortunate if failure to discriminate between industries has forced the cost of pension insurance to the point of discouraging well intentioned employers from undertaking it. The costs should not prove burdensome to many of our more solvent companies.

WHOSO DIGGETH A PIT.
[Philadelphia Public Ledger.]

When the United States finishes the naval construction contemplated in the London treaty, we will have what amounts to a brand new fleet so far as cruisers are concerned. Great Britain and Japan will have cruisers the majority of which are six to eight years older than those of the United States, which, presumably, will be the last word in technical development. According to the naval experts, the differential is of considerable importance.

This point may be regarded from two angles. It represents, in the first place, a concession of some significance. The British are waiting until we catch up with them. The Japanese are actually allowing the United States to catch up with them and surpass them. It is a voluntary sacrifice on the part of these two powers which should not pass unnoticed in counting up the advantages and the disadvantages of the treaty.

There is also the other aspect of the case. Many British and Japanese navalists undoubtedly sought to profit by the American attitude on limitation of armaments. They believed and hoped that the Washington conference was the last word in limitation rather than the first. They assumed that, while the United States was refraining from building, the British and Japanese navies could get such a lead that the American navy would never be able to overtake them. They were very shrewd.

Now they see the United States in a position to possess the most modern and advanced cruiser fleet in the world. They have fallen into the pit they dug for others.

BUT, WOULD IT HELP?

Cosmo Hamilton (you know, English author, and so on, and so on) burst forth in an interview yesterday saying—to wit and namely, turn rule and follow copy: "A divorce ought to be so easy that it could be obtained for five cents." Cosmo, being English, should have said "thrippence"; but the idea is the same. But from the number of divorces that are being asked for and obtained these days the price for getting one should be down to a nickel, or even two for a nickel. The one place in the United States that reports a boom, according to the figures of the new census now dribbling slowly in, is Nevada. Other places report that their inhabitants are selling the old home and scudding for the city as fast as they can go, but out in Nevada they can't build homes fast enough for the ladies who want to settle down and establish a residence so they can get a divorce.

And Chicago and Paris are doing very well with the divorce industry, too, because the thing has become what you might call an industry. Selling divorces for a nickel, though, wouldn't help it. It's usually the couples that have only a nickel left between 'em that stand shoulder to shoulder and fight it grimly out and love each other the more. It's more generally the couple that's down to their last two million dollars that wants divorce. But maybe that's Cosmo's idea; making divorces dirt cheap would make people scorn 'em. Maybe we might give away divorce decrees with cigars or cigarettes or chewing gum. And if they got ten decrees, say, they could turn 'em in for a handsome parlor lamp, or a gilt bird cage with a live canary bird, or a flock of goldfish in a bowl, or something else like that. Then people would scornfully throw their divorce coupons on the floor and walk haughtily away from them. Oh, well, maybe it's too much of a problem to settle all at once.

IDYL.

Then let me pass beyond the forest wall,
There is a tapestry of beryl shade,
And there's the clamor of a waterfall,
Lost in the tangles of a deep, far glade.

This is a rendezvous for mating bird,
In the clear hours between the dark and dawn,
The old, old call in sylvan recess heard,
And the fleet shadow of a dappled fawn.

I have not seen a wild rose yet this year
Beside the mellowed wood of a prone tree,
A little clearing sown to ferns is near,
I well remember—as it used to be.

When June comes near I can but think of these,
Wild flowers and ferns and friendly forest trees.

CLARENCE P. MILLIGAN.

THE SENATE has ordered dial telephones out of the senate office building and demanded the return of the sweet voiced telephone girls. The trouble with a dial telephone is that when the telephone rings the senator can't say to the dial, "If it's that big stiff from my home town calling me tell him to go to hell."

THA DUKE TAKES THA HOUND OUT FOR A AIRING.

Say you—lissen. Just after supper las nite tha B and C notices me getting my slippers and pipe which is her cue to find me a occupation so she asks me to take our hound for a airing. If I had my way tha hound wood get a permanent airing, ennyway were walking down tha street when tha dog sees a uncle or cuzzin of hern across tha street an dashes wildly under 4 cars an a truck an wen I salvedged her she was hollerin blue murder. A big crowd gathered and offered a lotta advice. Just then a stranger suggests his driving me an tha hound to tha dog hospital to let tha vegetarian see how bad she's hit. Tha dumps closed so we ring tha night bell and a guy appears (theres a swell job, night clerk in a dog hospital). We goes in and instead of him doin somthin fer tha hound he sets at a desk and pulls out either a census blank or a income tax report an wants to know how old I am, what my Grandmother's maiden name was, my occupation, age, whether I'm naturalized and 18 other dam fool questions. I finally tells him its tha dog what got run over, not me, tha reply is "Yes! Yes! Yes, too bad! too bad! too bad! His next crack calls for a 5 buck deposit so I starts arguing as to what tha hell was tha big idea inasmuch as he had tha hound for security and he tells me he would sell me a dozen dogs like mine for $1.50 F. O. B. my home or $1.60 in Canada. Tha guy what gave us tha pup tole me he guessed that it was worth 50 bucks or not a cent so it looks like the 2nd guess won. Tha next crack from tha pooch interne was "Is she a male?" and I says "No he's a female." By this time he an I aint hitching very well an when he asks me what breed she was I tells him 100% bull and he says, "I mean tha purp, not you." Well he finally gives tha patient a examination an sez she haint hurt none but she's got mumps an tha pip an lumpy jaw an a hob nailed liver plus a bad case of strepti-cockeye. This aint news ta me cause a dog what would cross tha street tha way ours did is naturally cockeyed, besides I recall one day her tryin to get into 2 stalls of a revolving door at tha same time. When I gets home an reports to tha Mama all I get is "Tha next time you take her out an somebody gets run over I hope tha dog gets a break." If tha hound creaks an tha B and C aint thinking very fast I'm gonna collect a cupple bucks what she aint gonna know nothin about an that's tha license money.

THREE ROUSING CHEERS! Lit. Dig.'s national vote on prohibition shows 69% of us are damp and 31% dry. Strike up the band—light bonfires, beat the drums, sound the bugles—BUT, HOLD! The 31% boss us 69% and we'll do as we are told—so please pass the buttermilk. But why do the 69% let the 31% boss 'em? Ah, dearie, that's something neither you, nor I, nor any one knows.

YESTERDAY'S PAPERS said that scientists have found a skull a million years old, which they say is probably that of the missing link. And another important item yesterday was that something was being done about Muscle Shoals. We therefore claim that yesterday was the dullest day of the year. When the newspapers find a new missing link skull and dig up an item about Muscle Shoals all on the same day, they're just about down to the bottom of the barrel.

CONGRESS is so dull we wish it would adjourn and go on vacation. At least we have fun when they come back from vacation and their trunks leak all over the custom house. R. H. L.

DIFFER ON TUBERCULOSIS.

JUST when Dr. Dublin is busiest in predicting the elimination of consumption among human beings, and even setting a date when the evening will come, another authority of equal renown says we are due for an increased prevalence of the disease. Dr. Dublin is a statistician and bases his opinion on the performance of the past. Dr. Opie is a biologist and bases his opinion on biology and epidemiology.

Dr. Opie's views on the nature of consumption are of interest because of their relationship to his prophecy and for other reasons as well. He holds that most of the consumption found in adults is the result of new infection and not a lighting up of an infection which has lain latent since childhood. This theory leads to the conclusion that exposure of adults to infection in the home and the work place must be guarded against. A policy of protecting children but paying no attention to adults is wrong. According to this theory, fatigue, work, and worry are not the outstanding causes of consumption in adult life.

Dr. Opie comes near to saying that a little tuberculosis is good for the child. Most children acquire the infection before they reach school age. This childhood infection may cause ordinary lung tuberculosis and death, or a latent tuberculosis, which may become extensive, or a bone, gland, or meningeal tuberculosis with severe injury. However, these are the exceptional outcomes. The rule is for a few glands to become infected, for these to heal, and thus make the child immune for a number of years. As life goes by this immunity is apt to wear out. If it does and the person picks up an infection he gets a disease of the lungs commonly known as consumption. This disease pursues a course that differs markedly from the type of tuberculosis found in childhood. When adults develop what the lay person calls galloping consumption it is because they have not been partially protected by a childhood infection.

These views suggest that we try hard to find a method of immunizing in childhood which will either provide an immunity which will last for a lifetime or else a method which can be used every seven years, as is the case with smallpox; or that, at least, can be reused at, say, twenty years.

HEIGHT AND WEIGHT.

H. J. R. writes:

1. Please advise me on a diet which may increase my height. I am worried over my height and fear it is due to improper food.
2. Should any one who is trying to increase his height drink coffee?
3. Will meat be an aid in increasing height?
4. How long should a boy sleep?
5. How can one purify his blood?

REPLY.

1. You do not give your age, but my guess is there is not a Chinaman's chance that you can affect your height by diet.
2. Has no effect either way.
3. No.
4. A boy 16 years of age should sleep nine hours.
5. The blood purifies itself and nothing you can do makes any difference.

EATING GLUTEN BREAD.

Anxious writes: I am a diabetic and am told to eat gluten bread. I can't eat it. Could I do without any kind of bread or could you tell me if there is any other kind of bread I can eat?

What kind of fruit can I have?

I have 1 per cent sugar and sometimes only a trace. I am 30 years old.

REPLY:

You can do without breads and cereals or you could eat casein breads or some other low starch bread. There are several on the market. However, let me advise you to follow the advice of your physician. Even diabetics can eat too little cereals and breads.

The probability is that you can eat grapefruit, oranges, apples, and peaches, at least. However, leave that to your dietitian or physician.

MIND AND PHYSICAL BEING.

E. J. D. writes: A man 6 feet high and weighing 200 pounds is very nervous. He has nervous breakdowns, during some of which he becomes irrational. He had to go to a sanitarium once. He sleeps very poorly. Recently he began taking cod liver oil. The second night after he began he slept all night. He says taking cod liver oil makes him sleep and causes him to be calmer and think clearly. What shall he do?

REPLY:

Continue taking the oil, of course. Great is the influence of mind on matter or, better, of suggestion on mind. Also, coincidence is often the basis of conclusion.

TUMBLE DOWN HOUSE CLOSED UP.

Chicago, May 12.—[Friend of the People.]—The house at 2129 West 13th street is in a tumble down condition. It has become the hangout for hoodlums in the evening, and in the daytime the younger children play in it. As it is in a very shaky condition, it is only a matter of time until an accident occurs. It should either be wrecked or boarded up.

The owner of the building has been notified by this department to board up all door and window openings in order to keep out the public. CHRISTIAN F. PASCHEN, Commissioner of Buildings.

FIRST CLEAN-UP SINCE BIG STORM

Chicago, May 12.—[Friend of the People.]—The alley in the rear of my home on East 85th place has not been cleaned since the big snowstorm in December. It is so full of ashes and garbage that we can hardly get the car in and out of the garage. What is the use of one department of the city trying to improve health conditions while another produces the cause? Anything you can do for us will certainly be appreciated. E. P. S.

Report is made that alley has been given a thorough cleaning and is now in first class condition. Hereafter service will be given as frequently as the inadequate funds at our disposal will permit.

MAKING A WILL.

Chicago, May 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In making a will (in Illinois) are the signatures of (1) three witnesses all that is necessary? Must one have (2) a lawyer, or (3) a notary public?

R. H. H.

1. The statute requires two witnesses.
2-3. Not required.

However, we strongly advise you to employ an attorney in the drafting and execution of so important a document.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 24, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—The sun shone brilliantly and a more beautiful day for the grand military review could not have been asked than this has been. By 8 o'clock every available spot along the route of the parade was taken up by spectators, and windows and housetops were jammed. In the vicinity of the White House the scene was brilliant and gay in the extreme. In front of the executive mansion a large stand had been erected for President Johnson, Gen. Grant, members of the cabinet, distinguished officers of the army and navy, and the diplomatic corps. At 9:25 the head of the column, led by Gen. Meade, passed the main stand, and the movement of the 80,000 troops in line continued until 3:20 o'clock in the afternoon. Tomorrow Gen. Sherman's army, estimated at 117,000, will be reviewed.

NEW YORK.—The Democrat says that in addition to Dr. Blackburn's plan to introduce yellow fever into northern cities by way of Bermuda and Halifax, the Canada conspirators decided to send to Liverpool about $100,000 worth of new clothing and after having it infected with smallpox and yellow fever poison to import it into the United States. A large amount of it was then to be delivered as a present to the sanitary commission furnishing supplies to northern soldiers.

FORTRESS MONROE.—Jeff Davis was removed from the steamer Clyde to Fortress Monroe. During the removal no person was permitted to approach within 500 yards of the wharf. C. C. Clay accompanied Davis inside the fort. Mrs. Davis and their four children were left on the steamer and will be sent south, orders having been received from the war department prohibiting their going north. The parting between Davis and his family is described as having been extremely affecting. It is said that Davis' immediate place of confinement will be within the casemates, which are rock ribbed and arched mansions within the fort, each well nigh constituting a fort in itself.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 24, 1900.

BERLIN.—The meat bill, prohibiting the importation of canned meats, sausage or sausage meats, passed the reichstag by a vote of 163 to 123. The bill has already been promised the bundesrath's approval, when it will become a law.

CHICAGO.—The American Anti-Cigarette league, of which Lucy Page Gaston is president, has been throwing its influence into farther fields, and has just been branded in Washington City as an imposition on children. Its promoters stand charged with selling badges for profit and with encouraging school boys and girls to the contemptible art of spying. Willis Brown, formerly pastor of the Lake View Baptist church, has been in charge of the Washington crusade.

LONDON.—Lord Roberts is continuing his advance on Johannesburg and is less than 50 miles from the Vaal river. He is driving detached Boer commands northward as he proceeds. In an interview yesterday President Kruger said: "Unconditional surrender on our part is absolutely out of the question. The Transvaal will fight on until the greater part of her burghers are dead. But plenty of life remains in her yet."

CHICAGO.—After Dr. Dowie had "cast the devils" out of Millie Logan, who had been adjudged insane, and paraded her as a "cure," Mrs. V. T. Bone, the girl's mother, says she found her lying on the floor of a small room in one of Dowie's auxiliary homes at 16 Sixteenth street. The girl was bound with cords that cut into the flesh and was crying because of the pain. She was taken to the Kankakee insane asylum.

NEW YORK.—Frank R. Carpenter, whose paintings, "Arbitration" and "Lincoln Reading the Emancipation Proclamation," brought him fame, died here. He began the latter picture in February, 1864, and for six months lived in the White House with President Lincoln.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 24, 1920.

CHICAGO.—Two separate attempts were made to assassinate State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne yesterday. Both times rifle shots were fired into his residence at 5136 Blackstone avenue. On the second attempt the assassin sent a rifle bullet into a room on the top floor of the house, narrowly missing Francis J. Hoyne, the prosecutor's 15 year old son, and a student at Kenwood High school. For weeks Mr. Hoyne has been receiving letters threatening death, burning of his home, and divers other calamities. Some of them were signed "The Black Hand."

MEXICO CITY.—A vast crowd met the body of Venustiano Carranza, president of Mexico, treacherously slain by Gen. Rodolfo Herrero and his band. Gen. Pablo Gonzales has ordered the capture and summary execution of Hererrea and al his followers who participated in the assassination.

POLAND'S RIGHT TO THE CORRIDOR.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 22.—Prof. Lessing of Williams college, Massachusetts, while traveling in the land of his forefathers, wrote from Berlin some time ago deploring "the injustice done to Germany by the taking away of Upper Silesia, West Prussia, Posen, and the thrusting of the corridor between East Prussia and the fatherland."

Mr. Lessing should not be blamed for his avowal of sympathies with Germany, but he should keep within the limits of truth and historical facts and he should not lend himself to anti-Polish propaganda "made in Germany."

No doubt Upper Silesia, Posen, and West Prussia were of incalculable value to Germany. So they were to Poland when Prussia robbed Poland of them through the crime of the partitions. The restoration of those provinces in part only has not fully righted such wrong and Prof. Lessing should not join the hypocritical German propaganda cry of "Geraubte Geblete." Those provinces ever were and now are archPolish and they will remain so.

The word "corridor" in relation to Polish territory reaching to the Baltic is a term especially coined for German propaganda purposes. There is no "corridor." There is an integral part of Poland's territory with an indisputably Polish population reaching to the Baltic, and Danzig should have been a part of such territory to carry out Wilson's 13th point, the Versailles treaty and the two decisions of the Cambon commission. That Danzig was not unconditionally allotted to Poland is due to the opposition of Lloyd George.

But Prof. Lessing ought to know that he is stating an untruth when he says the American visitors to the "corridor" "will find lands, never Polish before, in Polish hands; they will see one of the oldest German cities, Danzig, fighting a losing fight, etc." The untruth is that not one square foot of the territory composing the so-called "corridor" was never Polish before, and the truth is that Danzig, or Gdansk, was a Polish city till 1793, when it became Prussian, in spite of the violent opposition of the inhabitants.

From an economical standpoint Gdansk, or Danzig, has never been in as flourishing a condition as it is now through the business of Poland and her hinterland.

As to the bridge at Opalenie, or Muensterwalde, as the Germans rechristened it after the partitions, Prof. Lessing is equally misinformed. That bridge touches Polish territory at either end and it is nobody's business whether Poland dismantles or maintains it. No rail or highway has been blocked by dismantling it, and this act was fully justified by the utterly negligible traffic across that bridge. According to German statistics the nine million gold marks bridge serves five wagon loads and 19 foot passengers per day at a cost of maintenance of $22 per passenger per year. Poland maintains a steam ferry across the Vistula at that point, entirely sufficient for all purposes of traffic. But Prof. Lessing may not know, and if he knows he carefully refrains from telling, that Germany built that bridge in 1909 for eastern traffic only and solely for the strategic reason of throwing her troops into czarist Russia when the proper occasion arose.

And now we come to the "isolation" that Prof. Lessing so much deplores. This isolation existed for hundreds of years before partition; the territory was originally Polish, acquired by the Knights of the Cross through grants by Polish kings. The economical value of East Prussia to Germany was always negligible, and as East Prussia has an absolutely unrestrained and duty free commercial intercourse with Germany, such value can be maintained in statu quo, and if now East Prussia is sponging on the German Reich, that is not Poland's fault.

And how has Germany lost her Baltic ports? She has free access to Danzig, and how about Koenigsberg, Warmuende, Stettin, and Luebeck?

The concluding paragraph of Prof. Lessing's letter is nothing short of an affront to American intelligence. So we were "treacherously induced to subscribe to a wrong"? What wrong? We were not a signatory to the Versailles treaty. Did America do wrong in helping to restore Poland's Independence, one of the conditions of peace?

But let us understand that this persistent and unjustified agitation for a change of Germany's eastern boundary, at the expense of Poland is an extremely dangerous propaganda and the sure means of leading to another war.

CASIMIR GONSKI.

BRIGHT COLLEGE YEARS.

Chicago, May 20.—A news item said the college expenses of the son of John D. Rockefeller Jr. were $1,500 per year. He allowed himself a car during the last year, attended one prom, and lived in a very moderate priced rooming house. The costs of his college life, reports have it, were more moderate than those of sons of parents of more moderate means.

Supposing this youth would spend as follows:

50 suits at $100	$ 5,000
50 overcoats at $100	5,000
Shoes, shirts, etc.	20,000
Total, per year	$30,000
5 autos per year at $3,000	15,000
Home, living quarters, etc., per mo. $1,000	12,000
Entertaining	5,000
Help, chambermaid, valet, etc.	4,000
Total per year	$66,000

That would be $264,000 for four years. Think of all the good these expenditures would bring in employment to household help, servants, factories, caterers, and to himself. What if his college life expenses amounted to $1,000,000? Would it seriously menace the Rockefeller fortune? J. C. F.

MORE SUNSHINE.

Chicago, May 20.—Here are several ideas you might find worth while to advocate:

1. Teach and make possible the health advantages of sun baths to the great army of indoor workers. Influence the city to provide sun bathing facilities free to the public.
2. Abolish the stupid and inhumane custom of men wearing their coats indoors in hot weather. I have seen men clerks waiting on women with bare legs and low cut, sleeveless dresses who looked miserable and I suppose those same women would be first to raise a howl if a man took off his coat.
3. A five day working schedule certainly would give people more time to consume articles they manufacture and would help to eliminate accidents and illness due to fatigue. It would give workers more sunlight and better health, making for more efficient workers.

FAST TRAINS.

Cincinnati, O., May 16.—Speaking of fast trains, mention should be made of the New York Central's "Southwestern Limited" and "Knickerbocker" from St. Louis to New York. These trains average 50.5 miles per hour for the total distance [1,156 miles] and they make the 536 mile run from St. Louis to Cleveland over the Big Four route in 10 hours and 20 minutes, an average speed of 51.8 miles per hour.

THE THRUSH AGAIN.

Chicago, May 19.—After reading the description of the so-called thrush seen in the loop recently and of the one that died of grief in a Gary yard I wonder if either bird was a thrush and not a brown thrasher instead. The fact that both birds had long slim tails and were larger than an ordinary thrush leads me to believe they were brown thrashers, which are also cinnamon brown in color, with light breasts spotted with black, and are possessed of a musical and very sweet song. I am familiar with both birds, having thrashers and two or three varieties of the thrush in my garden every spring.

SCIENCE SOLVES CANARY MURDER MYSTERY (REAL)

Lie Detector Points Out Cop as Guilty Man.

The eight month old canary murder case was definitely solved yesterday. Policeman William Tobin of the East Chicago avenue station was found guilty by Probate Judge Henry Horner of the charge of slaying or kidnaping "Nimble," pet canary of Miss Anna Gustafson, who committed suicide in her home at 816 Cass street last Oct. 1. Disclosure was withheld until Monday.

The engrossing mystery which resulted in a triple investigation by the police, coroner, and public administrator was cleared up by science's newest device for combating crime—the lie detector.

The Story of Mystery.

Miss Gustafson, owner of a tea-shop, was found dead in the basement apartment of her home with the jets of the gas stove open. The fumes had not fully penetrated to "Nimble's" room, where he was found perched in his cage singing cheerfully.

Tobin and Policeman Henry J. Healy were stationed to guard the dead woman's effects. The next day the canary was gone. The finger of suspicion pointed to Tobin and Healy. Four days later a canary was found dead on the floor of the cage. The bird was believed to be "Nimble" and was buried after a coroner's autopsy established death was due to "fractures of the cervical vertebrae caused by wringing of the neck."

Then followed a dramatic revelation. Miss Lillian Weinberger, a friend of Miss Gustafson, was not satisfied with the police department's solution and had the body of the bird was exhumed. She declared it was not "Nimble" but a bird of inferior quality. "Nimble," it seemed, was not an ordinary canary, but had been trained to do tricks and was valued at $100.

Judge Calls Scientist.

The mystery remained unsolved and the case was moved to Judge Horner's court last February, where the dead woman's estate was to be closed. Two policemen took the stand and told any connection with the bird's disappearance. They contended the bird flew out of the house the day after the suicide and returned a few days later and dropped dead on the cage.

Prof. August Vollmer, head of the criminology department at the University of Chicago, was asked to help in the investigation. He made use of the lie detector.

His report, given to Judge Horner yesterday showed that Tobin knows what happened to the bird, but the lie detector absolved Dompke. Judge Horner, who said the report substantiated his belief, ordered Tobin to pay $5 to Miss Gustafson's estate.

When Tobin pleaded for more time to collect evidence in his defense, the judge withheld his decision until Monday.

WOMEN DRINK IN INDIANA MEN'S LOCKER ROOMS

Indianapolis, Ind., May 23.—[Special.]—Women have been drinking beer in men's locker rooms at the Riverside Municipal golf course, testimony revealed at the trial of Camilla Haines, city course manager, before a park board as result of shortage of 1,500 course season tickets.

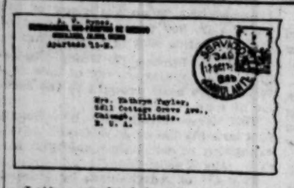
"The practice of women drinking in men's locker rooms should not be tolerated on municipal golf courses," declared Jackie W. Joseph, a member. Rossco admitted that some prominent professional and business men of the city occasionally took a nip after a golf game.

"They are prominent people and probably would not stop if I did order them to," Brasco told the board.

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.

FROM GUADALAJARA, MEXICO



Letter received by Mrs. Katherine Taylor, 5611 Cottage Grove avenue, Chicago.

"This letter comes from my sister, Miss A. V. Hines," Mrs. Taylor writes. "She was born and raised in Chicago, went out west 15 years ago, and went to work for the Arizona and Eastern railroad of Tucson, Ariz., as a stenographer in the president's office. The road is affiliated with the Southern Pacific lines, which built this line down as far as Guadalajara, Jalisco, Mexico.

"The offices and employés all were transferred to Guadalajara in July, 1927. She went down intending to stay about six months, but is still there with no thought of leaving. She writes it is a beautiful, flowery country with summer the year around, a rainy season of about six weeks being the only bad weather they have."

Guadalajarn is the capital of the state of Jalisco and is situated in the Antemarac valley near the Rio Grande de Santiago, about 6,000 feet above sea level. The Juantacatlan falls of the river near the city furnish the power for tramways and electric lighting. It is well built, with numerous straight, well paved streets, including the Paseo, a lengthy promenade extending along both banks of the river and culminating in the alameda, or public garden.

The city is an Episcopal see and its cathedral, built between 1571 and 1618, is one of the largest and most elaborately furnished churches in the country. Guadalajara was founded by Nuno de Guzman in 1531, and became the seat of an archbishop in 1549.

Other buildings include the government palace, the university, the mint, built in 1811, the modern national college and high schools, a theater, and a penitentiary. There are also numerous charitable establishments, chief of which is the hospicio, which combines an asylum for the aged, infirm, deaf and dumb, blind, a primary school, and a hospital.

Although the city lies in the center of a particularly fertile agricultural region, it is generally known as the nucleus of the country's iron, glass, and steel industries.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK REPORTS CHINESE REVOLT BROKEN

Two Positions Captured; Feng's Army Fleeing.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 23.—An official report from Chiang Kai-shek's headquarters at Suchowfu, northern Kiangsu province, claims that the northern rebels' positions at Lanfang and eastward toward Honan province, have been captured. The report declares this breaks the backbone of the northern rebellion against the government. Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang's troops are said to be retreating all along the line.

The town of Lanfang, which was defended by the combined forces of Gen. Feng and Gen Yen Hsi-shan, numbering 40,000 men, has been taken, the rebels being routed by a strategic flank attack executed by Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's new German trained army. Gen. Chiang's report claims the capture of 30,000 prisoners during the last week's fighting, together with large stocks of ammunition.

Siberian Revolt Spreads.

Reports from Harbin state that the peasant revolt in the Siberian maritime province is continuing. Several villages near Vladivostok are said to be affected. It is also reported that a mob of peasants stopped a trans-Siberian train at Rasdolmoe station and looted several cars of foodstuffs destined for the far eastern army at Vladivostok.

It is stated that the revolts are largely spontaneous, without leadership, and are due to scarcity of food. Travelers arriving at Harbin from Vladivostok state that many Russian soldiers have been killed and wounded as a result of clashes with rich peasants, or kulaks, who are putting up a strong fight against the soviet government policy of land socialization.

Troops Mutiny; Kill Commander.

HONGKONG, May 23.—(AP)—Soldiers numbering 1,000, stationed at Swatow, mutined today, murdered their commanding officer and fled to the mountains. A French airplane, one of three en route from Canton to Hanoi, French Indo-China, was forced to land 30 miles north of Macao and turned over. A swarm of Chinese robbed the airmen and removed parts of their plane. The flyers walked to Macao and obtained a police detachment to guard their plane.

Kidnap 500 for Ransom.

SHANGHAI, May 23.—(AP)—Five hundred bandits today looted two towns near Suining, in northern Kiangsu province, killing 100 of the villagers and kidnaping 400 for ransom. This latest development in bandit depredations followed news that 300 outlaws, half of them women, yesterday had attacked and plundered the village of Woosung, south of Canton. Guards were overcome and 100 persons carried off for ransom.

EXPECT CENSUS TO SHOW 633,101 IN PITTSBURGH

Total for Its County May Be 1,341,458.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 23.—(AP)—The population of Allegheny county, which includes Pittsburgh, today was estimated unofficially from totals of census supervisors at 1,341,458. Complete census figures for the city have not been compiled, but an unofficial compilation of district totals credited the city with a population of 663,101, a gain of 26,101 over the 1920 population.

Efforts have been made to consolidate Allegheny county under a metropolitan plan, giving it the name of Greater Pittsburgh. The voters of the county rejected the proposal at a special election last year.

The population of the county has increased 13.1 per cent in ten years on the basis of the unofficial compilation. Census supervisors indicated that the estimate may be changed slightly when a few isolated districts are rechecked.

Seminole, Okla., Gains 1109 Pct.

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(AP)—Seminole, Okla., first city to enter the 10,000 class in the 1930 census by attaining more than ten times its 1920 size, came into the lists today with a population of 10,332, an increase of 1109.8 per cent. Seminole's 1920 population was 854.

Rapid City Reaches 10,387.

Rapid City, S. D., May 23.—(AP)—Showing an 80 per cent gain, the largest of any city in the state, Rapid City now has a population of 10,387. The 1920 count was 5,777, making the ten year gain 4,610. Within the city limits are 21 farms. Rapid City now becomes fifth largest city in the state, displacing Watertown.

Manchester Confers Law Degree on Envoy Dawes

MANCHESTER, England, May 23.—(AP)—Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador, today was given the honorary degree of doctor of laws of Manchester university.

CONFEREES PUT FINAL PATCH ON NEW TARIFF ACT

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—Conferees of the senate and house approved the modified flexible tariff provision today, thus completing action on the conference report. It is planned to submit the report to the senate Monday and call it up for action on Tuesday. While the Democrats and radical Republicans will make a final attack upon the measure, and debate may run for a number of days, its approval seems assured. The house already has adopted a partial conference report and will quickly approve the supplemental report.

Under the new flexible provision the tariff commission would make recommendations to the President for changes in duties to equalize costs of production. The President would be required either to approve or disapprove the exact recommendation within 60 days. The new rates would become effective 10 days after the issuance of a proclamation.

WOMEN, STRANGE TO SAY, PUZZLE BRITISH JUDGES

One Asks Why They Wear Clothes.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23. — Women provided enigmas for two British judges today.

At Leeds, Justice McCardie, known as the "bachelor judge," was unable to decide whether a woman became theoretically the same person as her husband as soon as they were married, while Judge Crawford of the Edmonton County court was puzzled why women wear dresses at all.

Justice McCardie reserved judgment in a curious case which has been hanging fire for three weeks. In this case an insurance company is pushing a damage suit instituted by a woman against a man whom she later married.

Declares Law Is Chaotic.

"The law concerning the relation of a husband and his wife is chaotic," declared the bachelor judge. "I suppose the explanation is that this branch of English law is marked by features of medieval and ecclesiastical influence which would explain the doctrine of unity. But very gradually there has been a disposition of that ecclesiastical influence and an overthrow of the old theological mysticism, both by the growth of common law and by act of parliament, and wives now possess an individual existence."

Why Do Women Dress?

Another scene occurred at Edmonton county court, where the judge became lost in a labyrinth of technical dressmakers' terms such as "semi-fitting," "extra waist," and "extra outsize."

A dressmaker, suing an unsatisfied customer for the cost of a dress, attempted to tell the judge what it was all about; but the latter became so confused that he finally demanded to know why women wear dresses at all.

"Most things are odd where women are concerned," the magistrate concluded.

PENNSYLVANIA WETS LOOK FOR CANDIDATE TO DEFEAT PINCHOT

Philadelphia, Pa., May 23.—[Special.] Wet opponents of Gifford Pinchot determined to put a ticket in the field against him at the fall gubernatorial election, today began casting about for a candidate.

The new Personal Liberty party, the name of which was preempted in Harrisburg Wednesday, is reported to be considering three outstanding men. They are Justice John W. Keppart of the state Supreme court, Chief Justice Robert Von Moschzisker, and Ralph Beaver Strassburger of Norristown, publisher and former diplomat.

Mr. Pinchot meanwhile is saying nothing about the opposition that is crystallizing against him. He declares he does not consider prohibition the issue of the campaign.

"The outstanding issue," he said today, "is control of public utilities."

BISHOP CANNON IS RENAMED AS DRY BOARD HEAD

Dallas, Tex., May 23.— (AP) —The board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, tonight reelected Bishop James Cannon Jr., of Washington, D. C., as chairman.

The conference of the church recently exonerated Bishop Cannon of charges of stock market speculations, lodged against him by G. T. Fitzhugh of Memphis, Tenn., Josephus Daniels of Raleigh, N. C., and 20 other churchmen. The bishop yesterday was reelected a member of the board.

Mr. Fitzhugh told the Associated Press tonight in a long distance telephone conversation from Memphis that Cannon's reelection as chairman of the board "was a terrific blow to prohibition."

ARREST NEGRO SEIZE LIQUOR IN PULLMAN CAR

A scheme to smuggle Canadian booze to Chicago without any transportation costs was thwarted yesterday when railway police arrested Rudolph Young, a Negro, of 3953 South Michigan avenue, and seized 25 gunny sacks containing 444 pints of liquor from a Pullman car in the Chicago and North Western yards at Grand avenue.

The liquor was shipped from Vancouver in the roof of a Pullman car of the Canadian National railway. Access to the empty space above the rear vestibule was gained by removing a steel plate with a screwdriver.

Group Opposes Cut in Prices for New Books

Several Older Publishers Take That Stand.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—Answering Big Bertha in the battle over book prices among the publishers was fired today by ten publishers jointly.

Nothing that has happened in New York publishing circles has caused so much excitement as the announcement that four publishers were reducing the price of their light fiction of the fall to $1 and $1.50, and some of their nonfiction proportionately.

Doubleday, Doran & Co., Farrar & Rinehart, Simon & Schuster and Coward-McCann suddenly found themselves looked on as concerted wagers of a price war.

Banded against them today in a meeting, hastily called by Henry Hoyns, president of Harper & Co., were ten prominent New York publishing firms including Frederick A. Stokes, Harcourt Brace & Co., Dodd Mead & Co., Charles Scribner's Sons, the MacMillan company, G. P. Putnam's Sons, Alfred A. Knopf, E. P. Dutton & Co., and the Cosmopolitan Books corporation.

"On examination," their statement said, "the published statements regarding reduced prices of books are not nearly as significant as the headlines might lead the public to expect. The plan on which the statements are based, when analyzed and reduced to actuality, is economically unsound. The implication that the publisher has been making an undue profit is without basis. As a matter of fact book publishing is notoriously a low profit business. Any banker or auditor familiar with the conditions of book publishing will corroborate this statement.

"It is our belief that the present method of original publication followed, after a reasonable length of time, by reprint publication at a price lower in many instances than that now proposed, is vastly more to the advantage of author, bookseller, publisher, and the public. We feel that any radical departure from the present publishing custom will prove injurious to the interests of all concerned, and it is the intention of the houses signing this statement to avoid fundamental changes in their present methods of publishing."

By several of the publishers present the statement was sent out by wire to the leading booksellers of the country. A proposal was made that the statement be engraved and printed upon vellum, signed by the participants, and sent framed to all booksellers with the request that it be displayed in a conspicuous spot.

It is going to be a grand battle to watch. Mr. Frederick A. Stokes in a little speech preliminary to presenting copies of the official statement to the assembled reporters called the four price cutters "the now famous quartet" and said they had put over a remarkable publicity stunt.

It was another publicity stunt that was the cause of the trouble, according to jocose Alfred A. Knopf, "this is what comes of giving the White House a library instead of making them buy books. The public has the idea that we're all making so many millions that we have to give them away."

Alfred Harcourt, president of Harcourt Brace & Co., said, likewise jokingly, that for years the public had been complaining because there are too many books and too poor books and too many publishers, and this move ought to eliminate at least one of these worries.

Charles Boni, president of A. & C. Boni and publisher of the paper books which now retail at 75 cents, said: "There is no point in halfway measures. If books are to find a mass public they must meet magazine prices." He announced the publication of all of the present 75 cent paper books for 50 cents and the addition of new titles, with books from such writers as Thornton Wilder, D. H. Lawrence, Paul Morand, etc.

The Authors' League of America has not yet had time to take any official action on the subject, but Miss Louise Silcox, its executive secretary, said that a meeting would shortly be called for discussion. It was her private opinion that if new prices meant a larger audience, without any monetary loss to the authors, there would be no objection from them.

Frank Harris Tells of Cowboys of 60 Years Ago

"My Reminiscences as a Cowboy," by Frank Harris [Peper Books], which is so different from the author's previous Memoirs—it is as without sex as a handsome mule—will not be the last work of that astonishing writer, although he is 76 years old. He is busily engaged on a life of Shaw. Frank Harris and G. B. S. have been friends for practically their joint lifetimes. It was sixty years ago that Harris gathered the material for his "Reminiscences as a Cowboy." It's a swell western yarn.

HENRY SALT PLANS TO TELL OF SHAW, GANDHI, OTHERS TOO

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Aldous Huxley is to edit a collection of the letters of D. H. Lawrence; and Richard Aldington already has prepared a short essay on Lawrence which is being rushed out by the publishers. It is appearing here in two editions, one for collectors and the other for the general public.

Meanwhile the demand among English book sellers for copies of the first edition of Lawrence's "Assorted Articles" shows which way the wind is blowing. There is no doubt that Lawrence first editions are likely to increase substantially in value during the next few years.

Mr. Huxley's own book, "Brief Candles," which contains four short-ish stories (one of them a cruel and extremely amusing account of some English cranks who live an inhuman life of failure and self-righteousness; another the tale of a love affair between a middle aged novelist and a young girl) will be published here on May 15. It is one of his most entertaining books.

But the book of memoirs that I now anticipate with enthusiasm is one called "Company I Have Kept." The author is Henry S. Salt. Now the name of Mr. Salt may mean very little to the ordinary reader who is far from London; but to those who have seen Mr. Salt and those who are familiar with his work or his appearance, the news that he (of all men) has been persuaded to write his reminiscences is famous indeed.

For one thing, Mr. Salt probably knows Bernard Shaw as well as anybody now alive; and Mr. Shaw will figure prominently in the pages of this book. But so will the names of many other celebrated men, from Meredith and Ruskin to Gandhi and Edward Carpenter. Mr. Salt really has known these people. He is himself a great man. He is a classical scholar, a poet, a humanist, and humanitarian, and a man with a sense of humor. Ideal qualities in the writer of such a book. Please note it.

H. G. Wells, whose new novel, "The Autocracy of Mr. Parham," is to be published in July, is now in England for a few weeks. Collectors will be busy—nay, they are already busy—in obtaining, for fabulous prices, copies of a book by Mr. Wells that promises to be very rare. It has been published in a strictly limited edition, circulated only privately and it sets forth Mr. Wells's account (fully documented) of a controversy in which he has lately been engaged.

Biographer of Rasputin Now Studies the U. S.

Dr. Fulop-Miller Plans for Two Books.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special correspondence.]—Two books on America will result from the present visit of Rene Fülop-Miller, Austro-Hungarian journalist and biographer, author of "Rasputin, the Holy Devil," "The Mind and Face of Bolshevism," and the recently published "Power and Secret of the Jesuits."

Dr. Fülop-Miller is here to look us over in a coast to coast tour of inspection and analysis. His first book on America will be concerned with the theater, it was disclosed at the reception and luncheon given in his honor by the Viking press at the Ritz-Carlton on Wednesday. He speaks no English . . . my German is limited to "Du bist vie eine blume," and my French barely suffices to get the laundry back. But with Larry Rue, formally of the foreign service of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, as interpreter, I learned that little theaters in various states are on Dr. Fülop-Miller's itinerary . . . so are university theater workshops . . . and, of course, Hollywood. Already familiar with American movies, he says that Charlie Chaplin and Buster Keaton are our greatest artists.

Dr. Fülop-Miller has read American authors extensively. He pronounces Sinclair Lewis the modern Balzac . . . finds Theodore Dreiser as much European as American . . . compares Will Rogers to Mark Twain . . . enjoys Ring Lardner, Rex Beach, Booth Tarkington, Thornton Wilder, Edgar Lee Masters.

His second book on America, however, will not treat particularly of our literature but will be a general work dealing with the whys and wherefores of the American scene. He had experienced a Harlem night club and a subway rush hour immediately on arrival and may be expected in all the places where crowds gather for work or play. You'll recognize him by the alert curiosity in his long hazel eyes and his four inch cigar holder of thick amber. And you'll recognize his wife, Hedi Bendiner, Viennese opera singer, by that paprika chic and charm which has fascinated us in Fritzi Scheff.

Over the teacups at Sherry's Helene Mullins told us that, now that her new book of poems, "Balm of Gilead," is off the press, her summer will be devoted to completing her new novel, "Against the World." . . . Joseph Auslander's summer will be spent in Europe. He's just sailed in the interests of a poet's travel book which will lure him to all those spots which have romantic associations with poets, ancient and modern. . . . Rupert Hughes is off to Europe, too. . . .

But for us stay-at-homes there's ping-pong. . . . Wall street has taken it up in a big way, and many are the tables installed in those inner offices whence come messages "the partners are now in conference." . . .

There also is backgammon. . . . Henry Holt & Co. report that Grosvenor Nicholas' "Modern Backgammon" is one of their best sellers. . . . And there's always bridge. . . . ADVENTURES AMONG NEW BOOKS

BY THE LITERARY EDITOR.

FICTION.

Manhattan Night, by William Almon Wolff (Minton Balch), although there is a murder in it, rather is a story of too much luxury and a taut marriage than a "who done it" book.

Molly Moonshine, by Gertrude Knevels (Appleton), is an appealing Cinderella story.

The Decameron (Covici Friede), in a new complete translation by Richard Aldington, done in two sumptuous volumes, illustrated by Jean de Bosschere. The edition is limited to 2,500 copies for England and America.

Copy, 1930 (Appleton), the annual anthology of stories, plays, poems, and articles selected from the work of students in the writing courses of Columbia university.

A Storm at the Crossroads, by Tristram Tupper (Lippincott), six novelettes about men you don't want to forget.

Seductio ad Absurdum, by Emily Hahn [Brewer & Warren], is subtitled "The Principles and Practices of Seduction." The author defines seduction of "the process of persuading some one to do that which he or she has wanted to do all the time." It's one of those spoofing joys.

The Years That Take the Best Away, by Barbara Noble [Doubleday Doran] is an unusual first novel about youth.

The Week-End Library, Issue of 1930 [Doubleday Doran] is the world's greatest book bargain, "Of Human Bondage," by Somerset Maugham, complete; "Youth," by Joseph Conrad, among other literary blessings for 1,500 pages for the price of a novel.

The Well Meaning Young Man, by Luise and Magdalen King-Hall [Appleton], is a gay modern yarn by the author of "The Diary of a Young Lady of Fashion" in collaboration with her sister.

Axelle, by Pierre Benoit [Dial], is a drama of love and duty—a German girl's love for a French prisoner of war, a vivid tale by the author of that still discussed "Atlantida."

The Viennese Lover, by Marta Karlweis [Washburn] is a story of Vienna society, torn by the war from its moorings, and of a dashing hero whose code once was that manners were supreme and morals superfluous.

Great Sea Stories of All Nations, edited by H. M. Tomlinson [Doubleday Doran], probably the best anthology of the sea ever made, 1,100 pages from all languages and all countries, east and west, with a stirring foreword by the editor.

Flag in the Wind, by Alfred Stanford [Morrow], is the story of a man and a girl who found adventure in a dangerous cove on Cape Cod, with a swell fight against the raging sea as a high spot.

MYSTERY.

The Scarab Murder Case, by S. S. Van Dine [Scribners], is the latest Philo Vance story. Mr. Van Dine's amateur detective is the most gentlemanly, and probably the most scholarly snooper in literature. His murderes in this case is likewise.

The Death of Cosmo Revere, by Christopher Bush [Crime Club], is about a murder that looked pretty much like the fulfillment of an ancient prophecy.

The Mystery of the House of Commons, by Fielding Hope [Dial], nips off three socialist leaders before steps are taken.

The Shadow Syndicate, by Clifford Hosken [Dial], is as elusive a mystery as the shadows that are closed in the song.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

My Story, by Mrs. Parvati Athavale [Putnam], is the autobiography of a Hindu widow, who plainly was not a sati.

Seventeen Letters of Lord Byron to an Unknown Lady, 1811-1817 (Covici Friede), edited with an introduction and notes by Walter Edwin Peck, are published in an edition limited to 500 copies. The unknown lady was the mother of a child of his. The child died.

Gold Rush Days with Mark Twain, by William R. Gillis (Boni), who knew both intimately and who remembers them with glamor.

Thomas Chatterton, by Esther Parker Ellinger (University of Pennsylvania Press), is new scholarly material on "the marvelous boy."

Mary Gladstone, Her Diaries and Letters, edited by Lucy Masterman [Dutton]; Mary, the daughter of William E.

Charlemagne, First of the Moderns, by Charles Edward Russell [Houghton Mifflin], who sees him as meaning more to the modern world than any other figure of the middle ages.

The Critical Year, by Howard K. Beale [Harcourt Brace], is a study of "Andy" Johnson and reconstruction.

Verdi, by F. Bonavia [Oxford University Press], is the composer as revealed in recently discovered letters.

James William Ellsworth, His Life and Ancestry, by Lincoln Ellsworth [National Americana Society], is a handsome family volume containing news of early Chicago and Chicagoans.

ABOUT PLACES.

In the Picturesque Shenandoah Valley, by Armistead C. Gordon (Garrett & Massie), is a history, biography, and travel book of the historic section of its title.

Africa from Port to Port, by May Mott-Smith (Van Nostrand), is the interesting record of two years' trek from port to port in Africa by a woman traveling all by herself.

Flora of the Indiana Dunes, by Donald Cuross Peattie, is a handbook of the flowering plants and ferns of the Lake Michigan coast of Indiana and of the Calumet district, published by the Field museum; an invaluable volume for dunes trampers.

How to Wine and Dine in Paris, by Robert Forrest Wilson [Bobbs Merrill], are the wining and dining chapters out of "Paris on Parade."

The Beloved Community, by Zephine Humphrey [Dutton], is a group of essays inspired by one in Vermont.

Tales of Normandie, by Paul Barron Watson [Marshall Jones], is about great people as well as a fascinating and lovely section.

Tramping to Lourdes, by John Gibbons of Hornsey [Kenedy], is the literary record of a pilgrimage undertaken in 1928.

Skyways, by Brig. Gen. William Mitchell [Lippincott], is all about modern aeronautics.

Conquering the Air, by Archibald Williams [Nelson], has been revised and enlarged by Marion Barton Crowell.

VERSE.

Saturday to Monday [Knopf] is marriage of jaunty verse about week-enders by Newman Levy and pictures by John Held Jr.

The Hobo's Hornbook [Washburn] is a "repertory for a Gutter Jougleur" collected and edited by George Milburn.

Virtuoso, by Louise Owen [Yale University Press], is volume 29 of the Yale Series of Younger Poets.

NONFICTION.

The Greek Way, by Edith Hamilton (Norton), interprets fascinatingly the Greeks in terms of today.

The Development of American Political Thought, by William Seal Carpenter (Princeton University Press), traces it from colonial times to today.

Mexican Immigration to the United States, by Manuel Gamio (University of Chicago Press), offers suggestions.

The Old Love and the New, by Willard Waller (Liveright), discusses not divorce alone but the mental readjustments that ravage the divorced. The author is associate professor of sociology at the University of Nebraska.

An Hour of Christianity, by Llewellyn Powys (Lippincott), is the latest addition to that invaluable "One Hour Series."

Radio and Its Future (Harpers) is a symposium edited by Martin Codel on every phase of radio's future, written (not kidded) by experts.

The Education of Children, by Alfred Adler (Greenberg), who is said to know more about it, psychologically, than anybody else.

Adolescence, by Frankwood W. Williams, M. D. (Farrar & Rinehart), is a consideration by a psychiatrist of a state in which we all founder. There are no adults, only adolescents!

Bringing Up Your Child, by Edwina Abbott Cowan, Ph.D., and Avis D. Carlson, M. A. (Duffield), tells you how to do it with the least wear and tear on everybody.

Mrs. Grundy, by Leo Markun [Appleton], is a lengthy detailed "history of four centuries of morals intended to illuminate present problems in Great Britain and the United States."

The Materials of Life, by T. R. Parsons [Norton], is the first general presentation of the new science of biochemistry.

Armageddon, by Eugene Lohrke [Cape-Smith], is an anthology of the world war, 800 pages of the best of the war fiction and fact recording.

Stuff, by Pauline G. Beery [Appleton], is a popular survey of how materials have been wrought to the service of man.

The New Evolution, by Austin H. Clark [Williams & Wilkins], is the exposition of what that zoölogist author calls "zoögenesis."

The Art of Advertising, by Manuel Rosenberg and E. Walker Hartley [Harpers], is a large volume of wise words and pictures for advertising men, potential as well as actual.

The Art and Practice of Sketching, by Jasper Salwey [Scribners], is a technical book for amateurs.

SYNOPSIS.

Caroline West, of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Gare de Paris train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells him she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is apprehensive about the coming visit because she had received just before sailing a letter from Hermione Cushing who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs, but does not know the widow very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris Catherine is a little disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey sees her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number. He tells her that he will be anxious to know how things are at the Bender apartment and gives her permission to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by Germaine and Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on staying in the apartment as she is suspicious of the servants. Jeanne tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine Bender who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine she had taken poison by mistake.

Mme. Bender invites Catherine to dine with him and it is a relief for her to get out of the apartment and to tell him of her vague fears. He is disturbed too. Geoffrey escorts Catherine to the apartment. The door is locked but Geoffrey arouses Eduardo who says that Miss West had come in long before.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner, where she finds the gallery open for the first time and she goes in only to discover a number of pictures and tapestries missing. She asks Jeanne about them and the girl says they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is lying when she and Eduardo are thieves. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence over Mme. Bender. She denounces Catherine to the invalid. Catherine confides in Geoffrey and he puts an investigator to work.

INSTALLMENT XLVIII.
THE SPIDER.

He repeated the name of the street musingly.

"He had a man friend in the Avenue Henri Martin. Drove a big car, a Delage. One Sunday we went for a drive with him, all the way to Fontainebleau—had dinner at a hotel, and the friend stood us a bottle of champagne. It was just before Blom went away. I remember it, because I ruined my new skirt, getting champagne on it, and the stingy little brute wouldn't even let me have it repleated."

"What was the friend like? A Frenchman?"

"No—Italian, or maybe Spanish. I don't know which, but he could speak French well enough. O, he was quite chic, the friend. I could have had a good time with him, but I didn't get a chance. I was a bit tight after dinner and slept all the way home. He and Blom sat in front and talked."

"What about?"

"How should I know? Didn't I say I was asleep?" She gave him a look. "I only woke up to hear the Spaniard, or whatever he was, telling Blom the name of a hotel."

"Can you remember what hotel it was?"

"Oh, of course, I can't. I wasn't interested. But—well, now you speak of it, I believe I do know. It was the Hotel des Negociants. Yes, that was it. Rue Paris?"

He shook her head indifferently.

"Perhaps. I haven't an idea. Anyhow, as he went away the next day, it must have been in Bordeaux."

Her strength ebbed away as she gave herself up for a moment of sublime rapture.

"Did he write you from Bordeaux?"

"Not a line! But he was like that. I might have died for all he cared."

He sighed, but did not appear deeply affected. The agent continued to question skillfully into her shallow little brain, but, although the girl seemed willing to talk, she had no further information to give. However, just as Catherine, listening intently, was beginning to feel disappointed, she caught a thread which, while it had no direct bearing on the case, held her interest with a sort of fascination.

"No, I'm not sorry he's gone," observed the little creature callously. "I'm glad. I feel I can breathe again. I tell you, there was something about that little man I didn't half like. So cold, so calculating—always thinking, always thinking about something, I never knew what. He would sit at table . . . Say, we were in a café, a gay place like this. He used to forget all about me, just sit and stare without blinking. If I spoke to him he didn't answer, but kept his spotted eyes fixed on me with a sort of . . . I don't know, like——"

She broke off, wrapped in thought. Then, with a laugh oddly nervous, went on again:

"I'll tell you what it was like. Once in the packingroom at our place I found a huge spider in the middle of a web. Such a wicked devil—O, a beauty! It didn't move, just stayed still and watched me. I screamed! You may laugh, but it was terrifying. There were flies tangled in the web, but they couldn't get away. I felt if he looked at me much longer I wouldn't be able to get away either. You see? Well, then, that is how I used to feel about Blom. He made me think of that spider, just sitting quiet in the midst of his web, waiting—and waiting. I wanted to shriek and run, and then it was as though my legs were tied together. Ah! It was frightful. If that sensation can stand it, it's more than I could!"

Her high-pitched voice trailed away, and she remained with her round eyes staring at space, while one coarse little hand plucked at the scarf about her neck. At last, with a shiver, she shook herself free from the disagreeable memory.

"There, this is no good!" she cried, brusquely, jumping to her feet. "What did you bring me here for, a funeral? Let's dance——"

When the space beside her was vacant Catherine drew a deep breath and turned to Geoffrey.

"Could you hear?" she asked, her eyes blazing with excitement.

He nodded with evident disappointment.

"We didn't learn much, after all. She simply knows nothing."

"I don't know," replied Catherine slowly. "Did you see her face when she said that about the spider? She positively shuddered. She's right about the impression he gives one, too. I haven't told you, but I've had just the same feeling of repulsion and—well, fear. More than ever I believe he's up to something definitely wrong——"

"Catherine, what a romantic fancy you have! I must take you home quickly, or you'll be seeing spiders in your sleep!"

She came out of her revery with a crestfallen air.

"You think I'm silly, don't you?" she said with a rueful laugh. "Still, my girl and I are not the same type of fool, yet we both felt the same way. What did you gather from all this?"

"Very little, except the fact that Blom is evidently marrying the widow for her money. Moreover, the suddenness with which he began to pay court to her suggests that he wanted financial help in a hurry, for some definite purpose."

It had, in fact, occurred to him that perhaps the notaire intended to go up as a picture dealer in some other country, probably America, in which he would need capital for the enterprise. He could even be buying the pictures from Jeanne and Eduardo, meaning to pay for them with his future income. If this were true, the visit to Bordeaux, a seaport, no doubt had a connection with his plans, since he would most likely consider it safer to remove the paintings away from Paris, preparatory to smuggling them out of France. Here at last was a clew for Bernard to work on.

"Come along, let's get out," he said, reaching for Catherine's coat. "The air is unbearable."

As they stepped outside into the fresh night the demoniac jazz pursued them like the memory of a morbid dream.

"My poor lilies! They're quite wilted!"—and she touched the flowers sadly.

"You must be even more so. Do you realize I've imposed myself on you for exactly eleven hours?"

"Is it so long? It has gone like a flash."

So it had. Tired though she was now, the concluding minutes passed all too rapidly, so that it was with regret that she handed her key to the valet and a moment later stood beside him within the dark hall, ready to say good-night.

"Wait—not just yet. Listen——"

Out of the night floated the strains of a violin. She stood motionless, and smiled reminiscently.

"The Albeniz Tango! How exquisite it sounds, like music from another world!"

Their eyes met. The wooing melody, already charged with memories for them, took on the significance of a leit motif, the languid rhythm weaving a spell to draw them together.

Suddenly she felt his arms around her, his lips upon hers. Her strength went away and she gave herself up for a moment to a breathless rapture, during which a voice in her brain whispered exultantly that she had been right about him, that all the time she had believed he was not especially interested by her he had merely been holding himself in leash.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Ursula Parrott's novel, "Ex-Wife," with which Mr. William Hays was so very severe, saying that never, never should it invade his movies—has been made into a movie.

As adapted, with, we are informed on the screen, "treatment by Nick Grinde and Zelda Sears"—which reads as if the gentleman and lady conducted an osteopathy parlor—it isn't "Ex-Wife" nor, as a matter of fact, much like that hectic best seller. Changes have been made in the names of characters, and by way of allaying the Hays ire, no mention is made of the fact that the book was mamma to the picture. BUT—just the same, Ursula Parrott is richer than she was before Metro metter.

Well, never mind about the novel, which I only skimmed through any way and so don't know much about—and on to the movie which sings of what we speak of in breath not so bated as of yore, as the single and double standard of morals.

Before wedlock the husband of this piece [a newspaper man, but rich and gorgeous and unbusy as are no newspaper men we know] believes his wife [she writes ads and seems very wealthy, too] should have a man's nice, broad viewpoint. Playing about a bit after marriage, though loving her devotedly, he tells her, when she finds out, that his little lapse "didn't mean a thing."

By way of evening up accounts, she spends a crowded hour or two away from home—and informs him of the fact. Well, doesn't he smile and say, "Why, that's quite all right, little girl"? Well, he doesn't. You should see the furniture fly. So, she gets a divorce and plays and plays—though her heart is breaking and so is his. From New York to Paris go the two, cutting wide and different swaths until—ah, it is New Year's eve in that so gay Paree, and—Jerry and Ted, much wiser and sadder than when they took their wedding vows, meet and——?

It was not so in the novel, but—after all we do not do book reviewing in this column. Only sometimes.

"The Divorcee" is slick as to production and is well acted. Miss Shearer and her three palpitating male leads, Morris, Montgomery, and Nagel, keep home and camp fires burning in great shape. And for ONCE Chester Morris neither dies nor commits suicide.

You have an idea that a picture costarring Dolores Del Rio and Edmund Lowe would not be a tame affair. Correct!

Miss Del Rio enters in a Spanish shawl—and the men, how they fall! —while Mr. Lowe appears as a sailor from Brooklyn boasting proudly of the dames who mourn him in every port. He was such a hit in Brooklyn, says he, that he decided to become a universal answer to the maiden's prayer.

It is in Marseilles that the killers meet, and that, my friends, is LOVE.

From a sort of "Cock Eyed World" start, minus Victor McLaglen, "The Bad One" turns out to be something you didn't expect. Tragedy stalks the passion of the hero and heroine and for a time foils their plans for a conventional, married future.

Jerry learns to sing the prisoner's song, and Dolores——? Well, she aims to sing it with him, but God's in His heaven and there IS a Santa Claus.

A lively, lusty, lovin' story—"The Bad One"—well cast, photographed and directed with Dolores registering ecstasy, defiance and surrender as she alone can do, and Edmund Lowe just full of the not too subtle something that will cause flappers and their mammas the world over to croon: "WHAT a man!"

See you tomorrow.

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Do you break many dishes?

The Answers.

Mrs. Rowland Christofferson, 313 Fifth street, Downers Grove, housewife — O, a few. If I am in a hurry, get excited, worried or if anything goes wrong I am likely to break a dish, now and then a dish will slip out of one's hands.

Miss Adair Ambler, 2010 North Halsted street, home girl —If I get nervous I am likely to break them. That's why I don't like to wipe other people's dishes when I go out to dinner, because of the chance of breaking them.

Miss Nell Filson, 6153 Kenwood avenue, bookkeeper — I can break them, all right. But I am getting older now and getting out of the habit. It costs too much trouble and money to replace them. There's no fun in breaking a dish that has been handed down from one's grandmother.

Mrs. Jeanette Ball, 2059 North LeClaire avenue, placement woman—I do not break many dishes, not unless I am very nervous. I have found that a wire tray on the sink saves many dishes. When they slip out of my hands.

Miss Sadie Anderson, 5142 Kensington street, St. Louis, Mo., home girl—Any woman, who does any work in the kitchen is bound to break some dishes. I always call it carelessness when I break a dish.

CLOSEUPS

A Chicago man, in Springfield, Ill., on business, sends me a clipping from a newspaper there regarding "White Cargo." The clipping says that Mae Tinée "went into all kinds of rapturous enthusiasm over the production" and give it 4 stars. This is not true. "White Cargo" received ONE star and I was in no way impressed by the production.

This is not the first time exhibitors have taken the privilege of tacking more stars on their pictures than were accorded by this department—which is neither a fair nor a sporting thing to do. So when in doubt, fans, call or write Mae Tinée. We'll tell you what's what.

Hyde Park Ties Lindblom in U. of C.'s Contest

Oak Park Next in Race for Scholarships.

Hyde Park and Lindblom High schools scored an intellectual victory over 73 other high school yesterday. Representatives of those two schools amassed 29 points each to tie for first place in the University of Chicago's annual prize scholarship examinations. Oak Park High, second to Hyde Park last year and which tied with Hyde Park for first in 1928, was third yesterday with 23 points.

Other leading schools were: University High, 22; Roosevelt, 17; Riverside, Milwaukee, 11; Austin, 10; Crane, 10; Englewood, 10.

Seven hundred and fifty seniors from 75 high schools in seven states took the examinations, offered in ten subjects, with $9,000 in scholarships as the awards. Of the 20 full scholarships, valued at $300 each, which President Robert M. Hutchins presented last night, 3 went to students of Hyde Park, 3 to Lindblom, and 2 each to Roosevelt and University High.

Winners of full scholarships and the subjects in which they were won:

Catherine Zimring, Lindblom, zoölogy.

Bernice Haber, Englewood, botany.

Richard Munsche, Riverside, Milwaukee, German.

David Levine, Lindblom, English.

Evelyn Wasserman, Washington, Milwaukee, English.

Lucille Keller, Lake View High school, English.

Betty Hansen, Westport High, Kansas City, English.

Malcolm Smiley and William Philbrook, both of Hyde Park, mathematics.

Harold Toernheim, Austin, chemistry.

Melvin Schultz, Crane, chemistry.

Donald MacMillan, University High, chemistry.

Birgit Vennesland, Roosevelt, physics.

Margaret Ravenscroft, Horace Mann High, Gary, history.

Robert Brin, Roosevelt, history.

POPPY DAY NEARS AS REMINDER THAT WORLD WAS AT WAR

The annual reminder of Flanders' fields—Poppy day—comes again next Tuesday and Wednesday. The red poppy, significant of the blood spilled in the world war and the soldiers forever disabled, will be on sale on Chicago's streets by American Legion posts and auxiliary units in Cook county.

More than 900,000 poppies were sold last year to defray the expenses of the service office of the American Legion and assistant service officers at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital and those at East St. Louis, Jacksonville, and Elgin.

Paris Tourist Season Draws Americans of More or Less Fame

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 23.—France is filling up with its limelight of notables as the tourist season waxes. Owing to the chilly, rainy weather many visitors are leaving immediately for the Riviera, Biarritz, the Italian lakes, and Switzerland, but a number are remaining.

Mabel Boll and Charles Levine are in the city. Mr. Levine, who flew the Atlantic with Chamberlin, is reported to be awaiting a divorce decree.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce and Harry K. Thaw crossed on the same boat, the Ile de France. At the Crillon, Peggy declared she does not want to meet the Pittsburgh millionaire.

"I am worried because I have taken on eight pounds since an operation for appendicitis three months ago," she said. "I am going to the Riviera and rest all summer at my villa named 'Little Blue Pup,' near Monte Carlo. My doctor in New York advised a sun cure."

Irene Bordoni and her publicity expert, Galen Bogue, also arrived. Her former husband, E. Ray Goetz, landed in England.

Harry Thaw insists that hotels are too costly.

Pola Negri and her princely husband, Prince Serve Mdivani, have dropped out of sight.

Friends announce the secret marriage last autumn of Searles Barclay and Nita Naldi who have been for a long time members of the exclusive Maisons Lafitte racing colony outside Paris, where the Frank Goulds live.

Young Prize Poets Sing of Ash Cans, Alley Cats

New York, May 23.—(AP)—The young New York poet sings in the springtime—but not of hearts and flowers.

It was such a verse as "The Ash Can Remover" and "To a Roof Tile Horse" which won first honors in the Interhigh School Poetry league today. The winners wrote of refuse collectors who "hurl ash cans as a god hurls thunder bolts," and revealed that "an alley cat is a snob."

Pumpers Tell About Days of Soulful Music

They Worked Bellows for Church Organs.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

It was an earnest group of men, interested in bigger and better pumping production by 1931, that met in the Germania club last night as the Chicago loft of the Guild of Former Pipe Organ Pumpers. It was the guild's annual meeting, and according to Chet Shafer, Michigan writer, grand diapason of the guild, never in the history of the G. O. F. P. O. P. was the tone of the organ sweeter nor the pumping more rhythmatic.

Since the guild was organized several years ago, following publication of a magazine story written by Mr. Shafer in which he regretted the deterioration of the fraternity of pipe organ pumpers in American villages, all right minded former pipe organ pumpers of Chicago have come out into the open and joined.

R. Arthur Wood, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, last night received the cast iron pigeon, emblem of the grand quintship of the fraternity. He succeeded Julius Rosenwald, who in turn had succeeded Benjamin F. Affleck of the Portland Cement company. Mr. Wood, with a tear balanced appropriately on his left eyelid, embraced the unresponsive pigeon, thanked the fraternity for the great honor bestowed on him, and spoke at length.

All of the P. O. P.'s were dressed appropriately in cunning rubber aprons trimmed with rubber rosettes, celluloid collars and large ribbons tied sweetly beneath their chins. Maj. Reed G. Landis, aviator, known for his tireless pumping, was most fetching in a tie of red and purple plaid ribbon.

Lucius Teter, chairman of the board of directors of the Chicago Trust company, wore a dashing red ribbon bow. Walter E. Beebe, sanitary district attorney, wore a simple bow of pink and white.

The meeting opened with the strains of "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," with Herbert Libberton on the organ and Harry Worthington, former champion broad jumper at Dartmouth university, on the handle. The presence of the organ in itself was quite a victory for the guild. It was brought from Englewood in a former brewery wagon pulled by four horses. It was two days in arriving, it was said. "Onward Christian Soldiers," and "Revive Us Again" followed the opening selection.

The chief speaker of the evening was Samuel Taylor Moore, author of "The Life of Hetty Greene." He is reputed to have lowered the sales resistance in the pumping business more than any other pumper.

Mr. Moore explained to the guild in ringing tones that the meeting should make for added zest in the committee work of the coming fiscal year. "Our grand diapason has modestly remarked that no organization is stronger than its committees," he reminded the members. Then he spoke of just what the guild has accomplished during the last year.

"For one thing, our deficit at last year's meeting was $2.67. At 4 o'clock this afternoon, fellow pumpers, it was $6.45. That is an increase in deficits of almost 300 per cent! That's growth, that's progress.

"What's more, our prison membership at this time last year numbered one. This year, it includes four.

"As for our uplift work, your grand diapason has decided upon a 10 year betterment program. The program centers upon fish culture, divided into two classes; A, commercial fish; B, domestic fish. Regarding class A, he consulted with Dr. Estrahabe, noted fish authority, and learned with dismay that the good old stock of American codfish along our New England coast was being demoralized.

A few tears were silently shed upon rubber aprons before the speaker, swallowing his emotion, continued. The truth was, he explained, that since the Panama canal had been dug, a sect of light-minded and light-hearted codfish from Hawaii had swum brazenly into the Atlantic, "and simply played the devil with our stern New England stock."

Architecture Presented as Part of Living

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A most attractive Englishman is in town, Capt. Vivian Guy, soldier, artist, writer, and traveler, here for the ostensible reason of his exhibition of paintings which opened Wednesday in the Ackermann galleries and more gallantly because he really likes Chicago and is planning on settling here for a time next winter.

Holding over a longer mention of his exhibit to another morning, today interest should be centered on the new book which Kroch has just published. The book is called "Living Architecture," and is a discussion of present day problems in building presented by a series of short and pertinent essays written for and sponsored by the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects. Among the authors nearly all of our prominent architects figure. John A. Holabird, Ernest A. Grusfeld Jr., Irving K. Pond, Thomas E. Tallmadge, Hubert Burnham, Henry K. Holsman, and Barry Byrne are a few of the contributors.

Great credit is given to the CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the competition which resulted in the present Tribune Tower.

Aids School Fund

MRS. C. H. KAVANAGH.

Mrs. Clarence H. Kavanagh of Wilmette is a member of the ticket committee for the movie party to be given on Monday evening at the Roosevelt theater by the Chicago chapter of the Villa de Chantal alumnae. Proceeds of the affair will go to the building fund of the Visitation academy at Rock Island.

The design which was awarded second place in the TRIBUNE competition is given its due. Both these buildings have exercised an enormous influence upon modern architecture. From tall buildings the attention is shifted in the second chapter to a discussion and explanation of the recently completed Adler planetarium. Mr. Grusfeld Jr., author of the article and architect of the building, makes the structure not one to be held in scholarly awe, but one to captivate the attention and imagination of adult and child alike.

Then we find a description of aquaria in general and of the new John G. Shedd aquarium in particular. From there college buildings, theaters [both cinema and legitimate], hospitals, prisons, cooperative apartments, houses, and churches are discussed in turn, each in a terse, tense, quick chapter which holds one as spellbound as the last chapter in a mystery story. The suggested plans and ideals for Chicago's 1933 World's Fair as unfolded by Hubert Burnham are fascinating. Such lines as "Artificial light will become a part of the architectural composition" and "The use of water will be an important element and will be developed to the maximum" are thrilling in their possibilities.

All in all, the book whether looked at as a distinct art effort or not, is one of the striking achievements of the moment. It brings architecture into ordinary range and forces the realization that the building of Chicago is the responsibility of the man in the street as well as of the architect. Similar volumes to bring modern painting and sculpture out of the clouds and make them gloves for the laymen's wit would be equally valuable.

21 High School Bands Play at Flint, Mich., in Annual Contest

Flint, Mich., May 23.—(AP)—Twenty-one high school bands played today in the preliminaries of class A and class B divisions of the fifth national high school band contest.

From among these and the class A bands which were heard yesterday the judges will select six to compete in the finals of that class tomorrow night.

The class B bands in today's preliminaries were from Gary, Ind.; Hobart, Ind.; Mooseheart, Ill.; Ludington, Mich.; Belvidere, Ill.; Waupun, Wis.; Kent, O.; Lansing, Mich., and Iron River, Mich.

Class C competition was completed last night, but the winner will not be announced until tomorrow when winners in the other two classes and in the various individual contests also will be made public.

The class C finalists were from St. Elmo, Ill.; Hartley, Ia.; Lanark, Ill.; West Depere, Wis.; Andover, O., and Algoma, Wis.

Four bands were eliminated in this morning's preliminaries. They were from Ludington, Mich., Iron River, Mich., Roosevelt High school, Gary, Ind., and Roosevelt High school, Kent, O.

The last of the class A preliminaries were played this morning. Others had been heard yesterday. Twelve bands today got their opportunity to win a place in tomorrow night's finals. Those playing were Central High school, Kalamazoo, Mich.; Nicholas Senn High school of Chicago, last year's champion; Jamestown, N. Y.; Portland, Ore.; Mansfield, O.; Hornell, N. Y.; Hammond, Ind.; Glenville High school of Cleveland, O.; West Technical High school of Cleveland, O.; Richland Center, Wis.; Shorewood High school of Milwaukee, Wis., and St. Mary's Boys' school of Baltimore. The six class A finalists will not be made known until tomorrow afternoon.

C. M. Tremaine of New York, secretary of the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music and secretary of the National School Band association, announced today that in future contests a limit will be placed on the number of bands participating. The movement has assumed such proportions that it is too strenuous a task for the officials, he explained.

Tomorrow's massed band, with more than 3,000 young musicians playing, will constitute the largest band assemblage in the history of the country, Mr. Tremaine and several noted bandmasters said today.

Wayne Wenig Wins the Babies' Prize at Health Exposition

While thousands crowded the aisles of the Coliseum learning from exhibits the various ways of attaining good health or keeping it, the very best examples of health were being selected yesterday.

From a wide collection of photographs of Chicago babies, Wayne Wenig, 16 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wenig, 5921 West Erie street, was judged the prize winning baby in the contest held in connection with the health and education exposition. Members of the Junior Friends of Art were judges.

Second place went to Geraldine Ann Harrington, 3 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Harrington, 6958 Paxton avenue; third prize was won by Collette Eileen McEnery, 1 year old daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. A. McEnery, 2358 Marshall boulevard. Joseph James Downs, 19 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Downs, 4434 Berkeley avenue, won fourth place.

School children continued to entertain all afternoon and evening in the north hall, showing their elders some of the activities of the school system. The ukulele orchestra of Everhart school played, The R. O. T. C. had a flag presentation and drill, there were plays by Peterson and Roosevelt community centers, a boxing drill by the Lawson school, a health play by Parker Practice school, corrective exercises by Bowen High school and concerts by Calumet High School orchestra, Englewood High school band, Fenger High School band and Hyde Park Boys' Glee club.

Noted Chicago Singer Gives Helping Hand to Her Former Pupil

Only a few budding musicians have the opportunity to have a world famous artist in the audience of their coming out recital, but Brina Nelson, pianist, and Dorothy Lee Patswald, contralto, made a joint appearance at Curtiss hall last night and Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink sat in the audience and listened to them. The distinguished singer was introduced by Glenn Dillard Gunn and made a short speech addressed in the general direction of young singers, in the course of which she gave an opinion that something could be learned from newspaper criticisms and not a great deal from master classes.

She told how Herman Devries had once straightened out one of her difficulties with a high note, and added that Miss Patswald had been with her for five weeks in one of her own master classes, but that this was not enough for her to be considered a pupil. Then she resumed her seat and Miss Patswald sang a group of songs by Handel, Haydn, Brahms, and Strauss, in a voice of good control and range if slightly hard in quality, pronouncing her English texts almost too perfectly, in a manner of speaking leaning over backward with her vowels.

Just before this Miss Nelson had played the thirty-two variations by Beethoven brilliantly and with much shading. E. M.

Montana Girl Wins May Crown During Evanston College Fete

Miss Marjorie Preston of Eureka, Mont., was crowned May queen last evening at the annual spring festival of the National College of Education in Harrison hall, Evanston. Miss Preston is a senior in the college, holds an honorary scholarship, and is president of the Town Girls' association.

The May queen is chosen by student vote as representative of their ideals in personality, character and leadership. The result of the vote is not announced, even to the successful candidate, until the climax of the festival when the queen is crowned.

Are You One of the Thin Gals? Here's How to Gain Weight

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In the rush of queries and urgent appeals from the curved, we forget about the lineup of angled girls who'd like to pick up what the other group sheds in the way of adipose. Thin girls aren't nearly so happy as those who are trying to get that way assume. You'd be surprised at the tone of their pleas for fattening measures, even when a shrunken waistline is what the rest of the female world is striving for.

The first thing in a weight gaining lesson is to memorize thoroughly the necessity of putting both body and mind in such condition as to be free to gain. Don't start eating heavily. It is not advisable to tackle 3,000 calories a day if you've been going along on 1,200 or so.

First, there should be assurance from a good diognostician that there is no constitutional condition in need of correction. The only way that can be found out is to put oneself in the hands of a reliable physician. And his suggestions about diet should be followed.

Exercises for the abdominal muscles are advised. And a wholesome attitude of mind, suggested above, which precludes all worry and self-consciousness about angles should be cultivated.

Piling on heavy, rich, indigestible foods is not good, but a glass of milk added at the end of each meal is strongly urged. An additional glass midmorning and midafternoon is also urged. And an eggnog before retiring will help round out the body.

If you cannot take milk at first, try drinking buttermilk and eat more butter at the table to make up. Or, drink milk, chocolate or cocoa.

No one knows better than the thins that they should get more sleep, but being thin they don't feel the need of it so long as there is nervous energy to run along on—and there is the very dickens of a time trying to train for early retiring. But what better advice can one offer than to get the early-to-bed habit for persons who burn up the little fat they have in ceaseless activity?

Speedy Deb Is Passe; Nice Girl Returns to Center of the Stage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In an article on debutantes and current debutante behavior in a well known weekly periodical one is informed that the day of the alcoholically spectacular young thing is completely over. The consumption of alcohol is now viewed as a strictly masculine occupation. The attitude toward drinking, the deb hastens to enlighten you, is not a moral awakening or a patriotic resolve. It is fear of what the stag line may say. Youth still being fearful of being accused of open alliance with what grandma thought was right and wrong, a postscriptural note indicates that our current young social lights have no yearning for the pedestal—but they would rather have men look up than down.

No matter what the reservations are against admitting a return of the old code of decent, ladylike conduct, indications are that debutante footsteps are pointed that way. And that is enough, for the time being.

A few years ago, we read further in the article on debs, it was not a bad thing for one of them to be a trifle rough of tongue. Familiarity with a few of the truck driver's choicest wasn't regarded as a handicap to success, any more than appearing a bit squiffed at a party affected a girl's social standing. But the strong words and strong breaths of three, four, or five seasons ago are out. Disorderliness of vocabulary or appearance have no longer any appeal. The new girls are demure mouthed, says their reporter. Conversation is safer—and the boys like it better, which the deb frankly admits is all that counts.

You scarcely pick up a magazine without seeing an article on the return of the nice girl. Maybe they do not call her that—but it is what she is, this softened feminine version of the now completely outmoded flapper type.

A charm decade confronts the lucky young things born to ride the 1930 waves. A long future is promised. Ten years, anyway, we are guaranteed popularity for the girl whose behavior permits men the privilege of "looking up, not down."

Think it over, you young girls, and go 1930 as quickly as you can. Discard the outmoded speech roughness, drinking, and all the other items of behavior that have been ruled out by popular debutante vote. Be in the mode!

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Over and Over Again.

"Dear Miss Blake: If the first love fails is it possible to fall in love again?
"SUE."

Yes, Sue. You'll find yourself falling in and out of love many times before you finally find the "real" one.

An Explanation Is Due.

"Dear Miss Blake: I met a fellow who asked for a date. I did not go, should I call him up and explain?
"SWEETHEART."

Yes, an explanation is necessary when you failed to keep the appointment.

Chance to Help Indians.

"In behalf of our brownskin brethren, the Papago Indians, I am making an appeal to the great family of THE TRIBUNE for pictures, used clothes, toys, or little gifts. The reservation is located in southern Arizona, bordering on Mexico, and part of the tribe live across the boundary line. There are 5,000 of these Indians in the United States. They have never given our government any trouble and have always been a peace loving people.
"H. G."

Can you help this missionary in his work among the Indians of the southwest? They have a hard time making a living and need this assistance. Although their principal means of support are stock raising and farming, only a small number of them are fortunate enough to have a few head of cattle.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Caramel Custards.

The common understanding in regard to a caramel custard is that it is a custard baked in a caramel lined cup, or caramel lined dish of some sort. This is made on the famous French model, crême renversé, which is always turned out of the cup or dish in which it is baked, and usually some of the caramel melts and surrounds the custard, while it leaves a nice layer as a sort of icing on top of it.

But there is another way to make caramel cup custards that is agreeable. In this case the caramel is merely used for flavor. To make a cup custard of this type, take two cups of milk, or for superior effects use one and one-half cups of milk and half a cup of cream, two eggs, or perhaps three if you like, and three or four tablespoons of sugar with a few drops of almond extract. It can be made a little sweeter if desirable.

Melt one tablespoon of the sugar in a tiny shallow saucepan over the fire, add half a cup of milk to it and stir and cook until the caramel has dissolved. Beat the two eggs slightly, add to them the rest of the milk and sugar, remembering that we can use more if we choose. Then add this combination of milk and egg to the caramel mixture, pour into six small buttered cups, set these in a pan of hot water and bake for thirty or forty minutes in a moderate oven until they set and have a flat top. If the fire is too hot the top of the custard will be sunken, because it has boiled and foamed. Some people seem to think that cup custard which has a perfect well in it is good, and it really is not nor wholesome either.

In making a caramel custard, we may save out the egg whites if we choose to use them as a meringue for the custard, which may be put on during the last ten minutes of the cooking. Because of its pronounced caramel flavor a caramel custard is all right with the meringue on top of it. As to the caramel flavor it may be more pronounced by caramelizing more sugar but try the lesser amount first. The finest custards are always made with the yolk of the egg only, and in this case they can be more like what we call a pastry cream, which has in addition to the egg yolk thickening with corn starch or flour.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Even architecture in hog houses is changing these days. One of the latest innovations is a galvanized iron covering over shiplap boards. Tests are being conducted on the hog farm at Iowa State college to determine if estimates by the departments of agricultural engineering and animal husbandry will prove accurate.

Insulation, the experts of the college report, probably will be better than with present hog house roofs. Last winter studies were made on the amount of moisture in the form of frost which collected on the ceiling and no more was found than with other types of roofing. Principal advantages for the iron roof are that the ordinary shingle roof on a hog house, according to Prof. M. A. Sharp at the college, must be too steep and requires a larger roof area, which makes it expensive.

Shiplap is used under the metal as insulation against heat and cold and is said to be preferred in the experiments because it does not have as great a tendency to shrink and leave cracks as will ordinary boards. Twelve inch widths are not as desirable because the battening comes loose and permits water and air to enter too freely.

Charity Ball Tonight.

The Ridge Service club of Beverly Hills will give a charity ball this evening in the Tower room of the Stevens hotel.

The Child Is Just as Truly Individual as Is Any Adult

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A list of toys and playthings for children from babyhood up will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Here are more exceptions spilling over into Saturday — exceptions to those general statements about the way in which children pass from one phase to another in their social growth.

Yesterday the highly gifted child was given as one exception. Another exception is just the opposite—the child whose intelligence or mental age is below his age in years. Often he has to be placed in a class with children who are much younger than he is. He feels ill at ease and perhaps ashamed to be seen playing with them. He, as well as the bright child, needs help with his social life.

There are many other exceptions. Some children are highly individual—some are independent thinkers—some are absorbingly interested in music, drawing, painting. And so when others have a terrific urge to join the Boy or Girl Scouts those children may not have it—though when others want to dress exactly like the rest of the boys and girls they may not want to —when others are all frivolity they may be serious minded—when others are boy crazy and girl crazy, or when others must travel with the herd physically and mentally, they may not feel the need to.

The games of children or young people their own age may truly not appeal to them. And so we won't find them at stated ages going through the usual phases of social development. We won't see them finding their relation to other children, to other younger people and older people, in the same way. Or we may find them going through these phases at different periods—they may experience a belated "gang instinct" or a delayed love of companionship.

After all, it resolves itself into the same old theme. Children are individual. They are all not born with the same endowment. They are not equally loved. They are not equally well handled. They have not all the perfect setting—each for his own special self. So, although child studies and investigation give us invaluable help, we must always realize that every general conclusion has its exceptions —and that all children are not the same at 3, at 6, at 12, and at 18 years of age.

Cured of Wife Teasing.

Here is a little episode which might stop husbands from teasing their wives:

My wife and I got into an elevator at a hotel and I teasingly said to my wife, "How do you do? Gee, you are a good looking blonde. May I have your telephone number?"

An elderly lady, shocked, burst forth, "I am going to have you arrested. How dare you insult decent women?"

Was I embarrassed—I say so.

Medicinal Mistake.

It was my first meeting with my fiancée's family, who live on a large farm in the country. In the kitchen I noticed a large bottle of medicine.

I said, "I've taken that medicine for years; it has helped me a lot."

Imagine how I felt when they turned the bottle around and the label read, "For livestock only." What a mistake I had made and what a laugh they had.

Milady Goes Dancing in Shorter Dresses

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Fashion news of great interest to gentlemen is the rise of the dance skirt hem, and not a few women will have reason to give thanks also. Trained skirts would, had they continued in fashion, have developed the art of dexterous dodging to a high degree, but at what a cost to the nervous system.

During the last season the fashionable world gave trailing dance dresses a sufficient trial to learn that both the masculine art of side stepping them and the feminine art of holding them gracefully would better continue to be lost in the interest of personal enjoyment. Never has a Paris fashion been taken up and dropped so quickly as this. A trained skirt is rarely to be seen over here since spring has come, and even the instep length skirt seems a bit long for the stepping required in the modern dance. Ankle length, and a bit shorter—the length Chanel indorses, is the smartest for the skirt of the summer dance frock.

The Molyneux dance ensemble sketched has the smartest length—a trifle above the ankles. This frock is made of white georgette lamé with a pattern in gold leaves. The blouse and coat both have short boleros with scalloped borders, and the double peplum that emphasizes the slenderness of waist and hipiines is also scalloped. This peplum is held flat in front by a stitched band of the material. The skirt below the peplum is flared in a full circular movement. Its hem is even all around. The straight around hemline is the only smart hem for the dress that is as short as this one. Dippy hems are out.

The coat of this ensemble is made of the same material as the dress. It is unlined and collared with mink.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

The men in our neighborhood go to meetings one night each week, and we wives have a habit of gathering at one house or another on these occasions. Several of us bring the small children along. A few days ago I remarked to my husband that turn about was fair play, and the fathers might take the children to the union meeting some time.

Last night when my husband began to dress for his meeting our 3 year old daughter inquired, "Mother, do the little children go with the husbands or the wives tonight?"
MRS. N. C.

My little niece, 6, had been standing for a long time at the window watching a couple of large greyhounds romping about in the back yard, and finally turned to me with the question: "Auntie, what kind of dogs are those?"

"Greyhounds, Amy," I replied.

After watching them a while longer, she drew along sigh, remarking as she left the room:

"Well, they're awful homely, but I suppose they are good Christian dogs, just the same."

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

This frock of printed tub silk with the smooth line through the waist and hips, with baring fulness below, is smart and new. The belt may be worn at the natural or a higher waistline. The V neckline and cape collar are a youthfully becoming summer fashion. Iris blue silk crêpe, parrot green silk crêpe with the collar of an eggshell crêpe, and navy blue silk crêpe with the collar of beige silk crêpe are suitable suggestions.

The pattern, 2541, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with ¾ yard of 35 inch contrasting and 6¾ yards of braid.

Is ORANGE-PEKOE Your Favorite Tea?

"ORANGE-PEKOE" is not a kind nor a flavor of tea. Every one now knows that it is merely the trade name for a size of leaf resulting from the sifting process which tea leaves undergo in manufacture.

"Orange-Pekoes" are as various as thumbprints. Quality depends on whether the leaves were grown, picked and manufactured under favorable conditions and what country they come from.

Therefore, when you buy Orange-Pekoe tea, it is important that you know you are getting India Orange-Pekoe! And to be sure you are getting genuine India Tea look for the Map of India trade mark on the package before you buy!

THOMPSON GETS NEW LOCATION FOR LOOP CAFE

Will Pay Annual Rental of $27,500.

BY AL CHASE.

Signatures were placed on a lease yesterday which calls for the construction of an addition to the John R. Thompson company's nation-wide chain of eating places. The location is 7-11 West Monroe street, for a long term of years the home of one of the units of a rival chain of restaurants, the Childs company. Later on and until recently it was occupied by a Five Dollar chain store.

The store, which is 45x190, was leased from the Northern Trust company, trustee for the owner, an interest identified with Insull, for five years at a flat rental of $27,500 annually. The space is to be remodeled at a cost of approximately $15,000 from plans by Loebl, Schlossman & Bennett, into a restaurant of the new type now being installed by the Thompson chain. It will have fountain service in addition to the customary arm chairs. The exterior will be in the new standard Thompson color of black, with gold trim, instead of the old time green.

To Open on July 1.

The new eating place will be ready for customers by July 1, according to the architects. W. W. Walker of the real estate department of the John R. Thompson company negotiated the lease for his firm. The company's present branch, a few doors east of the new café, at 61-63, where it has been for many years, will be moved to the new restaurant when the present lease expires.

Mrs. Anna B. Jones of Hampshire, Ill., has purchased the twelve apartment building at Jackson boulevard and Irving avenue from John D. Gibbons for a reported $55,000, through T. C. Wendell & Co., who represented both parties. The building originally was constructed by John Darley as a gift for his daughter, Mrs. B. Woodworth. When Crane college was located on the street the building was named to its present corner.

Buys 25 Flat Building.

Benning Bood bought the twenty-one flats at 7027-33 Indiana avenue from Turnquist Bros. for a reported $250,000. Anderson & Anderson and Ben Jornason were attorneys.

Adolph A. Waitkus of 737 Belden avenue bought the twenty-one flat building at the southwest corner of Belden street and Belden avenue, lot 60x125, from the Foreman State Trust and Savings bank, trustee, for an undisclosed consideration, subject to an encumbrance of $81,000.

W. O. PARTRIDGE, THE SCULPTOR, IS DEAD, AGED 69

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—William Ordway Partridge, American sculptor who was an exhibitor at the Paris salon at the age of twenty and whose sculptural portraits occupy museums and many public places in the United States, died yesterday, aged 69, of hemorrhage.

In New York City his statue of Samuel Tilden was unveiled on Riverside drive in 1926; he is the sculptor of the statues of Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton as well as of the heroic marble group of the Pieta in St. Patrick's cathedral; of the equestrian statue of Gen. Grant in Brooklyn; the bust of Theodore Roosevelt at the Republican club; and the marble "Peace Head" at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Example

String Quintet by Schumann Radio Feature

Fascinating Music Played on W-G-N Hour.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

When we are given in its entirety a fine musical composition like the Schumann quintet for piano and strings, as was done from W-G-N on the 8 to 8:30 chamber music program, we have something to rejoice over. Most of us know this rollicking and fascinating quintet, but there are always recruits to the radio audience, while others are continually rising to a point where they can appreciate a work of this character.

A quintet for woodwinds by Lefevre was also played, but unfamiliarity with it placed it at a disadvantage alongside the piano quintet. The concert was under the direction of Gaston d. Moulin.

The W-G-N 9 to 10 miscellaneous program of popular, semi-classical, dance hits, and entertaining odds and ends of what not, was undoubtedly enjoyed by a very large audience. Incidentally, I notice that the now famous "Flight of the Bumblebee" is in its flight over the air, becoming even smoother and speedier of wing.

WIBO had two capital fifteen minute programs from New York; at 7:30 a historical sport broadcast depicting a race between a hare and a tortoise around a stadium track, the tortoise winning by a hair; at 10 o'clock, a program in which Godfrey Ludlow, violinist, did some nice playing.

E. B. Smith, Clubhouse Figure in Old Days, Dies

Edward B. Smith, for many years proprietor of a clubhouse at 35th street and Grand boulevard and later at 573 East 51st street, died yesterday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Emma Hall, in Waupaca, Wis. In the days of the Washington Park speedway, Smith's clubhouse was the rendezvous for the city's sport fans and politicians. His 35th street place was at the finish line of cutter races held in the winter from 39th street in Grand boulevard. These events were productive of much rivalry between horsemen. Mr. Smith has been living in recent years with a niece at 9329 South Elizabeth street. Funeral services will be held here probably on Monday.

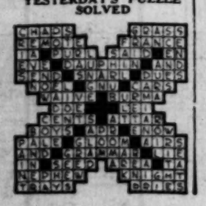
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



ARSENIC CAUSES JAKE PARALYSIS; CURE WORKED OUT

New Haven, Conn., May 23.—[Special.]—The cause of "jake paralysis," the hitherto mysterious and almost incurable affliction which has struck hundreds of drinkers of Jamaica ginger in the United States within the last seven months, has been traced, it was learned here today, and a cure—slow and not yet wholly tested, but the first method which has given any relief—has been worked out.

It is arsenic, one of the deadliest elemental poisons, which causes drinkers of "ginger jake" to become paralyzed, lose their eyesight or power of speech, or to be afflicted otherwise.

And the treatment which has been developed by Dr. C. N. Meyers, toxicologist of the Vanderbilt clinic and the skin and cancer hospital of New York City, working with the St. Francis' hospital staff here, is a series of graded injections of sodium thiosulphate.

CHAS. R. BARGE, LAWYER, DIES IN PARIS AT 58

Charles R. Barge, native of Dixon, Ill., and former New York attorney, died yesterday in Paris following a long illness, according to word received by his brother, John J. Barge, 527 Surf street.

Mr. Barge was 58 years old and a bachelor. He was born in Dixon Feb. 26, 1872, the son of William Barge, who married Elizabeth, the granddaughter of John Dixon, founder of the town of Dixon.

Educated in the Dixon public schools, he later graduated from Knox college and Harvard Law school.

Besides his brother John, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Martin, 527 Surf street, and Mrs. Emma Rathbun, 6227 Byron street. Another brother, William Barge, author of a history of Illinois, died in 1920.

ROB SOUTH SIDE HABERDASHER.

COAL COMPANY SLASHES WAGES OF 3,000 MINERS

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—After a two year attempt to help stabilize the bituminous coal industry and to end overproduction and wage and price cutting, the Consolidation Coal company, the largest soft coal producer in the world, announced today a temporary abandonment of the policy which it still believes would be of inestimable benefit to the industry if put into effect by most of the coal producers.

According to George J. Anderson, president of the company, in which John D. Rockefeller Jr. has a large interest, the organization finds itself for the second time in two years on an isolated basis in the Fairmont, W. Va., field. Competitors, said Mr. Anderson, have reduced wages 15 to 25 per cent below the scale maintained by the Consolidation company since 1928.

The wage reduction [12 to 14 per cent] will affect 2,500 to 3,000 miners.

KIDNAPING TRIAL ON; SEEK DEATH PENALTY JURY

Three men were placed on trial yesterday in Judge Harry B. Miller's Criminal court charged with kidnaping Theodore Kopelman, wealthy insurance agent, for ransom. Kopelman was kidnaped on Feb. 28. Assistant State's Attorneys C. Wayland Brooks and John Holman announced that they were seeking a jury which would be willing to vote for the death penalty if it should be justified by the evidence. Because of the death penalty possibility no progress was made in selecting the jury on the first day of the case. The trial will be resumed on Monday.

Sam Gold, Seymour Pellar, and Norman Reznick are the only defendants on trial at this time. Charles [Chick] Hadesman was granted a separate trial some time ago and yesterday the state did not oppose a similar motion for Irving Sandler. It is reported that Sandler has agreed to become a state's witness.

Mrs. Myrtle Thoren, former wife of the kidnaping victim, spent the entire day in court yesterday. She is epresented by Attorneys Samuel Hoffman and Charles Dougherty, who said they were ready to proceed in her case. She is charged with conspiracy to kidnap. The state, however, elected to try the men accused of the actual kidnaping.

ITALIANS SCORN BRIAND PLAN FOR U. S. OF EUROPE

Charge France Seeks to Dominate Continent.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 23.—A concerted onslaught against Foreign Minister Briand's proposed United States of Europe broke out in Italy today. It has been generally considered that Premier Mussolini's speech in Florence to the effect that words are beautiful but machine guns and cannon are more beautiful was Fascism's reply to M. Briand, as it was delivered the day after the French plan was made public, and specific comment has since been withheld.

Opinions from the rest of the world on the Briand plan were furnished all papers by the official news agency, which presents the Briand idea as having had a reception everywhere. At the same time scorn and deprecations are heaped on the Pan-Europe idea by the Italian editorial writers.

Charge France Is Ambitious.

Forges Davanzatti, a member of Mussolini's grand council, declares that M. Briand's idea is a French contrivance to further extend its hegemony over Europe, while another paper characterizes the scheme as "Briand's Bubble." Sig. Davanzatti declares France has no right to propose a European confederation when it has already taken it upon itself to form military alliances.

"Briand's idea," he says, "is only a bad duplicate of the league of nations and is also a confession of the league's impotence. Why construct a new organism on foundations which are a confessed failure?"

He concluded that a Pan-European league would only cause the United States to withdraw further from European affairs and turn to South America.

See Danger in Scheme.

"How can you make a Pan-Europe when you cannot even settle the Franco-Italian difficulties?" asks the newspaper Picolo. "Better wait until Europe's spirit is better. Before you can unite 38 European nations it would be better to try to compose their differences. If you combine them now you will only succeed in producing an explosive mixture."

It is expected that while Italy will reply to the French proposal, it will point out the futility of trying to realize it. This state of mind, together with the events connected with Premier Mussolini's recent speeches, gives an indication that Italy wishes to launch a general campaign for a revision of the Versailles treaty, from which results in much of the bitterness in the Franco-Italian relations.

War Vets Honor Il Duce.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MILAN, Italy, May 23.—Before 25,000 former soldiers, packed in Cathedral square here yesterday, Carlo Delacroix, mutilated veteran and deputy, presented Premier Mussolini with an ornate sceptre of command of the Blackshirt legions and former soldiers. Il Duce kissed Sig. Delacroix before the crowd and, accepting the sceptre of command, he said it would be for him a sceptre of obedience to the spirit of victory and the will of the country to conquer.

When the speeches had been concluded and the crowd had quieted down, several machine gun batteries on one side of the square fired salutes and 1,000 carrier pigeons were let loose to fly to Rome with messages telling of the day's events.

MAC DONALD AND LLOYD GEORGE PATCH UP TRUCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—Following two days of uncertainty, the Labor party is assured a new lease on life and David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, has agreed to give active support or preserve benevolent neutrality.

This concordat was arrived at between Prime Minister MacDonald and Mr. Lloyd George at a conference following last night's meeting of the Labor party at which Sir Oswald Mosley's motion of censure on the government was so decisively defeated. Sir Oswald resigned from the cabinet this week in protest of the government's policy on unemployment.

Mr. Lloyd George has been anxious to force Mr. MacDonald to promise to pass an electoral reform bill embodying the principle of proportional representation which Mr. Lloyd George believes would give the Liberals a greater representation in parliament. Mr. MacDonald refused flatly to do so but agreed to await a report of Lord Ullswater's committee which is considering the British electoral system and abide by his report.

In the meantime the Liberals will not allow the government to be turned out, even if the left wingers vote against it, which is not likely.

PIRATES WIN, 7-6; ROOKIE HALTS CUB RALLY

TWO PRO HOCKEY TEAMS TO PLAY IN CHICAGO

SHAUGHNESSY'S CLUB WILL USE STADIUM RINK

Shamrocks Name of New Sextet.

BY ARCH WARD.

Chicago next winter will have two professional hockey teams. They will be the Blackhawks of the National league and the Shamrocks of the American association. Both probably will use the Stadium rink.

The Shamrocks will be owned by Thomas Shaughnessy, formerly manager of the Blackhawks, and James Norris, prominent stockholder in Chicago Stadium. Yesterday they purchased the franchise of the Minneapolis club for a reported $60,000. The Blackhawks are owned by a syndicate headed by Maj. Frederic McLaughlin. According to Paul Loudon, one of the owners of the Minneapolis club, the Chicagoans, under the laws of the American Hockey association, cannot move the franchise from the city to which it was granted. A new franchise will be given Chicago, it was said today, to circumvent this obstacle.

Lease Stadium for Games.

A second hockey team for Chicago was a certainty when the American association club yesterday leased the stadium for its home games. The Blackhawks also are expected to use the west side rink, but according to Harry Strotz, president of the Stadium corporation, the National league club has not come to terms on rental. The Blackhawks moved into the Stadium last winter after three years at the Coliseum. Attendance grew from 9,000 to 13,000. The Hawks must pay increased rental and sign a long term lease if they want to use the Stadium rink hereafter, Strotz said.

The first step in building the American association into major league class is expected to be the cancellation of the draft and territorial agreements with the National organization. Shaughnessy is opposed to a renewal of the agreement, which expires on Oct. 31, and he believes a majority of the association magnates will vote with him. This will prevent the parent league from raiding the talent of the minor league.

"We have no intention of starting war with the National league," Shaughnessy explained, "but if they want to make a fight of it we will match them dollar for dollar. We don't plan to tamper with National league player contracts and we expect the same treatment. We want to build up our league with new material."

Expect League to Expand.

The members of the American association are St. Paul, Duluth, Minneapolis, Kansas City, St. Louis, and Chicago. The league is expected to expand to eight clubs. Chicago and either Cleveland or Detroit will be the eighth cities. Eventually it will be organized along the lines of major league baseball, hockey followers said last night.

Operating expenses of a club in the American association will not be as great as in the National league, Mr. Norris pointed out, and admission prices probably will be reduced. The Chicago team will be made up mainly of players from the Pacific Coast league. The owners would make money, Strotz said, if their games drew an average attendance of 4,000.

TILDEN WINS IN TREATOR NIGHT PREP CARNIVAL

Streator, Ill., May 23.—[Special.]—Streator High school of Chicago scored 41 points tonight to win the first night of the annual held in central Illinois. Streator was second with 14 points and Illinois Central was third with 13. Athletes representing 20 schools competed. Ralph Metcalf, Negro runner of Tilden, took first place in the 100 yard dash. Tilden was second in the sprint medley and triumphed in the 440 yard run. Fourteen events were on the program.

SIMPSON LEADS QUALIFIERS IN BIG TEN DASH EVENTS

Illinois, Michigan, Iowa Place 15 Men.

Gift to Farrell

STEVE FARRELL, veteran Michigan track coach, who is retiring at the end of the current season, was presented with a bag of golf clubs at a meeting of Big Ten coaches and athletic directors last night at the North Shore hotel.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

George Simpson, Ohio State's fleet sprinter, served notice yesterday to Eddie Tolan and other competitors in the 100 and 220 yard dashes in the Big Ten track and field meet at Dyche stadium that he's making a new start for world records.

Running in a drizzling rain, which made the cinder track difficult, Simpson won his heat in the 100 yard dash in 9.7 seconds, one-fifth of a second slower than the world mark held by Tolan, which was accepted recently by the international federation. Coming back 30 minutes later the red shirted speedster covered the 220 yards in 21 seconds, two-fifths of a second slower than the world record.

Favor Simpson Today.

With excellent prospects for a fast track this afternoon, there is little doubt Simpson will win both races. Tolan covered the hundred yards in 9.8 seconds and also was first in his heat of the 220 in 21.8 seconds. Campbell, Tolan's teammate, equaled his time in winning the third qualifying race.

Eleven of the 16 championship events in the thirtieth meet of the Big Ten were held yesterday. All will be contested this afternoon beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Illinois, Iowa, and Michigan led the trials, each university qualifying 15 athletes. Ohio State was fourth with 13 men and Wisconsin, one of the teams favored to place high in the final standings, was fifth with 11. The other universities qualified as follows: Chicago, 6; Northwestern, 5; Minnesota, 4; Indiana and Purdue, 3 each.

The Big Ten faculty committee considered only routine business last night at its meeting at the North Shore hotel in Evanston, discussing registration and eligibility questions, and adjourning without considering Iowa's plea for the reinstatement of athletes who were declared ineligible when the Hawkeyes were readmitted to the conference last fall. The committee will meet again at 10 a. m. today and is expected to take up the Iowa case then.

Martin Seeks Record.

Although he had been entered for the half mile, Orval Martin, Purdue's captain and one of the best distance men in the central states, did not compete. He will try for a Big Ten record in the mile today.

Martin's withdrawal from the half set the stage for Dale Letts of Chicago. Letts won his qualifying race yesterday in 1:56.9, the fastest time of the three heats.

Rut Walter of Northwestern and Dale Seymour of Michigan were the class of the quarter milers yesterday, and the Purple runner, Big Ten champion, will be pushed today to retain his title.

E. L. Gordon, Iowa's Negro broad jumper, qualified today with a leap of 21 feet 11 inches, two feet under his standard of jumping. Chapman led the group of ten with a mark of 23 feet 10 inches. Weldon, another Hawkeye who is expected to win a championship, was the best of the javeline throwers with a toss of 184 feet 5 inches, but this is far less than his best. He has done 202 feet this season.

Dick Rockaway of Ohio led the

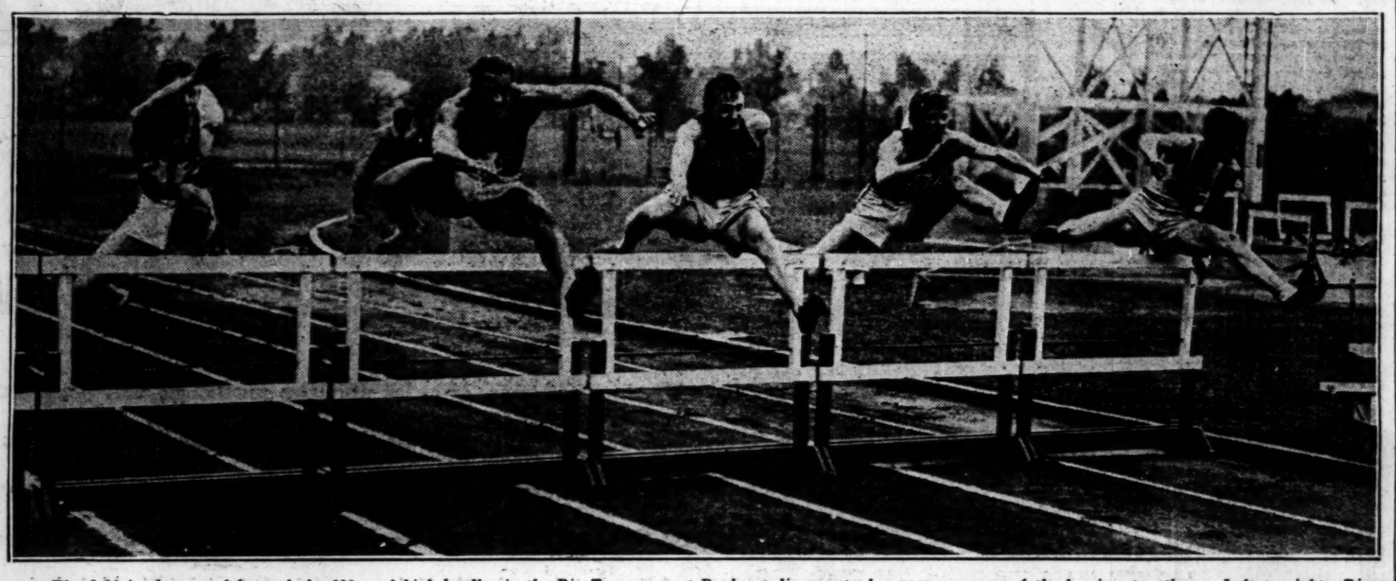
UP AND OVER THEY GO IN BIG TEN MEET



The field in the second heat of the 120 yard high hurdles in the Big Ten games at Dyche stadium yesterday goes over one of the barriers together. Left to right: Dixon, Northwestern; Gordon, Iowa; Rockaway, Ohio State; Rogers, Illinois, and Jensen, Wisconsin. Rogers won the heat, although his teammate, Lee Sentman, had the best time of the qualifiers, :14.7.

Tribune's Novice Golfers Play 18 Hole Match Today

BY HARLAND ROHM.

The four lucky boys who drew the right to golf lessons in THE TRIBUNE'S novice contest will match shots at the Mid-City course at 9 o'clock this morning. The four, none of whom had swung a golf club a month ago, today will furnish the climax to the test to see how far a boy can progress in golf in four weeks.

THE TRIBUNE novice golf tournament was arranged for boy students of Chicago high schools, 15 and 16 years old only, who had never played golf. From those who filled these requirements, four were chosen by lot and these four given two lessons a week by four of Chicago's foremost golf professionals. The four chosen were:

Herbert Brin, 16 years old, 1220 North Claremont avenue, of Crane High school.

Randal Grandquist, 16 years old, 3714 Whipple street, Lane High school.

Howard Rich, 16 years old, 5469 Hyde Park boulevard, University High school.

Tom Milne, 15 years old, 4416 Hermitage avenue, Lake View High school.

Take Eight Lessons.

These four have had eight lessons in golf and, while it was apparent from the first that some of them were better fitted physically to become proficient in golf, each has developed a sound swing. It also became apparent as the lessons went on that eight lessons in a month are far from enough to develop a good golfer. Yet older men struggle for years to "break 100," and one of these lads has reached the mark and another approached it in practice within four weeks after first swinging a golf club.

Today's result cannot be a test of the skill of the instructors, for the four professionals have had boys of greatly varying ability under their tutelage. Jimmy Weager of Edgewater taught Brin, Alec Cunningham of North Shore instructed Rich, Frank Williams of Skokie coached Milne, and George Knox of Calumet took charge of Grandquist.

Will Play 18 Holes.

Some of these boys had greater physical qualifications than the others, which will show in today's scores. The best instructor in the world couldn't make a golfer of a muscle bound, or self-conscious lad, and some of the four instructors were forced to be content with boys who were naturally awkward. And a month wasn't enough to cure them.

Yet the test today will be an indication as to how far a boy can progress in the game of golf in a month. Perhaps none of the four will "break 100," as all four are likely to be nervous and tense in their first appearance in competition.

Gallery Is Barred.

The test will be 18 holes over the Mid-City course, which, while it isn't the hardest course in Chicago, is hard enough on which to score. That was evidenced when the professionals played a tournament on its fourteen dog-legged holes two years ago.

Because the boys will be nervous in their first public appearance, and because a "gallery" ruins a golf course by tramping over greens, no gallery will be permitted at this morning's match, except the instructors of the boys and the official scorers.

SINGER WINS 10 ROUND DECISION OVER FERNANDEZ

Fight Decisions

At Duluth, Minn.—Charlie Retzloff, Duluth, knocked out Andre Castens, Mexico City [1].

At Grand Rapids, Mich.—Martin Levandowsky knocked out Jack Scarton, Detroit [2].

At Detroit, Mich.—Mickey Walker, Chicago, beat Charlie Belanger, Canada [10].

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—Al Singer, the New York lightweight prize fighter who is matched for a championship fight with Sammy Mandell, spent thirty minutes hacking at a featherweight who had been fattened up to the size of a scant lightweight in the main event at the Garden this evening and failed to knock him out. His opponent was Ignacio Fernandez, a Filipino with features of such pronounced oriental cast that the customers always were expecting him to tie on an apron and go swinging across the ring with a tray of chop suey and foo yung dan.

Fernandez went down once in the first round, upset by a smart right hand hook to his chin, but took no rest. He slipped down again in the second, but again bobbed up as though the ring were a red-hot stove lid.

Singer's Left Tells.

Singer's hooks to the face, delivered with the bored nonchalance of a man beating a body bag in a gymnasium, soon began to lacerate the Filipino's lips and he was a gory sight at times as the fight wore along through the tenth and final round. But his heart and legs were strong and furthermore the boy was under suspicion and bound to keep on fighting, though Singer had suddenly whipped out a knife and begun to carve him.

Singer won the decision and his match with Mandell probably will go on, but he seemed a commonplace lightweight by the end of his bout and Samuel has no cause for uneasiness.

An interesting situation developed in connection with this evening's performance. Not to back into the topic, the bout was supposed to be a fake, and a current rumor of the kind commonly described as ugly preceded

Are Cub Pitchers to Blame? Statistics Give the Answer

Pitchers, veteran and rookie, seem to be getting the blame for the second division status of the Chicago Cubs, 1929 champions of the National league and until recently the choice for another flag in 1930.

At this moment the Cubs have won within one of as many games as the league leading Robins and Cardinals. But they also have lost within two of the number lost by the tail-end Phillies. The Cubs, with 35 games, have engaged in three more contests than the leaders and six more than the tail-enders, due to a remarkable break in weather luck during the first ten days of the season. Hence the difference.

Veterans Losing More.

But, reverting to the pitchers: It is discovered that the veterans, with one notable exception, have won about as many games as they did last year. But they've lost more, and there's the rub.

Thursday night is the fiscal ending of the week insofar as baseball statistics are concerned, and figures as of Thursday night will be used with the data of the same date a year ago in an effort to show the difference between the Cub pitching the first five weeks of last year and the pitching during the same initial span this season.

Bush Way Off Form.

Bush, who was beginning to attract nationwide attention a year ago, had worked in seven games of which he had won four and lost none. This year, up till Thursday night, he had worked in the same number of games, seven, but he had lost two and won none. In 22 innings this year he allowed 45 hits, more than two an inning, and 30 runs, more than 1.4 an inning. He has walked 13, hit one batsman and let loose three wild pitches. Last year at this time he had pitched 53 innings, almost 2½ times as many as this year, but had allowed two fewer hits, 12 fewer runs and while he hit one batsman he had made no wild pitches.

Pat Malone has worked in eleven games this year, as compared with seven at the same time a year ago. But last year he had won five and lost two, whereas he has won and lost four each this season. Pat's most disheartening performances have been in relief roles this season. Last year at this point he'd done little relieving, mostly because he was taking a regular turn and staying in most of each of his games.

Carlson Shows Improvement.

Root has won as many games as last year, five, but he has lost two more. Blake has won one more and lost one more. Carlson has shown improvement, with four wins and one loss (Thursday night's figures: Hal lost again yesterday).

The record of Nehf last year is comparable with that of Osborn this year in that they show one victory each to no defeats, and the same is true of Cvengros of last year's Cubs and Nelson of this year's outfit. Teachout can be paired with Horne. Teachout has lost one and won none. Horne had lost one and won one.

Following is the detailed comparison of the veterans:

	G.	W.	L.	I.P.	H.	R.	B.B.	S.O.	H.B.	W.P.

BRUINS SCORE 3 IN NINTH, THEN ATTACK FADES

Young Mr. Spencer Sees to That.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 23.—Joe McCarthy turned back to his so-called regular pitchers for help today, but he didn't get it. Instead he got the same old withering enemy fire which swept away four of his right handers and lowered the champion Cubs to defeat, 7 to 6, in the third of the series with the Pirates. But the vanquished forces didn't surrender until three strikes in the ninth left the tying run on the base lines.

The show was all wrong from the start because of the unsavory introduction of Hal Carlson. He was around for only three innings, but that was long enough for the Pirates to pile up a lead of 4 to 0 for Heinie Meine. Then Guy Bush was paraded stylishly for three innings, but it finally became necessary to remove him for a pinch batter. That bit of futile strategy brought Sheriff Blake and Lynn Nelson into the picture, and three runs off this pair in two innings let the Pirates build up what proved a winning margin against the belated rush put on by the title holders.

Scoreless Until Fifth.

McCarthy's men couldn't get started against Meine until the fifth, when they grabbed the first of their half dozen runs. They broke out again in the eighth with a pair which at the time seemed harmless. They themselves must have brought the two runs of no value, because it was principally loose infielding behind Nelson that let the Buccos retrieve the two tallies in their half. Then the champs thought better of themselves and came tearing through so impressively in the ninth that another hit after a series of four solid drives would have created a tie and possibly brought a victory.

Hornsby opened the ninth with a single, his third hit of the battle. Wilson sent him hustling to third with a double. Cuyler drove them home by singling. Capt. Grimm knocked a single to center, planting Cuyler on third. Meine was plainly through. Glen Spencer, a mere kid, was the only man available for relief. The Pirate boss picked him and he came through with the skill of a seasoned campaigner.

Hartnett and Tolson Fan.

Bell was the first to face the rescuer. He sailed a long fly to center, and Cuyler went home after the catch with the third and also the last run of the rousing finish. Next was Hartnett. Three strikes and Gabby was no longer on the scene. Then on the hunch that speed might help, McCarthy let Dan Taylor run for Grimm. He got down to second on a wild pitch and as a last hope Tolson was summoned to bat for Nelson. He died swinging as lustily and as aimlessly as Gabby had swung and that was the end.

Charley Root will pitch tomorrow against Larry "Lefty" French. Lon Warneke, young Cub right hander, was released to Reading today.

Carlson set down one man in the first inning before the Pirates turned loose a salvo that became two runs. Grantham was the instigator of the plot. He singled to left. P. Waner lined to right and Heathcote, while running toward the fence, got the ball backhanded for what had he held it, would have been the catch of a century. However, it became a double and Grantham scored. Comorosky also doubled to right, putting Waner over the plate. English smothered torrid grounders by Suhr and Traynor to prevent the inning from being more costly.

Pass to Meine Costly.

When one pitcher hands the other pitcher a pass it usually is costly. Carlson did this to Meine in the second. One run was the result. Heinie drew the award after two were out. Brickell followed with a drive straight over Carlson, who learned to his sorrow that it was not the kind of a ball to be touched by the bare hand. Hal didn't even slow down the drive. It shot into center and should have

JUDGE ORDERS HOMEWOOD RACE FENCE REMOVED

Superior Judge William J. Lindsay yesterday granted the Washington Park Jockey club a temporary injunction to restrain the Chicago Title and Trust company and Dr. and Mrs. R. V. Spencer from blocking the main automobile entrance to the race track at Homewood. Judge Lindsay ordered the company to remove the fence, which the Spencers had erected, within 24 hours, and if the order is not carried out within that time the jockey club was authorized to tear it down.

The Spencers claimed ownership to a narrow strip of land which lies between Halsted street and the gate, and contended they obtained the property through a warranty deed which the Chicago Title and Trust company guaranteed. Col. Matt Winn, representing Washington Park, maintained that when the interurban railway line abandoned the railway that ran along the disputed strip the property reverted to the jockey club.

BROWNS DEFEAT INDIANS, 5-4, BY RALLY IN EIGHTH

Cleveland, O., May 23.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns won their third straight victory over the Cleveland Indians today, coming from behind with a two run rally in the eighth. The score was 5 to 4.

Singer Wins Decision Over Fernandez

the athletes into the amphitheater. Many of the customers had heard these sordid reports and there was an air of suspicion and shrewd expectancy when the parties to the bout came down the aisle from the catacombs to take their corners.

This was not allayed when Patsy Haley, the referee, called both fighters and their handlers to the center of the ring and kept them listening uncommonly long as he recited the statutes covering conspiracy and reminded all concerned of the terrible wrath of the prize fight commission.

Boys Spring Surprise.

Then, when the first bell rang, the boys left their corners in a queer, roundabout way, each going to his right as if slightly at a loss as to how to proceed under circumstances of such doubt. But suddenly they whirled and dashed into a collision with their new red gloves pumping in the characteristic early vigor of the first round.

Singer pulled a sharp right to the face and Fernandez went to the floor, rolling up on his spine until he stood on his shoulder blades and bouncing to his feet in the same motion as if in fear of the police.

James Farley, the chairman of the prize fight commission, was sitting at the ringside, peering at the prize fight with a cold, unbelieving eye. As Fernandez bobbed back into the fight, he relaxed some and at the end of the fifth round he left his chair to visit the press row and inquire pleasantly, "Well, how does it look?"

"But it is true that you felt it necessary to admonish these boys?" Mr. Farley was asked.

Farley Talks to Haley.

"I admonished this guy," Mr. Farley said, pointing to Fernandez, who sat in his corner, blowing through his nose, which was painfully sprained, and yielding his left eye to a highball cube of ice with which one of his seconds was trying to halt a swelling.

"But," he said, "I didn't admonish that guy," indicating Singer. "I talked to Haley, though, and Patsy talked to the pair of them before the bell. I think we are seeing a sincere contest. A little admonition does no harm when there is a lot of cynicism in the air. The people were very cynical about this evening's contest."

Fernandez knocked Singer out a year ago and tonight's bout was the return match.

Two months ago, just before these two boys were to have had this fight, Singer broke a knuckle and had to ask for a postponement. Whether the fracture was real or only diplomatic I don't know, but the prize fight commissioners decided that Singer must pay his opponent's living expenses in New York until such time as he was ready to go through with the bout.

Ignacio Eats Hearty.

Fernandez, I am told, promptly moved into elegant quarters and began eating Romanoff caviar at $3 per portion for breakfast. Mr. Hymie Caplan, Singer's manager, protested, pointing out that Filipinos were accustomed to living on boiled rice, but the prize fight commission stood by the original order and for two months Fernandez consumed six meals a day, just tossing the menu to the waiter and remarking, "Boy, bring me a double order of that."

Tunney Takes Office Space in New York Skyscraper

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—James Joseph Tunney, erstwhile world's heavyweight champion, is a business man now. Gene has a private office in the American Brakeshoe and Foundry company quarters on the 20th floor of a Park avenue office building, it was revealed today. About the building it is said Gene is learning a thing or two about the railroad supply business as an assistant to an executive.

Strikeouts End Cub Rally in Ninth; Pirates Win, 7-6

been no more than a single, but Wilson let it bounce past him. Meine scored and a gracious scorer allowed Brickell a three base blow.

The last run off Carlson in the third, giving the Bucos a 4 to 0 lead, also was produced on one hit. After P. Waner's retirement on a grass cutter to Grimm, a pass was given to Comorosky, who strolled down to second while Hornsby was tossing out Suhr. Then Traynor arched a single over short and Comorosky scooted over the plate.

Cuyler Gets First Cub Hit.

While Carlson was being besieged the Cubs weren't making much use of their bats against Meine's pitching. They came through with their first hit in the second when Cuyler led off with a single.

Nobody helped him. The next hit was a double past third, with which Hornsby opened the fourth. This looked like a sure run, but it wasn't. Hack hit a long foul on which the Rajah went to third. Cuyler bounced to Traynor and Hornsby was erased between third and home. The remainder of the inning was made up of a pop foul off Grimm's bat.

The Cubs' run in the fifth began with Bell walking. Hartnett forced him. Bush then made his semi-annual hit, a single to center. English also singled to center and Hartnett stopped at third. Heathcote's grounder to short forced English, but Hartnett scored on the play. The rally was nipped when Hornsby bounced into a forceout. In the next inning Hack endeavored to start something by doubling. The next three men couldn't move him off the middle bag. Hack's wallop would have been a homer if it hadn't been for the new screen in right.

It is hard to believe, but the Cubs busied themselves to the extent of three singles and a pass in the seventh and yet could not score. Hartnett singled to open the inning. Bush batted for Bush and banged into a double play, which was the thing that hurt. English then singled to center. Heathcote walked, and Hornsby scratched a hit past Traynor, filling the bases. Wilson then tapped to Traynor for a forceout.

Blake had such a distressing time in the seventh, the only round he worked, that he probably was lucky to escape with no more than one run against him. P. Waner singled to start one out and Comorosky walked. Waner was forced by Suhr, who stole second. Traynor was considered dangerous and was purposely passed. Bost then bounced a single off English's chest, scoring Waner and leaving the bases populated. Bartell then ran the score to 3 and 2, but struck out.

Loose Fielding Aids Pirates.

The Cubs kept on nibbling at the eighth and added a couple of runs to their total. Grimm's single with one out set this splurge going. Suhr walked and so did Hartnett, filling the corners. Stephenson batted for Blake and forced Hartnett, but Grimm scored on the play. English singled to drive Bell home. Then Heathcote slashed a long drive to left and Bell backed against the fence for a catch.

Two runs off Nelson in the bottom of the eighth was mainly the outcome of shabby infielding. With one out Brickell got a triple on a ball also caught by Heathcote. Grantham bounced directly at Hornsby, but the ball went on its way for a double, Brickell scoring. P. Waner singled on a grounder Bell should have picked up. This put Grantham on third and Comorosky's long fly sent him home. Then the Cubs turned loose their futile, dying kick in the ninth and the party broke up.

MOTORING NO LONGER REQUIRES "costumes"

The linen duster, goggles and the motoring veil went out of fashion when people stopped thinking of the automobile as "the horseless carriage." Nowadays, nobody puts on special apparel for a Sunday drive. ¶ And Shell Motor Oil has helped make motoring a matter-of-fact necessity. As the automobile developed, Shell has regularly anticipated lubrication requirements. Always a step ahead, it is ready now for the models which will be announced next year. ¶ That is why owners of all kinds of cars are turning to Shell Motor Oil in ever increasing numbers for the protection they know their engines must have. All the world knows that if the Shell organization cannot make a quality lubricant, no organization can. Have you tried it?

BY FRENCH LANE.

Eight year old Lucky Drift, a daughter of Huon and out of the mare Drift, has no respect for the flappers of her age nor for their young boy friends.

Lucky Drift made her fifth start of the season at Aurora yesterday in the last race on the program. After she had thrown mud in the faces of a lot of younger rivals she came galloping home to victory, beating Finnic, which finished out in the middle of the track by a little less than a length. It was her fourth victory in five starts and as she rolled up the fine record she has beaten most of the selling platers racing here.

Winner Receives Ovation.

Lucky Drift has become a great favorite with the Aurora crowds, and, while the track handicapper and other figure experts didn't give her much of a chance in this struggle, she was running against the best field she has met here. The players in the ladies' day crowd backed her with great confidence, and as she came marching home she received an ovation that was worthy of a Derby winner.

Despite the rain and the slow track about 11,000 were in the crowd and the big shot players had their biggest day of the meeting, for until Lucky Drift scored the favorites were in total eclipse.

Jack Rankins, a "field" horse, won the opener and made a show of his company as he galloped home at 11 to 1, and Martha Florence paid better than 12 to 1 when she carried Ald. J. J. Coughlin's silks to a triumph in the second race.

It was the first victory scored by a Coughlin horse this year and the First Warders who were in the audience staged quite a celebration when the apple blossom jacket of John the Bath were flashed first past the line of finish.

Outsider Wins.

Gabbo was the outsider to win the third race; Dick Price, almost a prohibitive favorite, failing to get any part of the purse. By this time the favorite players had but little left, but they rallied to the support of Lucky Drife with all they had and they cashed again in the fifth when Seth's Ballot got up in the final jump to head Roxie Weidel, on which there had been a wild plunge right at post time.

Old Donna Santa wrecked the favorite players in the six a when, after being at 7 to 5, she ran the dullest kind of a race and was never a contender. Raymond Dale ran away from the cheap field all the way and his backers collected at $12.74 for every two dollars invested.

PAUL CAVALIER TO APPEAR ON VON PORAT CARD

Paul Cavalier, chief sparring partner for Jack Sharkey, has been signed to meet Larry Johnson in the ten round semi-windup to the Von Porat-Gagnon bout at the Stadium next Wednesday. Cavalier was selected after Paul Swiderski found it impossible to return to the ring so soon after his lacing at the hands of Mickey Walker at Louisville last week. Swiderski asked for a postponement and will meet Johnson later.

Cavalier's heavyweight record includes victories over Al Friedman, Eddie Anderson, Phila Murcurio, Harold Maya, and Charley Smith. If he ties up Johnson he will demand a fight with Von Porat before the Norwegian meets Risko, Paolino, or Campolo.

Cavalier will come direct from the Sharkey camp Sunday to wind up training for the bout. Von Porat took another workout at Barry's gymnasium yesterday, while Gagnon worked out at the Arcade. Vittorio Livan, Italian middleweight champion, who meets Haakon Hanson, Von Porat's stable mate, and Jimmy Mendes, Cuban heavyweight, who is matched with Bearcat Wright, will train with Gagnon.

Mickey Walker Scores Win Over Canadian at Detroit

Detroit, Mich., May 23.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, Chicago, king of the middleweights, won an easy 10 round decision over Charlie Belanger, Canadian light heavyweight champion, at Olympia tonight. The hard hitting and aggressiveness of the Chicago middleweight titleholder gave him all but two of the 10 rounds. Walker weighed 164; Belanger, 175.

Walker demonstrated marked superiority over the Canadian champion in all but two rounds. Walker was caught off his balance in the second and went to his knees when Belanger landed a hard right to the chin. He was up quickly, however, and chased Belanger around the ring to land a hard left to the body.

MIDLOTHIAN'S 36 HOLE DERBY STARTS TODAY

Midlothian's Derby the "first robin" of the individual golf season begins today. Nearly 60 foursomes will tee off in the twenty-sixth annual tournament, won last year by Percy Graham.

The prizes will be low gross and low net for both individuals and foursomes on each 18 holes, as well as on 36 holes. The tournament includes 18 holes today, which are regarded merely as a tuneup, and 18 holes tomorrow which is the real derby race.

Among the foursomes entered is one which has a total handicap of 11; Paul Day, Flossmoor, 5; John Bartlett, Olympia Fields, 2; A. J. Paterson, Midlothian, 2; and M. D. Stewart, Midlothian, 2.

Allison and Van Ryn Beat Latin Netmen

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(AP)—The United States Davis cup team earned the right to invade Europe today as its dashing young doubles pair of William Allison and Johnny Van Ryn scored a clean cut straight set victory over Mexico's best combination.

Playing almost faultless tennis, Allison and Van Ryn beat Manuel Llano and Alfonso Unda 6-0, 6-1, 6-3, giving the United States a 3-0 lead in its tie with Mexico and unchanllenged supremacy in the American zone. The two matches remaining to be played tomorrow are mere formality.

Lott Meets Tapia.

George Lott of Chicago is scheduled to meet 20 year old Ricardo Tapia, who came within inches of upsetting Allison yesterday in a five set match, while Allison is to oppose Ingacio de la Borbolla.

The match today was a story of hard smashing play at the net by the American pair. Time and again they captured the forecourt from the Latins to put them on the defensive.

Starting with a rush, Allison and Van Ryn tore through the first two games without loss of a point. The Mexicans gained but five points in the first set.

Latins Get Better.

The Latins were playing far better tennis as the final chapter started. They won the first two games on placements by Unda and a break through Van Ryn's service. After the Americans had evened the score and forged ahead, Van Ryn once more lost his service accuracy and gave away another game to even the set, but steadied quickly to help run out the match.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BIG TEN TRACK MEET.

BIG TEN track and field athletes will compete at Dyche field this afternoon in the thirtieth annual championship. Michigan, Illinois, Ohio State, and Wisconsin, we are informed by those who have "doped" the event, have chances to take the title won for the last three years by the Illini.

The Wake always has regretted that Chicago has not taken more kindly in attendance to track sport, which in the sprints and quarter-mile run provides thrilling contests. Those who do enjoy seeing sprinters reel off the century and 220 in record breaking time, or who like the hurdle events or the relay race with its frequent transfer of the baton, will see performers of high caliber this afternoon.

Since these games were inaugurated in 1901 Illinois has been champion 11 times, Michigan 10, Chicago 3, Wisconsin 2, Missouri 1, Notre Dame 1, California 1. The last three named were victors during the period when competition was not restricted to members of the Big Ten, as now. Michigan's showing is notable, as the Wolverines were voluntary absentees from conference ranks for more than a decade.

There are now sixteen events on the program. Considering the great names which have held titles and records in the past, it is perhaps remarkable that marks for twelve of these sixteen contests have been established within the last five years. The exceptions are the quarter-mile run by Binga Dismond, Chicago's colored star, in :47.4 in 1916; half mile run by Scott of Mississippi, 1:53.2, in 1916; mile by Fall of Oberlin, 4:15.8, in 1917, and discus by Mucks of Wisconsin, 155 feet 2 inches, in 1916.

Harvey: I've often spent nights trying to think up some plan of elimination for the second guess grandstand variety of ball player. I recently had the keen pleasure of seeing a foul tip sock one of these conversational advisers of the home team, but I suppose such glad events happen only once in a lifetime.

CRAZY BONE SANE AGAIN, THOMAS TO PITCH TODAY

Sox Face Tigers in Last of Series.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Manager Donie Bush announced after the rain yesterday that he had been in conference with Tommy Thomas in re the latter's crazy bone and that Tommy had advised that he desired to pitch the final game against the Detroit Tigers at Comiskey park this afternoon.

Manager Bush added that he did not oppose Mr. Thomas' desire to return to his labors, and that, accordingly, if Tommy still wants to pitch when game time arrives, he will pitch.

If Tommy is really ready, this will give Bush a two man first string pitching staff, Ted Lyons, who has won seven of the Sox' 12 victories this season, being the other first stringer.

Won Two Games.

Thomas, though he has been invalided for almost a month, is the only Sox pitcher other than Lyons who has won more than one game. Tommy got credit for a 2 to 1 victory over St. Louis, the game in which he injured his arm, and he previously had defeated the Cleveland Indians in the Cleveland opener by a score of 4 to 3. Tommy started the home opener, which the Sox won. Dutch Henry, however, got credit for the victory.

Red Faber has won one game in six; Blankenship, by pitching an inning at just the right time, got credit for another. That's the record of winning pitchers. Walsh, McKain, Welland, and Caraway have done considerable pitching, but none has won a game. McKain has done some able relief pitching, but has been a bust as a starter. Caraway has done some fine relief work, but did not get credit for his only start, which the Sox won after Pat had given away to a pinch hitter.

Meet Indians Tomorrow.

After the game this afternoon the Sox, who have been hanging up Pullman records this year, again will hit the road. They go to Cleveland for six games in four days, spend next Thursday at leisure in St. Louis, then engage the Browns in two games on Decoration day and single encounters on May 31 and June 1.

On June 3 they will reappear at Comiskey park to entertain Babe Ruth et al for four days. Then come the world champion Athletics, the league leading Senators, and the lowly Red Sox.

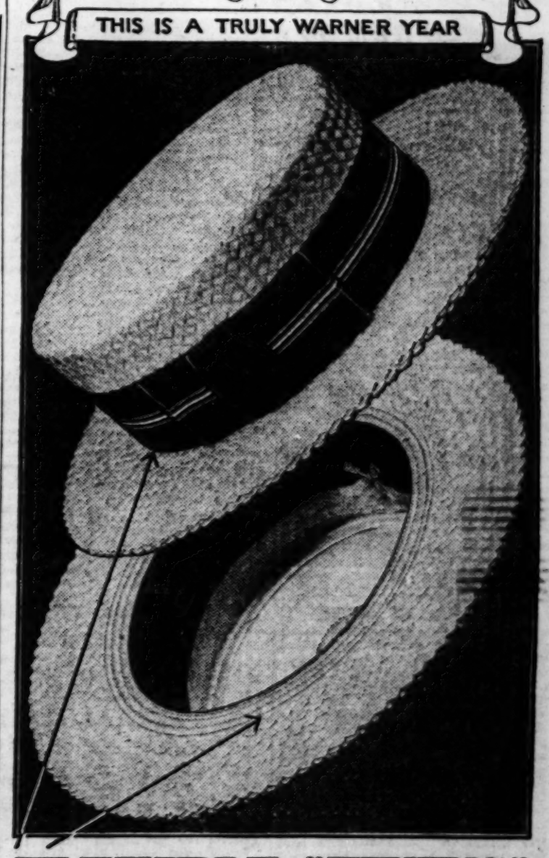
"Style Twins"
THIS IS A TRULY WARNER YEAR



FLEXIBLE "TWINS"
CONCEALED COMFORT
All Style on the Outside—All Comfort on the Inside.

In this Flexible "Style Twin" the "flexible" feature is concealed. The insertion of a soft, pliable braid is seen only in the under-brim.

In my opinion, it's an improvement of a comfort feature introduced by a high-priced maker at TWICE my PRICE $2.45

I believe our collection of Straw "STYLE TWINS" represents the greatest variety of new styles, and the largest assortment of fine imported straw braids, at the lowest prices ever shown by us, or anyone.

WHEAT BULLS LACK LEADER; PRICES DECLINE

May Oats Hit New High, Then Drop Back.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Lack of leadership on the bull side was largely responsible for a sharp recession in the wheat market yesterday. While the news generally was in favor of holders, failure of frost to develop in the west and southwest overnight led to profit taking, which found support less aggressive and the finish was about the bottom. Losses were around 1⅞@2¼c with May at $1.04¼@1.04⅝ and July $1.05⅛@1.05⅝.

Technical position of the wheat market had been weakened by Thursday's bulge, and while some of the locals bought early on the strength in Liverpool the desire to take profits as the result of the bulge of around 4c from the low figures Wednesday proved too much for the limited outside buying. Support at the last came mainly from holders of bids. Minneapolis July went to around 1c under Chicago, compared with a premium recently, which had some effect here, but Winnipeg failed to follow the decline this side of the international line and was off only 1@1¼c for the day. Liverpool finished 1½d higher and Buenos Aires ¾@1c lower.

Europe Growing Uneasy.

At the present time the market is dominated more by the action of local speculators than by the news, but signs were not lacking that foreigners are becoming uneasy as to the future. Strength in Liverpool was based on less favorable American winter wheat reports and on a better demand for Argentine and Manitoba grain. Private cables told of damage in France from rust and excessive rains, and even European authorities now admit that both France and Italy will have smaller crops than last year. South Russia sold 150,000 bu wheat to Italy and offered 200,000 bu more. The price was not given.

A little hard winter wheat is being sold abroad from day to day but the bulk of the business is confined to Manitobas, the pool disposing of around 700,000 bu late Thursday, and further sales were said to have been done during the day. The southern hemisphere is shipping on a small scale, and the trade looks for total world's shipments for the week of around 10,000,000 bu, which will compare with 19,604,000 bu last year. The trade is also anticipating a good reduction in the domestic visible supply, although part of the grain recently shipped from western points is now showing up at other terminals.

Lack of subsoil moisture in the Canadian northwest is now being more generally commented on than of late, although there is surface moisture sufficient to carry the crop for a while.

May Corn Leads Decline.

Technical position in the corn market was materially weakened by Thursday's bulge and when wheat started downward there was fairly general selling of corn futures and the close was 1¼@1⅞c lower, with May leading. The latter closed at 72⅝@73⅛c, with July 80¼@80¾c. Yield work is progressing rapidly as the result of several days of good weather and the forecast was for generally fair over the week-end. Country offerings to arrive were generally held above buyers' views, and purchases of only 15,000 bu were claimed during the day. Shipping demand was slow. Buenos Aires futures closed ¾@⅞c lower.

May oats sold early at 43@43¼c, a new high on the present movement, but there was increased pressure on all deliveries later in sympathy with the break in other grains, and the close was ⅝@⅞c lower, May being 43¼c, and July 39¾c. Cash and northwestern interests bought May and July.

A leading elevator interest was a persistent seller of May and July rye and prices averaged lower, the finish being at net losses of 2@2¼c, with May 55¾c, and July 61½c. Germany was reported to have advanced the import duty on rye 35c.

LARD MARKET FIRMER

Higher prices for hogs combined with buying by packers and distributors of lard yesterday absorbed the offerings by commission houses and held prices within a 5c limit. The close was 2¼c higher to unchanged. The tone in bellies were one lot at $12.40 for July. Prices were 2¼@5c higher. Exports of bacon were 30,000 lbs. Exports of lard 2,483,260 lbs. Prices follow:

THERMOMETER OF BUSINESS IS SLOWLY RISING

Now Registers Only 2% Below Normal.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Although trade and industry continue quiet, with some lines improving and others declining, there is no lack of confidence of recovery later in the year. In fact, even at the present time it wouldn't require much quickening in demand to gear up production and firm up prices. This is the consensus of the weekly mercantile reviews.

"The business thermometer continues to climb toward normal for the season," according to the Business Week. "It rose 1.3 per cent this week and is now only a little more than 2 per cent below normal, although still more than 10 per cent under last year's level. Production and inventories have been cut in some lines to a point where retailers are cramped to meet even current consumer demand.

"Even now, considering the lower level of prices, business volume is higher than it looks. Only in the stock market is business so slack that it has to play solitaire but nobody thinks this rest cure will do it any harm."

No Broad Revival.

"In its essential aspects, the general commercial situation changes only in slight degree from week to week," Dun's review says. "Indications of betterment are more distinct in some instances, but are not representative of a broad and decisive revival and sentiment is more than usually sensitive to varying conditions.

"No doubt is felt as to the ultimate emergence of business from its state of hesitation but the immediate results are disappointing. Analysis of market trends shows that the recession has been most pronounced in foodstuffs, yet the continued unsteadiness in different raw materials and manufactured products remains an obstacle to returning activity on an extensive scale."

"At a few markets there are signs of a closer approach to a year ago than in recent months in the volume of day to day buying," Bradstreet's review says. "This tends to strengthen the impression that the purchasing tendency has found levels at which new buying may be made with a trade more confidence than existed for some time. Perhaps aiding this has been the wider scope of employment in outside occupations, which tends to more than offset the slight reduction indicated in factory operations from earlier periods."

Whiting Announcement.

Apparently the building construction industry is not doing so badly. Lawrence H. Whiting, chairman of the Indiana Limestone company, announced that last month was the second best April in the company's history. Its fiscal year starts in December.

"In addition, April rounded out the first five months of any fiscal year, being $360,360 ahead of the same period a year ago," he said. "This was in spite of the fact that the winter months usually are dull throughout the building industry."

Business conditions show a general upward trend, according to Oscar F. Couk, president of the Normandie National Securities corporation, which has completed a nation-wide survey. Installment buying has not been seriously affected by current conditions, according to Pratt E. Tracy, president of the Airway Electric Appliance corporation, whose records show that out of 100,000 retail accounts the number delinquent in payment on March 31 was only 3.2 per cent more than a year ago.

Net income of the Northern Pacific railroad last year were larger than in 1928 in spite of smaller gross income, due to a short grain crop and general business depression late in the year. The formal annual report was issued last night by President Charles Donnelly. Net income after all charges was $21,805,308, an increase of $675,098 over 1928. Freight revenue was $76,802,142, a decline of $4,862,834, or nearly 6 per cent, while passenger revenue was $9,838,918, a decrease of $911,912, or 8½ per cent. There are 37,480 stockholders, nearly half of whom are women, and about 30,000 bondholders.

North American Co. Has Nearly Billion in Assets

The consolidated balance sheet of the North American company and subsidiaries, as of March 31, shows total assets approaching a billion dollars. Assets amounted to $940,453,921, which compares with $861,416,955 on March 31, 1929, an increase of more than $79,000,000. Undivided profits showed a gain of $23,177,650 over the previous year and investments increased $30,000,000. Current liabilities as of March 31 were $62,785,526 and current liabilities were $10,611,254, as compared with $861,416,955 and $11,428,-133, respectively, on March 31, 1929.

Life Insurance Assets Reach $15,015,219,383

New York, May 23.—(AP)—A new peak in the assets of life insurance companies of the United States and branch offices of foreign companies doing business under the laws of New York state was reached in 1929. The total assets jumped $1,279,528,908 to reach $15,015,219,383.

Smoke Evil Hit in Modern Coal Firing

BY SCRUTATOR.

The smoke evil is now being attacked in the only way, short of stern laws and enforcement as determined as that applied to the prohibition measures, that has any chance of being accepted by coal burners. The coal industry is placing itself in the position of urging that dollars and cents can be saved by smokeless combustion.

It is freely admitted that the oil producers and the makers of oil burning equipment have cut in sharply on coal sales. Smokelessness is one of the arguments that has appealed especially to householders who have changed to oil or to gas from coal. It is not the only one, certainly, but it has been a powerful one.

Two important groups, the middle western coal producers and the makers of mechanical stoking devices, are intensifying their efforts to prove that the trouble is not with the coal, but with the methods that are used in burning it. In Chicago this week the president of a coal burner concern declared that hand firing is a violation of natural law, but that it was difficult to persuade people who have 200 years of shovel tradition behind them to change to mechanical firing.

Illinois Coal.

The smoke nuisance as it existed some years ago caused a falling off in the use of coal from Illinois mines and handed over a large part of demand for fuel in the Chicago switching district—largest consuming area in the world—to eastern mines. There was a belief then to the effect that bituminous coal from the West Virginia and eastern Kentucky fields could be burned in the old fashioned way, and with satisfaction so far as smoke was concerned.

This is not always true, in the opinion of some authorities. One of these is Dr. F. C. Honnold, secretary of the Illinois Coal bureau. A few days ago he pointed to the stacks of the loop buildings visible from his office in the Bell building and remarked:

"You don't see smoke coming from them. A majority o fthem are burning coal that comes from Illinois mines. With proper combustion methods that coal is as good as almost any of the eastern coals in thermal content and it costs 50 to 75 cents a ton less. A majority of our big steam coal users have realized that the nearby coal is best and cheapest for all but special uses. It is the small consumers who use ten to 200 tons a year that have not realized they can eliminate smoke and save enough in three years or so to pay for the equipment for scientific firing. The savings would continue after that."

Chicago Regulations.

The city's department of smoke inspection and abatement has announced that it will not permit installation of low pressure heating boilers or hot water heaters of the surface burning type for burning coal, when the radiation supplied is more than 1,200 square feet. Strict regulations are also enforced in regard to high pressure boilers of considerable size. Small boilers may be installed under agreement of the owners to use anthracite, coke or semi-bituminous coal with less than 20 per cent of violatile, or smoke making, matter.

The mechanical stoker men are trying to make coal burning more popular. They argue that labor and money can both be saved by abandonment of hand firing. The Illinois coal producers are trying not only to increase consumption of coal but to show that their cheaper coal with modern firing is superior in smoke abatement to fuels dug farther away and burned by hand, and equal to it when the equipment is installed.

What the results will be it is difficult to guess, but the advocates of better stoking for apartment buildings and homes are at least on the right track when they talk individual savings and collective elimination of smoke at the same time.

PLAN $100,000 SPORTS AREA IN DU PAGE COUNTY

Work has started on an open air recreation center in Du Page county which it is claimed will cost the owners, a group of Downers Grove business men, approximately $100,000. It is located at the southwest corner of Ogden avenue and the Belmont road, on the old Puffer-Reid estate, where a well known tea house has been located for several years. It adjoins the Belmont Golf club on its eastern boundary.

Features of the new project will be an oval swimming pool, 150x80, a pavilion restaurant, four tennis courts, a miniature golf course with separate driving range and putting greens, handball courts, a picnic ground and a fifteen room hotel. This last will be the 100 year old Puffer-Reid home remodeled.

The new recreation center, to be called "Oaknoll Pool," is only a short distance from the Ogden avenue entrance to the Morton Arboretum and about a mile north of the Belmont station on the Burlington. It is west of the western boundary of Downers Grove, and also directly west of the Belmont Country club development of Arthur T. McIntosh & Co. The owners are known as the Belmont Recreation company.

FINANCIAL NOTES

A new issue of $14,040,000 4½ per cent equipment trust certificates will be sold to the highest bidder on May 27 by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad company. The issue will be known as series "Q."

Application to list $15,000,000 of Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway general mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, series F, dated May 1, 1889, and due May 1, 1989, has been made to the New York stock exchange. These bonds were issued under the indenture of the old company, prior to reorganization and were offered by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and National City company in March this year at 100½.

BYLLESBY GROUP ACQUIRES CONTROL OF UTILITY CONCERN

Acquisition of controlling interest in Western Continental Utilities, Inc., by a group headed by the H. M. Byllesby & Co. and the Central-Illinois Securities corporation will be made shortly.

Under the new régime the board of directors will include Philip R. Clarke, president of the Central Trust Company of Illinois; J. H. Briggs, vice president of H. M. Byllesby & Co., and Carroll E. Gray Jr., vice president of the Central-Illinois company. Chester H. Loveland will continue as president of the company.

An expansion program calling for the development of properties in various parts of the country is under consideration by the company and associated interests. The company was formed in Delaware in February, 1929. Consolidated gross income of the properties in 1929 totaled $2,750,000. Net income amounted to $1,598,000. The principal subsidiary, Western Utilities corporation, operates entirely in California.

FRENCH-BRITISH ACCORD NEARING ON GERMAN LOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 23.—Important progress toward an accord for the flotation of the $300,000,000 reparations bond issue was made today when the superbank directors and emission bank representatives and private banking delegates met at the Hotel George V.

An intensive effort was made to reach an early agreement in order that the military evacuation of the Rhineland will not be delayed beyond June 30, as the French insist that the bonds must be marketed and the cash in hand before the army of occupation will be withdrawn.

The British have adopted a more conciliatory attitude, agreeing to subscribe $50,000,000 instead of further reducing the London share.

It was finally agreed that the uniform interest rate will be 5½ per cent, but the bonds will be offered at different prices in different countries, according to how the taxation rates and other factors affect the values and yield.

The United States is expected to float the bonds at about 94, whereas they may be above par in France, as the Paris government made them immune from imports. The duration of the amortization is 35 years. The bonds have a guaranteed gold value, preventing loss through the depreciation of the money of any country or exchange fluctuations.

Curtiss-Wright Corp. Reports Quarterly Loss

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—The Curtiss-Wright corporation, a holding company, announced today that operations for the quarter ended March 31 resulted in a net loss of $1,620,920 after deduction of $641,758 for depreciation and reserves. Most of this loss was attributed to the fact that the company's activities in the flying phase of the industry were not profitable. The first quarter is normally a time of year when such operations are at a low ebb. For the year ended Dec. 31 the company, organized last August, had a deficit of $2,127,714.

Penn. State Water Corp. Acquires Two Companies

New York, May 23.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania State Water corporation, a subsidiary of the Community Water Service company, has acquired the Bangor Water company of Bangor, Pa., and the Mount Jewett Water company, Mount Jewett, Pa. Total assets of the Pennsylvania company now are $13,000,000.

The Tacoma, Wash., pulp mill of the Union Bag and Paper company has been sold to the Pacific Pulp Mill corporation, a subsidiary of the St. Regis Paper company.

Produce Small Theater Talkie Equipment Now

Sound picture equipment designed to meet the needs of the small theater is now being manufactured by the Western Electric Hawthorne works. It is expected that by July 1 the plant will be producing 80 machines a week. The present schedule indicates that 2,000 machines will be turned out before the end of the year.

NYC Buys a Big Block of DL & W Stock

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—The Securities corporation of the New York Central railroad has bought a block of 77,225 shares, or about 4.6 per cent, of the outstanding stock of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, it became known today. The price amounted to $10,794,150, or, roughly, $140 a share, the purchases having been made before the stock market crash of last fall.

The other large stockholders of the Lackawanna include members of the Baker and Vanderbilt families and additional holders identified with the First National bank, all of whom have been regarded as friendly to the New York Central. The Central's purchase, it is said, may be fairly looked upon as a protective measure amid the conflicting desires of eastern trunk lines for carriers that run to New York from central Pennsylvania.

At present the New York Central has a line from Ashtabula, O., ending at Williamsport, Pa., whence connection might be made with the Lackawanna by using trackage rights from Northumberland. The Lackawanna has the shortest line from Buffalo to New York and originates heavy traffic in hard coal.

Result of Contest.

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(AP)—President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad testified to the interstate commerce commission today that acquisition by the Pennsylvania of important holdings of stock of the Wabash and Lehigh Valley systems was a result of sharp railroad contest in eastern territory.

The Pennsylvania is charged with violating anti-trust laws in its purchase of the stock.

Atterbury said the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and Nickel Plate interests had adopted a plan for consolidating eastern railroads.

"The Nickel Plate was already taking over the Père Marquette and Erie and had the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Baltimore and Ohio people wanted the Reading line and the Wabash, the New York Central desired either the Lackawanna or the Lehigh Valley," he said. "The Pennsylvania system needed a direct line from St. Louis to Chicago, better facilities around the south side of Lake Erie, and was also desirous of a better connection between Buffalo and New York City.

"During our discussion it became evident that neither the Nickel Plate nor the New York Central was prepared to facilitate our system to the betterment of the line around Lake Erie. Also, the Nickel Plate crowd and the Baltimore and Ohio began buying into the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Western Maryland, while the Lehigh Valley stock was being purchased by the New York Central. Clearly a combination against the Pennsylvania system was being brought about.

Cites Friendly Interest.

"We found Mr. Loree getting hold of Lehigh Valley stock and of Wabash stock, and he was interested in the idea of creating a fifth major railroad system in the eastern territory.

"Personally I have not been in sympathy with the idea of five systems, but it was obviously to the interest of the Pennsylvania railroad that, if such a fifth system were to be built up, it should be under the leadership of the Delaware and Hudson, Mr. Loree's company, because the Delaware and Hudson is a friendly system. It would be better for us to have a friendly interest in charge of the Wabash and Lehigh Valley rather than an unfriendly interest like that of the Van Sweringen roads or the Baltimore and Ohio."

RECEIVERSHIP CHARGES DENIED BY SHOE FIRM

St. Louis, Mo., May 23.—(AP)—The Hamilton Brown Shoe company denied in an answer today to receivership action against it that it is unable to obtain money to meet its maturing and future obligations, or that there is any immediate prospect of liquidation of the business or a forced sale of property.

The answer was to a petition by the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company of Chicago, a creditor, for appointment of a receiver. The shoe company, a $5,000,000 concern which once was a leader in the shoe manufacturing industry, denies it is insolvent or that there are any outstanding matured judgments or obligations against it. A hearing of the receivership petition was deferred until tomorrow.

BUSINESS PERSONALS

James F. McConnochie, for 23 years supervising representative of the United States treasury department in charge of the New York district, will retire next week to enter private business. He will become a partner in the New York Stock Exchange firm of M. J. Meehan & Co.

H. S. Schroeder has been appointed western manager of sales for the Republic Steel corporation, with headquarters in Chicago. He formerly was vice president and general sales manager of the Interstate Iron and Steel company.

James A. Roberts Jr., formerly associated with the Central Illinois company and Albert E. Peirce & Co., announces the formation of James A. Roberts & Co., investment securities, at 105 West Adams street.

Appointment of L. N. Boisen and F. P. Gross as assistants to D. C. McClure, operating vice president, are announced by Albert E. Peirce, president of Central Public Service corporation.

Louisville Gas and Electric company stockholders have added Victor Emanuel and Louis H. Seagrave to its board.

DENY DIVIDEND TO ENEMIES OF STEEL COMBINE

Not a Penny Will Be Lost: Eaton.

Youngstown, O., May 23.—(AP)—Directors of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company today declared regular dividends of $1.37½ on preferred stock and $1.25 on common stock of record June 14, payable July 1 "to stock which is entitled to receive dividends."

A statement given out after the meeting pointed out that under Ohio law stockholders who opposed the company's proposed merger with Bethlehem Steel corporation are not entitled to dividends.

Cyrus S Eaton, Cleveland financier and leader of the forces opposing the merger plan, attended the meeting as a director of Sheet and Tube.

"No dissenting stockholder will lose a penny," he said afterward, "because if the deal falls through the stock will immediately be restored to full privileges and receive the dividend. If a fair cash value of the stock is fixed by court order, the dissenting stockholders are entitled to receive interest from the date of the stockholders' meeting which approved the merger."

Eaton said he was determined to carry the merger fight to a finish. "It is not for myself," he said. "It is for the interest of Youngstown, O., and the entire middle west that the merger with Bethlehem should be prevented."

Bon Ami Extras.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—Bon Ami company, because of "continued prosperity" and the company's "excellent cash position," has declared extra dividends of $1 a share on the A stock and 50 cents a share on the B, in addition to the regular quarterly dividends of the amounts equal to the extra dividends on each class of stock.

The directors of the Isle Royal Copper company today decided to omit the dividend due at this time. On March 31 the company paid a dividend of 50 cents a share. The omission of the dividend by that company follows dividend reductions by a number of copper companies, including Calumet & Arizona, Calumet & Hecla, Chile, Inspiration, and Copper Range, while the Greene Cananea yesterday deferred action on the dividend until next month.

Bunker Hill & Sullivan Mining company of San Francisco has declared the usual extra dividend of 25 cents a share in addition to the regular monthly dividend of 25 cents a share.

American Chicle Payment.

The final dividend of 3 shillings on Shell Transport and Trading company ordinary share will amount to 6 shillings per American share, and the proceeds of this dividend will be paid later to American holders by the Equitable Trust company.

The American Chicle company declared an extra dividend of 25 cents besides the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents. The same extra was paid in the two previous quarters.

The Ontario Manufacturing company today declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, placing that issue on a $2 yearly basis, against $3 paid previously. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 was declared on the preferred.

DENY DIVIDEND TO ENEMIES OF STEEL COMBINE

Not a Penny Will Be Lost: Eaton.

Youngstown, O., May 23.—(AP)—Directors of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company today declared regular dividends of $1.37½ on preferred stock and $1.25 on common stock of record June 14, payable July 1 "to stock which is entitled to receive dividends."

A statement given out after the meeting pointed out that under Ohio law stockholders who opposed the company's proposed merger with Bethlehem Steel corporation are not entitled to dividends.

Cyrus S Eaton, Cleveland financier and leader of the forces opposing the merger plan, attended the meeting as a director of Sheet and Tube.

"No dissenting stockholder will lose a penny," he said afterward, "because if the deal falls through the stock will immediately be restored to full privileges and receive the dividend. File Petition Against Rail Merger Plan

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(AP)—A group of northwestern representatives today presented a petition to the interstate commerce commission setting forth their unalterable opposition to the merger of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Burlington railroads.

The petition stressed their opposition to the proposal to make St. Paul and Minneapolis the eastern terminus of the merger system. It contended that if the consolidation were effected, the lines should include a "direct line as far east as possible, and certainly as far as Chicago."

A consolidation at the present time is not practical, it continued, for the reason that the commission has not completed a valuation of the lines in conformity with the recent decision of the Supreme court in the O'Fallon case.

Other reasons for opposing the merger included the belief of northwest representatives that it would result in abandonment of a number of shops and a "district reduction" in the number of employés, and that congress in the transportation act of 1920 did not intend to encourage or promote the consolidation of "parallel and competing" liens or systems.

In addition, they asserted that "consolidations of such magnitude should not be considered or approved until the house interstate commerce committee had completed its investigation of the ownership of railroad securities by holding companies.

Doubt that any reduction in operating costs of the unified system would be reflected in reduced freight or passenger rates also was expressed.

The petition was signed by Representatives Claue of Minnesota, chairman of the special committee; Burtness of North Dakota, Williamson of South Dakota, Leavitt of Montana, French of Idaho, Summers of Washington, and Butler of Oregon.

J. FRANK GRIMES ASSAILS CHAIN STORE SYSTEMS

The chain store has thrown thousands out of work, is starving other thousands who do not make a living wage for them, and will vie with farm relief for the attention of congress next December declared J. Frank Grimes yesterday at the Optimist club luncheon at the Hotel Sherman. Mr. Grimes is president of the Independent Grocers, Alliance of America and of the Independent Druggists' Alliance of America.

"Despite some exceptions, which we hope will continue to be exceptions," he said, "the wage of chain store employés is the lowest wage paid in America. It is lower than the workers in the textile mills receive."

Chain grocery clerks rarely get more than $15 a week, despite long hours and overtime, he declared. "The stock market crash has received credit for most of the unemployment in recent months," Mr. Grimes continued, "but there are 75,000 salesmen permanently out of work because their customers have been taken by chain stores. The number of clerks has been cut in half, and credit men and credit facilities have been almost eliminated."

Disclaims Connection with Acme Sound Products

The Acme Sound Products corporation, whose initial stock offering was announced this week, is in no way connected with the International Projector corporation, according to H. L. Clarke, president of General Theaters Equipment. The International Projector corporation, a subsidiary of General Theaters Equipment, Inc., sells L. A. Boening of the Acme Sound Products corporation some of its portable projector machines on a strictly cash basis only, according to Mr. Clarke. Previous published reports said that "the corporation is a sales organization, one division of which will assemble and sell sound units for the Acme projectors of the International Projector corporation."

CONSUMPTION IS SEEN FACTOR IN BUTTER DECLINE

The wholesale price of butter in Chicago fell to a new low yesterday with quotations at 31¾ cents a pound, exactly 10 cents under the price of a year ago.

HARRY H. FIELD. [Atwell Photo.]

"Not since 1921 have butter prices been so reasonable," said President Harry H. Field of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. "A fair index of price levels is the November butter future, which sold today at 26¾ cents, a record low since the 27 cent bottom of 1921. Increasing fresh production and rather pronounced underconsumption, considering the attractiveness of price, may be considered as partly responsible for the recent declines."

Reports Arrival of Cargo of German Corned Beef

A cargo of 300 tons of canned corned beef from Germany was reported yesterday as having arrived at the Canadian Soo on the steamer Max Brood headed for Chicago. This report was received by the Bartlett Frazier company. Part of the cargo was said to have been unloaded at the Soo and the balance will be brought here. Commenting on the possibilities of German corned beef in the Chicago market, a member of the firm said it was suggestive of the existing difference between American and world's prices.

March Output of Paper and Pulp Increaess 4%

New York, May 23.—(AP)—Paper and pulp production in March showed an increase of 4 per cent over February, 1930, and a decrease of 6 per cent compared with March, 1929, reports the American Paper and Pulp association. Total wood puip production in March increased 12 per cent over February, 1930, and was 6 per cent ahead of the same month in 1929.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—Wall street was wearing its sunny side up once more today. The stock market braced up after its prolonged spell of doldrums and moved ahead in the first real advance in a week or more. The leaders showed their mettle in a body and a long list of other representative issues went into new high ground for the movement, a few of them even achieving new highs for the year or longer.

Shorts were kept on the run all day. Nearly every section of the list shared in the benefits and gains of 1 to 3 points were fairly numerous in the closing quotations. Naturally trading was on a little better scale, the volume approximating 2,157,520 shares, as compared with yesterday's total of 1,860,220 and an even smaller number the day before.

No Bullish News.

The day was devoid of any real bullish news and a growing belief that the market is in an oversold condition probably had more than anything else to do with the improved sentiment. However, commentators were cautioning against expecting too much of the changed order of things just at present, insisting that nothing more than a "good technical rally" could be counted upon until business conditions furnish better grounds for anything worthy of the name of a market boom.

Just how far the "rally" may go will depend, they agreed, on the size of the short interest which has accumulated during the reactionary period of the last fortnight. Meanwhile brokers continued to counsel customers to go slow in their commitments and keep an eye peeled on the old weathervane.

Whatever its fate, however, the advance got away to a good start today and developed in a fashion calculated to raise drooping spirits all around the circle. Speculators for the rise were in control from the outset. They got behind United States Steel, the old time leader, in the early dealings and pegged it up for a net gain of some 2 points. Radio, General Motors, Johns-Manville, New York Central, Westinghouse, in fact most of the pivotals, came in for a share of profitable patronage and gains among them ranged from 1 to nearly 5 points.

General Motors Activity.

One of the outstanding achievements of the day was the demonstrated ability of General Motors to push through the point at which stern resistance had been encountered for several sessions. Wilmington interests are again reported active on the buying side of the stock, and Wall street is beginning to regard the outlook for the company as more favorable than it had recently.

It is now estimated unofficially that current quarter earnings will equal $1.50 a share or better for the common stock, which would bring net for the half year to around $2.50. Insiders are understood to be anticipating earnings for the year of at least $4 a share, with chances favoring a somewhat better figure.

Considerable strength was displayed by the utility group with a number of advances of more than a point. American Telephone and Telegraph, selling ex-rights, sold up nearly 6 points, while Electric Power and Light, American and Foreign Power, Public Service of New Jersey, and other notables of the division improved their ratings 1⅛ to more than 2 points each.

Among Volatile Issues.

Among the more volatile issues, Case Threshing Machine moved up 12⅛ points, recovering its loss of yesterday and having a small margin to spare. Diamond Match advanced 9⅛, and Eastman Kodak 4⅛ points.

Responding to the same character buying which has asserted itself at various intervals since the turn of the year, American Tobacco issues pushed into new high territory for all time. This company, judging from recent statistics on cigaret and cigar production, is getting by far the greater portion of the new business developing.

MAJESTIC STOCK STILL HEADLINER IN TRADING HERE

Off 15 Points on Chicago Stock Exchange.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A sharp decline of 15 points in the speculative favorite, Majestic Household, and a sensational rise of 34½ points in Great Lakes Dredge were the features of a moderately busy trading day on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Great Lakes scored its gain on transactions of a bare 350 shares.

It was a field day for the shorts in Majestic. Profit taking weighed heavily on the issue from the start and the price touched 52¾ in its downward course, swinging back up to 54 before the close. Hesitancy of traders to stay short overnight helped the stock make its last minute rally. Traders short the stock were gesticulating even after the gong sounded attempting to cover their commitments. It was apparent that few were betting on what the stock would do today.

Borg-Warner Cuts Dividend.

Borg-Warner slipped off to 33¾ on active trade, but turned up before the close and was off only a fraction at the close. The action of directors in reducing the dividend, which came after the close of the market, had been discounted previously to a great extent.

The directors voted a quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common stock, placing the issue on a $3 annual dividend basis as compared with the former annual rate of $4 a share.

C. S. Davis, president, said that directors believe the new rate is conservative and can be maintained without disturbing the corporation's financial position. Net earnings of the company for April, he stated, amounted to $530,719, equivalent to 41 cents a share on the common stock. This brings net profit for four months to $1,625,748, after all charges, including taxes, which is equivalent to $1.25 a share. Mr. Davis said that the company had current assets as of April 30 of $19,450,223 and current liabilities of $4,515,865.

Confirm Reports.

Among the utility stocks Western Continental Utilities was strong with confirmation of reports that controlling interest in the company will be acquired by the Byllesby interests. Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line moved up to 34⅝ and Central Public Service of Delaware jumped 7 on light sales.

Of the miscellaneous shares modest gains were made by Merchants and Manufacturers and Winton Engine. U. S. Gypsum was soft. Grigsby sold down in sympathy with the trend in Majestic and closed off 2 points net.

Ontario Manufacturing dipped about 1½, reflecting the action of directors in reducing the dividend rate from $3 to $2 annually by the declaration of a regular quarterly payment of 50 cents.

Philip Morris.

Will you kindly give me information on stock of Philip Morris, listed on New York exchange?—H. A. H.

Philip Morris & Co., Ltd., Inc., was formed in 1919, acquiring the business of a predecessor company which had been dissolved. The present company owns no real estate and does not operate factories. It sells cigarets which are manufactured for it by Stephano Brothers and Continental Tobacco company. In 1926 Philip Morris Consolidated, Inc., was organized to consolidate, through exchange of stock, Philip Morris & Co., Ltd., Inc., and Continental Tobacco company. About 37 per cent of the outstanding stock is owned by Philip Morris Consolidated and about 19 per cent by United Cigar Stores of America.

In each of the six fiscal years up to March 31, 1929, Philip Morris & Co. reported increased earnings. Net profit for the year ended March 31, 1929, was $477,546, equal to $1.18 per share on 415,465 shares of capital stock [par $10]. Earnings in the two preceding years had been $1.06 per share and 99 cents per share.

For the year ended March 31, 1930, net profit was $426,433, or $1.03 per share, barely enough to cover the $1 annual dividend rate, which has been in effect since April 16, 1928.

The lower earnings in the year just ended were said to be the result of heavy advertising expenses for a new cigaret. For the six months ended Sept. 30, 1929, net profit was $263,339, or 63 cents per share, an increase of 18 per cent over net income of $223,237 reported in the corresponding months of the year before.

The stock is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Pure Gold Mines.

I have in my possession stock certificates which were issued to a party years ago from a company called Pure Gold Mines company, incorporated under the laws of Arizona. Will you please advise me to whom I can write to find out whether or not such a company is in existence?—F. R. W.

Pure Gold Mines company was incorporated in Arizona June 4, 1904.

No reports have been filed by this company since 1904 and its charter was forfeited several years ago.

The price of this stock in 1905 was about 3 cents.

Houston Gulf Gas.

Will you please advise on Houston Gulf Gas company first 6s, due in 1943?—Mrs. K. O. C.

They are somewhat speculative.

Hogs, $10.25; average, $9.75.
Cattle—Estimated receipts at Chicago today: 500 calves and 1,800 hogs, and 3,000 sheep.

Hogs featured the hog market Saturday and prices advanced 10@25c, packers and underweights scoring the gain on strong eastern support. Packers bought 40 per cent of total receipts and only pen holders got a few lots held off the market and estimated left at the close.

The extreme top advanced 20c at $10.30 with 5c of the highest since early March. The general average gained $10@15 and shows 25c advance for the middle of the week. Local interest lacked away when prices moved up, but were unable to reverse the trend of the market. Shortage at eastern markets has broadened shipping demand here. Receipts at the eleven leading markets this week, with one exception, are below any corresponding week in more than 15 years and 100,000 below the three year averages.

Hog Futures Stronger.

The hog futures market held firm with previous day's price gains, and in some showed additional slight advances. Mediums for next September were up $10.25 were 5c higher and closed the highest of the month for the week. Light weights were bid 10@15c lower, but $10.60 was the lowest offer at the close.

Only light carried bids of $10.25, with the exception of heavy grades for May and June delivery, no bids were below the $10.00 line yesterday. Quotations "to arrive" market bids of $10.40 were plentiful on lightweights and $10.35 on mediums. Light were generally offered at $10.65, mediums at $10.60, and heavy at $10.25 for next Monday and Wednesday delivery.

Yesterday's meager supply of 2,000 head brought firm prices, the kinds available showing gains of 25@50c, compared with last week's close. The weighty beeves were absent. The last here averaged 1,192 lbs, and sold at $13.60 with the bulk at $10.50@12.50. Few yearlings were good enough to sell above $11.00.

Butcher stock showed the week's gain. Calves were unchanged and sold steady with a week ago. Stockers and feeders were firm.

Spring Lambs Advance.

Prices of 15@25c were scored in spring lambs yesterday, selected natives in city butchers ranging upwards of $12.00, with a small lot to a Greek at $12.50. Aged shorn lambs made up bulk of offerings and sold at about steady prices.

Prices for 84 lb averages topped the market at $10.25, while bulk sold at $10@10.15, 92 lb. averages at the same figure. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and unchanged. Feeding lambs sold steady.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 9,000 hogs and 4,000 sheep, against 544 cattle, 7,712 hogs and 4,922 sheep the previous Saturday and 128 cattle, 6,048 hogs, and 3,000 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago next Monday are estimated from 38,000 to 40,000. H. Pattison marked 1,000, F. Knutsen, 39,000; E. Hubbard, 40,000; C. Southwick and J. T. Brown, 42,000; J. M. Waters, 44,000; S. and F. Gehrmann and G. W. Chandler, 45,000; W. T. Reneker, 48,000; W. White and A. G. Welhener, 50,000; C. Carlson, 52,000; F. M. Sherwood, 100; R. W. Trotter, 56,000; and H. Fox, 60,000.
